LAST RITES.
The Rev. M. J. Murphy will probably give the last rites of the church to the men.

AIR PERIL BRINGS GUARD

Controversy that marked the landing of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Bettis Field, McKeesport, and which was reported to have been carried to the War Department, is expected to result in stricter precautions for the safety of the transatlantic hero for the remainder of his tour.

While Lindbergh was given the best police protection in Pittsburgh that he has ever experienced, his protection in the air here was declared to have been woefully inadequate. When Lindbergh landed at Bettis Field several local planes were in the air, which put the flier in real danger.

The difficulties of landing on a field surrounded by crowds, despite the efficiency and experience of Lindbergh in such landings, were heightened by the menace in the air. Upon Lindbergh's arrival, Donald G. Keyhoe, Department of Commerce representative and business manager of the national tour, strenuously objected to

FOOLS SLEUTHS ONCE TOO OFTEN; HE'S HELD

Repeated false reports of shootings at Beltey street, Penn township, this morning, caused county detectives to take Herbert Dunn, occupant of the house, into custody on a charge of drunkenness. Three times within the last two months county detectives were summoned to the residence and on each occasion found domestic quarrels in progress.

CHANNEL SWAM BY CLERK

DOVER, England, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—E. H. Temme, English swimmer, succeeded today in the first attempt of the season to swim the English Channel. Taking off from Cape Gris-Nez at 12:42 o'clock this morning, Temme landed two miles west of Dover.

The London insurance clerk is captain of the Cornhill Swimming Club.

BIG FELLOW

Temme has thrice won the Essex long-distance championship. He is 22 years old, 6 feet 2½ inches tall and weighs 205 pounds.

He used the trudgeon stroke. The water was warm and the sea calm when he entered the Channel.

Temme missed the record, held by Georges Michel, a Frenchman, by 3 hours and 24 minutes.

Mrs. Clemington (Mlle. Gade) Corson, of New York, who last year became the second woman to swim the Channel, and who now is training for a crossing from England, witnessed the last stage of Temme's swim.

Temme's time, as computed by representatives of Lloyds, was 14 hours 27 minutes. This is four minutes faster than Gertrude Ederle's time last year.

ASK COURTS FOR VARE BALLOTS

International News Service Wire.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The local courts of Pennsylvania will be asked to impound all ballots cast in the 1926 senatorial election, to be used in a recount in the Vare-Wilson senatorial contest, under an agreement reached today at a conference between the principals.

A request for impounding the ballots will be sent to the president-judge of the Common Pleas Court in each county of Pennsylvania where the ballots have not been seized. This appeal will have the indorsement of Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican, and William B. Wilson, Democrat, who has contested Vare's election. It will not apply to Philadelphia, Allegheny or Delaware counties, where possession of the ballots has already been obtained.

Aldridge Pitches

Vic Aldridge, Pirate righthander, was Manager Bush's choice for mound duty in the final battle with the Phils at Forbes Field this afternoon.

Alex Ferguson, former American Leaguer, was expected to work for the Quakers.

Tomorrow the New York Giants make their second appearance of the season at Forbes Field.

RANKIN MAN SLAIN BY SHOTGUN

Sawed-off shotguns of rival Blackhand gangs, which have terrorized the Pittsburgh district for three months, haev blazed again, this time in Rankin, to rekindle fires of a feud which had lulled, police and county detectives declared today, after investigation of the murder of Peter Natoro, 39, of 106 Miller street, Rankin.

Natoro was slain last night as

NOTE HERE THREATENS TO AVENGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A threat to "blow up some of you big boys" if Sacco and Vanzetti are not freed was received at the Supreme Court today.

It was written on a post card mailed at 4 p. m. yesterday in the North Side station, Pittsburgh. It was signed "E. J. K."

The note read:

"Free Sacco and Vanzetti. If there is any more trouble in our ranks, there going to blow up some of you big boys."

Matter such as the postcard sent out of Pittsburgh to the Supreme Court is "unmailable." It is marked as such and returned to writer, if return address is given, or turned over to postal inspectors. Had North Side clerks noticed the message on the postcard, it never would have left Pittsburgh.

OTHER THREATS

Recently, at North Side Staion, several cards have been intercepted and held up. They were "threats" addressed to President Coolidge and other government officials.

the field authorities and Capt. Thomas J. Voss, commandant of Rodgers Field, who had been asked to send several "ships" to Bettis Field for the occasion.

WAR OFFICE TOLD

Keyhoe demanded the names of the fliers, it was reported, and was told to inquire of the War Department. He later wired to Washington, according to a reliable authority, and as a result Maj. P. J. Lanphier, commander of the First Air Corps Reserve, flew here from Selfridge Field, Detroit, and conferred with Lindbergh and Keyhoe at the William Penn Hotel.

When Lindbergh took off for Wheeling yesterday Maj. Lanphier accompanied him.

The last act of Lindbergh here evidenced that the lack of protection in the air was in direct contrast to that afforded him on the ground. As he climbed into the Spirit of St. Louis he called Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh and shook hands with him again, saying, "I want to thank you again for the excellent police protection given in Pittsburgh. It has been the best 'we' have received anywhere—Paris, Brussels, London or on this tour. 'We' were mobbed to a greater or less degree everywhere."

NOT TOO STRONG

Keyhoe, who was standing near by, declared, "Yes, Colonel, and you can't make that too strong."

A gracious act of Lindbergh before leaving Pittsburgh yesterday was his flight northward, miles out of his course to Wheeling to circle and dip low over the United States Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall. The 175 patients there had an excellent view of the famous "We."

conferences in the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were in full swing today the possibility loomed that all court avenues looking to a stay of execution had been closed.

Four months have elapsed since the Supreme Court denied exceptions, and under an act of the Congress of 1916 an appeal for a review must be filed within three months.

GUARD DOUBLED

The question arose as to the likelihood of the state courts considering a motion for a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence unearthed by the Gov. Fuller review.

While legal phases of the case were under discussion, the police guard at state's prison was doubled. Warden William Hendry denied reports that he had received threats of death and violence to the institution. The warden will be the official to give the signal for the executioner to switch on the electricity to the death chair.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 5—(AP.)—Violent outbursts on the part of radical elements, and the calling of general strikes and mass meetings have followed the receipt in Argentina of the news of Gov. Fuller's decision not to extend executive clemency to Sacco and Vanzetti.

Advices from Rosario say that several American firms have asked police protection as a consequence of disorders there yesterday, in the course of which the windows of some trade establishments were broken. Several arrests were made. The afternoon newspapers of Rosario did not appear. The police of Rosario are said to be in readiness to cope with any emergency.

A general strike lasting 48 hours was called to begin today.

NICE, France, Aug. 5.—United States Consul Otis Glazebrook has received two letters threatening to blow up the building which house the United States consulate.

Spurned, Girl Artist Kills Man and Self

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Unrequited love was held by the police today to have caused Betty M. Gottlieb, 25, to slay Hamilton W. Mannon, 26, movie studio official, and then fire a fatal bullet into her own head while the two sat in a parked automobile about midnight.

Mannon was dead with a bullet in the brain when the police were called by persons who heard the shooting. Miss Gottlieb was slumped in her seat beside Mannon, a bullet wound in the head and a pistol in her right hand. She died later in an emergency hospital.

The police reported that Albert D'Agnostino, an associate of Mannon's in the Technical Arts Studio of which the slain man was vice president, told them the couple had been much in each other's company for over a year but that recently Mannon had endeavored to end the friendship.

D'Agnostino said that, recently Miss Gottlieb had been making telephone calls to Mannon at the studio at all hours of the day. He declared she had used every means she could to retain Mannon's friendship.

The police said Miss Gottlieb apparently had an independent income but worked frequently as a retouch artist in a commercial studio as a pastime.

KING BACK NEXT WEEK TO PUSH VICE FIGHT

After a three weeks' vacation in the West, William L. King, executive secretary of the Citizens' League, is expected back in Pittsburgh the first of next week to complete legal preparations for the prosecution of liquor and gambling cases built up by league evidence.

A score of defendants are held on vice charges for action by the September grand jury and an equal number are under bond on indictments returned by the June grand jury. Since King left on his vacation, league activities have been at a standstill.

Among those against whom true bills will be sought are Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh, Jakie Klein, and "Dopey" Davis, whom King accuses of plotting to blackmail him; four Pittsburgh policemen, and alleged proprietors and employes of gambling joints and "speakeasies."

Six city policemen, including Capt Daniel Ambrose and Lieut. Nuncie Marino, are among those held for court.

Blackhand-Bootleg Toll Here Heavy

Checkered violence, spotted with death, a Black Hand bootleg vendetta has gripped the Pittsburgh underworld.

Police lay the epidemic of shotgun murder of the past few months at the door of this feud.

The first death credited to Blackhanders via the shotgun route came in 1924, when Peter Dominico was killed in front of his home in Universal.

In 1925, Sam Santori died in Rankin, his body riddled with shotgun slugs as he returned to his home after a dance.

CONSTABLE SLAIN

December 12, 1926, Harry Davenport, "Raiding Constable," of Wilmerding, chief of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, was slain as he was about to enter his home. A shotgun was used by the killer.

Louis Lamendola, a restaurant keeper, of 27 Chatham street, and known as the "Bootleg Boss of the Hill," was called to the door of his eating place May 29, 1927. A parked automobile suddenly sped away from the curb and Lamendola joined the ranks of the "shotgun dead."

Less than a month later, June 16, a curtained automobile dashed past another machine parked in front of 8126 Frankstown avenue. From the passing car came the snout of a sawed-off shotgun. The windshield and windows of the parked car were riddled. Frank Manna, 37, of 321 North St. Clair street, and James Rastanti, 21, of 717 Edmond street, occupants of the parked machine, received only minor wounds.

PAYS DEATH PRICE

And last night in Rankin, Peter Natero, 39, of 106 Miller street, an underworld character long suspected by police as a Blackhander and bootlegger, paid the price of his profession as he talked with two friends before a Miller street poolroom. A car drew up to the curb, the curtains parted, a shotgun barked and the car sped away as Natoro died.

All these resulted from the Blackhand-bootleg feud, police investigators of the killings, say.

STORK SOON TO VISIT JAPAN ROYAL FAMILY

TOKIO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The happy family event, which the Emperor and Empress and the entire Imperial household have been eagerly awaiting, is said to be expected to take place about August 20. Nabs Couple Speeding To Wed, Frees 'Em

Compliments of the Wilkinsburg Borough Police Department today speeded fleeing elopers, arrested for reckless driving, on their way to Cumberland.

"You're a prince and we'll name our first boy for you," the bridegroom-to-be shouted as he drove hurriedly away from Motorcycle Patrolman Adam Fornoff with apprehensive glances behind for the bride-to-be's pursuing mother.

Fornoff chased and stopped the machine, which was traveling rapidly in Penn avenue. A sign, "Not Responsible for Driver's Actions," blazed across the back of the car.

Hurried explanations failed. The officer solemnly prepared a tag. The Lochinvar took it angrily, then smiled, laughed, and pulled away.

Written across the face of the tag was: "Compliments of the Wilkinsburg Police Department." Fornoff didn't ask names.

BLACKHAND SEEN IN MURDER

he sat in front of a poolroom at 38 Miller street.

NINE WOUNDS

The curtains parted. A double-barrelled sawed-off shotgun blazed. Natoro, nine gaping holes in his chest, pitched forward on the sidewalk, dead, as his friends took terror-stricken flight.

The gun was hurled to the gutter a short distance up the street as the automobile gathered speed and disappeared into the night.

VENDETTA SEEN

The automobile carried no license plates, Jordan and the county detectives were told.

Investigators have no doubt that a Blackhand vendetta is at the back of the death.

They pointed out that two of his closest friends have met violent deaths in the past three years, each riddled with the charge of a shotgun from a passing car.

Peter Dominico, of Universal, pal and confidante of Natoro, was murdered in front of his home three years ago, according to the county detectives and Jordan. It was common knowledge in the underworld, the investigators averred, that he died at the hands of Blackhanders. The killers have not been found.

STRING OF KILLINGS

Two years ago Sam Santori and Natore, then bosom companions, took Benny Carsol, an East End restauteur, to Braddock.

They brought Carsol back to the East End in the morgue wagon, his heart and throat slit.

Two months later another shotgun roared in Braddock as Santori was returning home from a dance. "Another Black Hand revenge," whispered the underworld.

Eventually the killing of Carsol was linked with the gang that perpetrated the now-famous West Virginia killings. The killers never were brought to justice in the Carsol murder, for seven were convicted of another murder in a Black Hand feud in West Virginia, and died on the gallows at the Moundsville prison.

So now it is Natore.

PLAN TO RETAKE AIR RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—G. M. Bellanca, airplane designer and builder, announced today that plans are under way for a flight in a new Bellanca plane, to be piloted by Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flyer, to recapture the world's endurance record.

Mr. Bellanca designed the plane with which Chamberlin and Bert Acosta established the previous record of 51 hours, 11 minutes and 25 seconds, which was broken today by the Junker W-33 in Germany.

Informed of the Junker's record, Mr. Bellanca said:

"I am confident we will bring the record back to America. I am building 10 planes, embodying new features, and I hope to get Chamberlin to pilot one of them in another endurance flight."

RAID VICTIM HELD ON ATTACK CHARGE

Raiders, on July 30, confiscated a 175-gallon still and 60 gallons of moonshine.

PLANE RECORD BROKEN BY GERMANS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 5.—Using the same airplane in which they will attempt a non-stop flight to the United States, German Aviators Johann Ristics and Cornelius Edzard established a new world duration record for airplanes today.

Setting out on Wednesday morning the airmen flew continuously in their Junkers plane, Europa, until 10:11:08 o'clock this morning, making a new record of 52 hours 22 minutes and 8 seconds. The airmen bring the new record to Germany from the United States, beating the former record made earlier in the year over Long Island, N. Y., by Clarence D. Chamberlin and Bert Acosta by about one hour.

Edzard's first request upon landing was for a cigaret.

WORRIES OF JOB BEGIN TO TELL ON COOLIDGE

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 5.—Four years in the White House will test the physical endurance of a heavyweight champion and President Coolidge is beginning to show signs of the strain.

The job which broke Warren G. Harding and Woodrow Wilson has furrowed lines under Mr. Coolidge's eyes and finally robbed him of his phlegmatic disposition. Anyone who was with him through the day yesterday on a trip to Deadwood could discern through pallor of his smile an indication of the relief which his renunciation of the throne of the Republican party has brought to him.

He is not sick, but he is tired and he will be glad when March 4, 1929 will bring him rest. His color is not good and his general appearance, as compared with few months ago, indicates he has had some sleepless nights.

But to even a casual observer Mr. Coolidge's personal appearance is noticeably altered. He has betrayed signs of impatience such as when he, without apparent cause, dismissed a secret service man recently and when he argued with Mrs. Coolidge before newspapermen and photographers later.

ELECTION FIGHT FACES LEGION

YORK, Pa., Aug. 5.—The fight for the post of department commander of the American Legion of Pennsylvania today apparently centered around three men.

The three principals in the fight for the honor now held by Col. Robert B. Vail of Wilkes-Barre are Lieut. Frank Schobel, Jr., of Jenkintown; J. H. Thompson of Upper Darby and E. E. Hollenback of Post 315, Philadelphia.

Schobel, it is said, has the indorsement of the ninth district of the department, composed of Montgomery and Bucks counties, while Hollenback has been pledged the 118 delegates representing the Legion posts in Philadelphia.

Rabbi Herman Berk of Pottsville was chosen chaplain by acclamation at the convention today.

DR. ORR OWNS LAND, BOOKS SHOW

The 15-foot strip of land 50 feet long occupied by the Rev. J. Alvin Orr, militant president of the Allegheny County Citizens' League, as a driveway and claimed by several of his neighbors to be city property was sold by city ordinance July 17, 1902, to Dr. Orr for $450, an investigation of city records today revealed.

When council decided March 21, 1902, to eliminate Derry street, in the rear of Dr. Orr's home, 2 Watson avenue, a parcel of land equivalent to half the width of Derry street and equal to the width of the Orr property legally came into the possession of Dr. Orr.

Subsequently, council passed a measure selling to Dr. Orr a piece of land "from Marshall's line to Clark road," a plot which the complaining neighbors claim is city property.

PARIS CELEBRATES GIRAFFE CENTURY

Paris—Paris is celebrating a new centenary this year—that of the giraffe. Some interested zoologists discovered that it was just 100 years ago, in 1827, that the first giraffe came to the zoo at the Jardin des Plantes.

History records that the arrival of the giraffe moved Paris as few things had since the French Revolution. Thousands waited hours in line to get a glimpse of the animal. Even the styles of the day were affected by the giraffe. There were giraffe robes, giraffe neckties, and coats made of material printed to imitate giraffe skin.

FEWER TOURISTS VISIT PARIS MARKETS

Paris.—The famous onion soup squad is dwindling. The little gang of tireless tourists who invade the Paris public market at dawn to breakfast on onion soup after a night in Montmartre, means less work for the police now than at this time last season.

MY KITCHEN NOTEBOOK

Domestic Science Counselor

If Men Planned the Desserts

I'm inclined to think that if the men of the family planned the desserts, there'd be a big decline in the use of whipped cream and candied cherries, but a corresponding increase in food value.

The trimmings and flourishes which seem to most women so important a part of a dessert are pretty much wasted on the men of the family. Give them good, wholesome food—unadorned—and they are content.

There's a golden opportunity to work into your desserts the extra milk needed to bring each member of the family's quota up to the prescribed quart a day. Custards and milk puddings, bread pudding, blanc mange, caramel tapioca—all of them call for a generous use of milk and add food value to the menu. Today I give a recipe for a delicious Lemon Rice Cream. Made with Carnation Milk, it has a rich creaminess, a smooth delicacy of texture that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal.

How "Homogenization" Helps

Carnation Milk is simply the purest of whole milk, evaporated to double richness and sterilized for safe-keeping. It is also "homogenized"—the cream content broken up into minute particles and distributed throughout the milk, giving every drop its generous double-share of enriching cream. The extra-fine cream particles give an extra-fine, smooth texture to all foods in which Carnation Milk is used. Soups are richer, sauces creamier, cakes finer textured and better-keeping, ice creams smoother, candies, pies and puddings more delicious because of the use of this better milk.

I want you to give Carnation Milk the severest test—compare its results with those you've had using ordinary milk. You'll find it more convenient, more economical, more dependable than milk in any other form. Or if you have confined its use to special dishes which you have discovered are notably delicious made with Carnation, let me help you extend that deliciousness to all your cooking. Let me send you free the Carnation Cook Book—"My Hundred Favorite Recipes." Address Carnation Milk Products Co., 100 Carnation Bldg., Oconomowoc, Wisconsin.

Carnation Lemon Rice Cream

¼ cup rice, 1½ cups Carnation Milk, 1½ cups water, ⅓ cup sugar, grated rind of ½ lemon, 2¼ tbsp. lemon juice, ¾ tsp. salt, 2 eggs, 2 tbsp. powdered sugar, ¼ tbsp. lemon extract. Soak washed rice 1 hour in cold water. Drain; add milk, water, salt; cook in double boiler until rice is soft; add sugar, rind, lemon juice, slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook until thick (about 5 minutes); put in buttered baking dish; cover with meringue of egg whites, powdered sugar, lemon extract; brown in 300° F. oven.

Men Want Real Food

FEWER frills and more "regular" food—that's what most men want. Let Carnation Milk help you to put greater food value into the plain cooking that men like best.

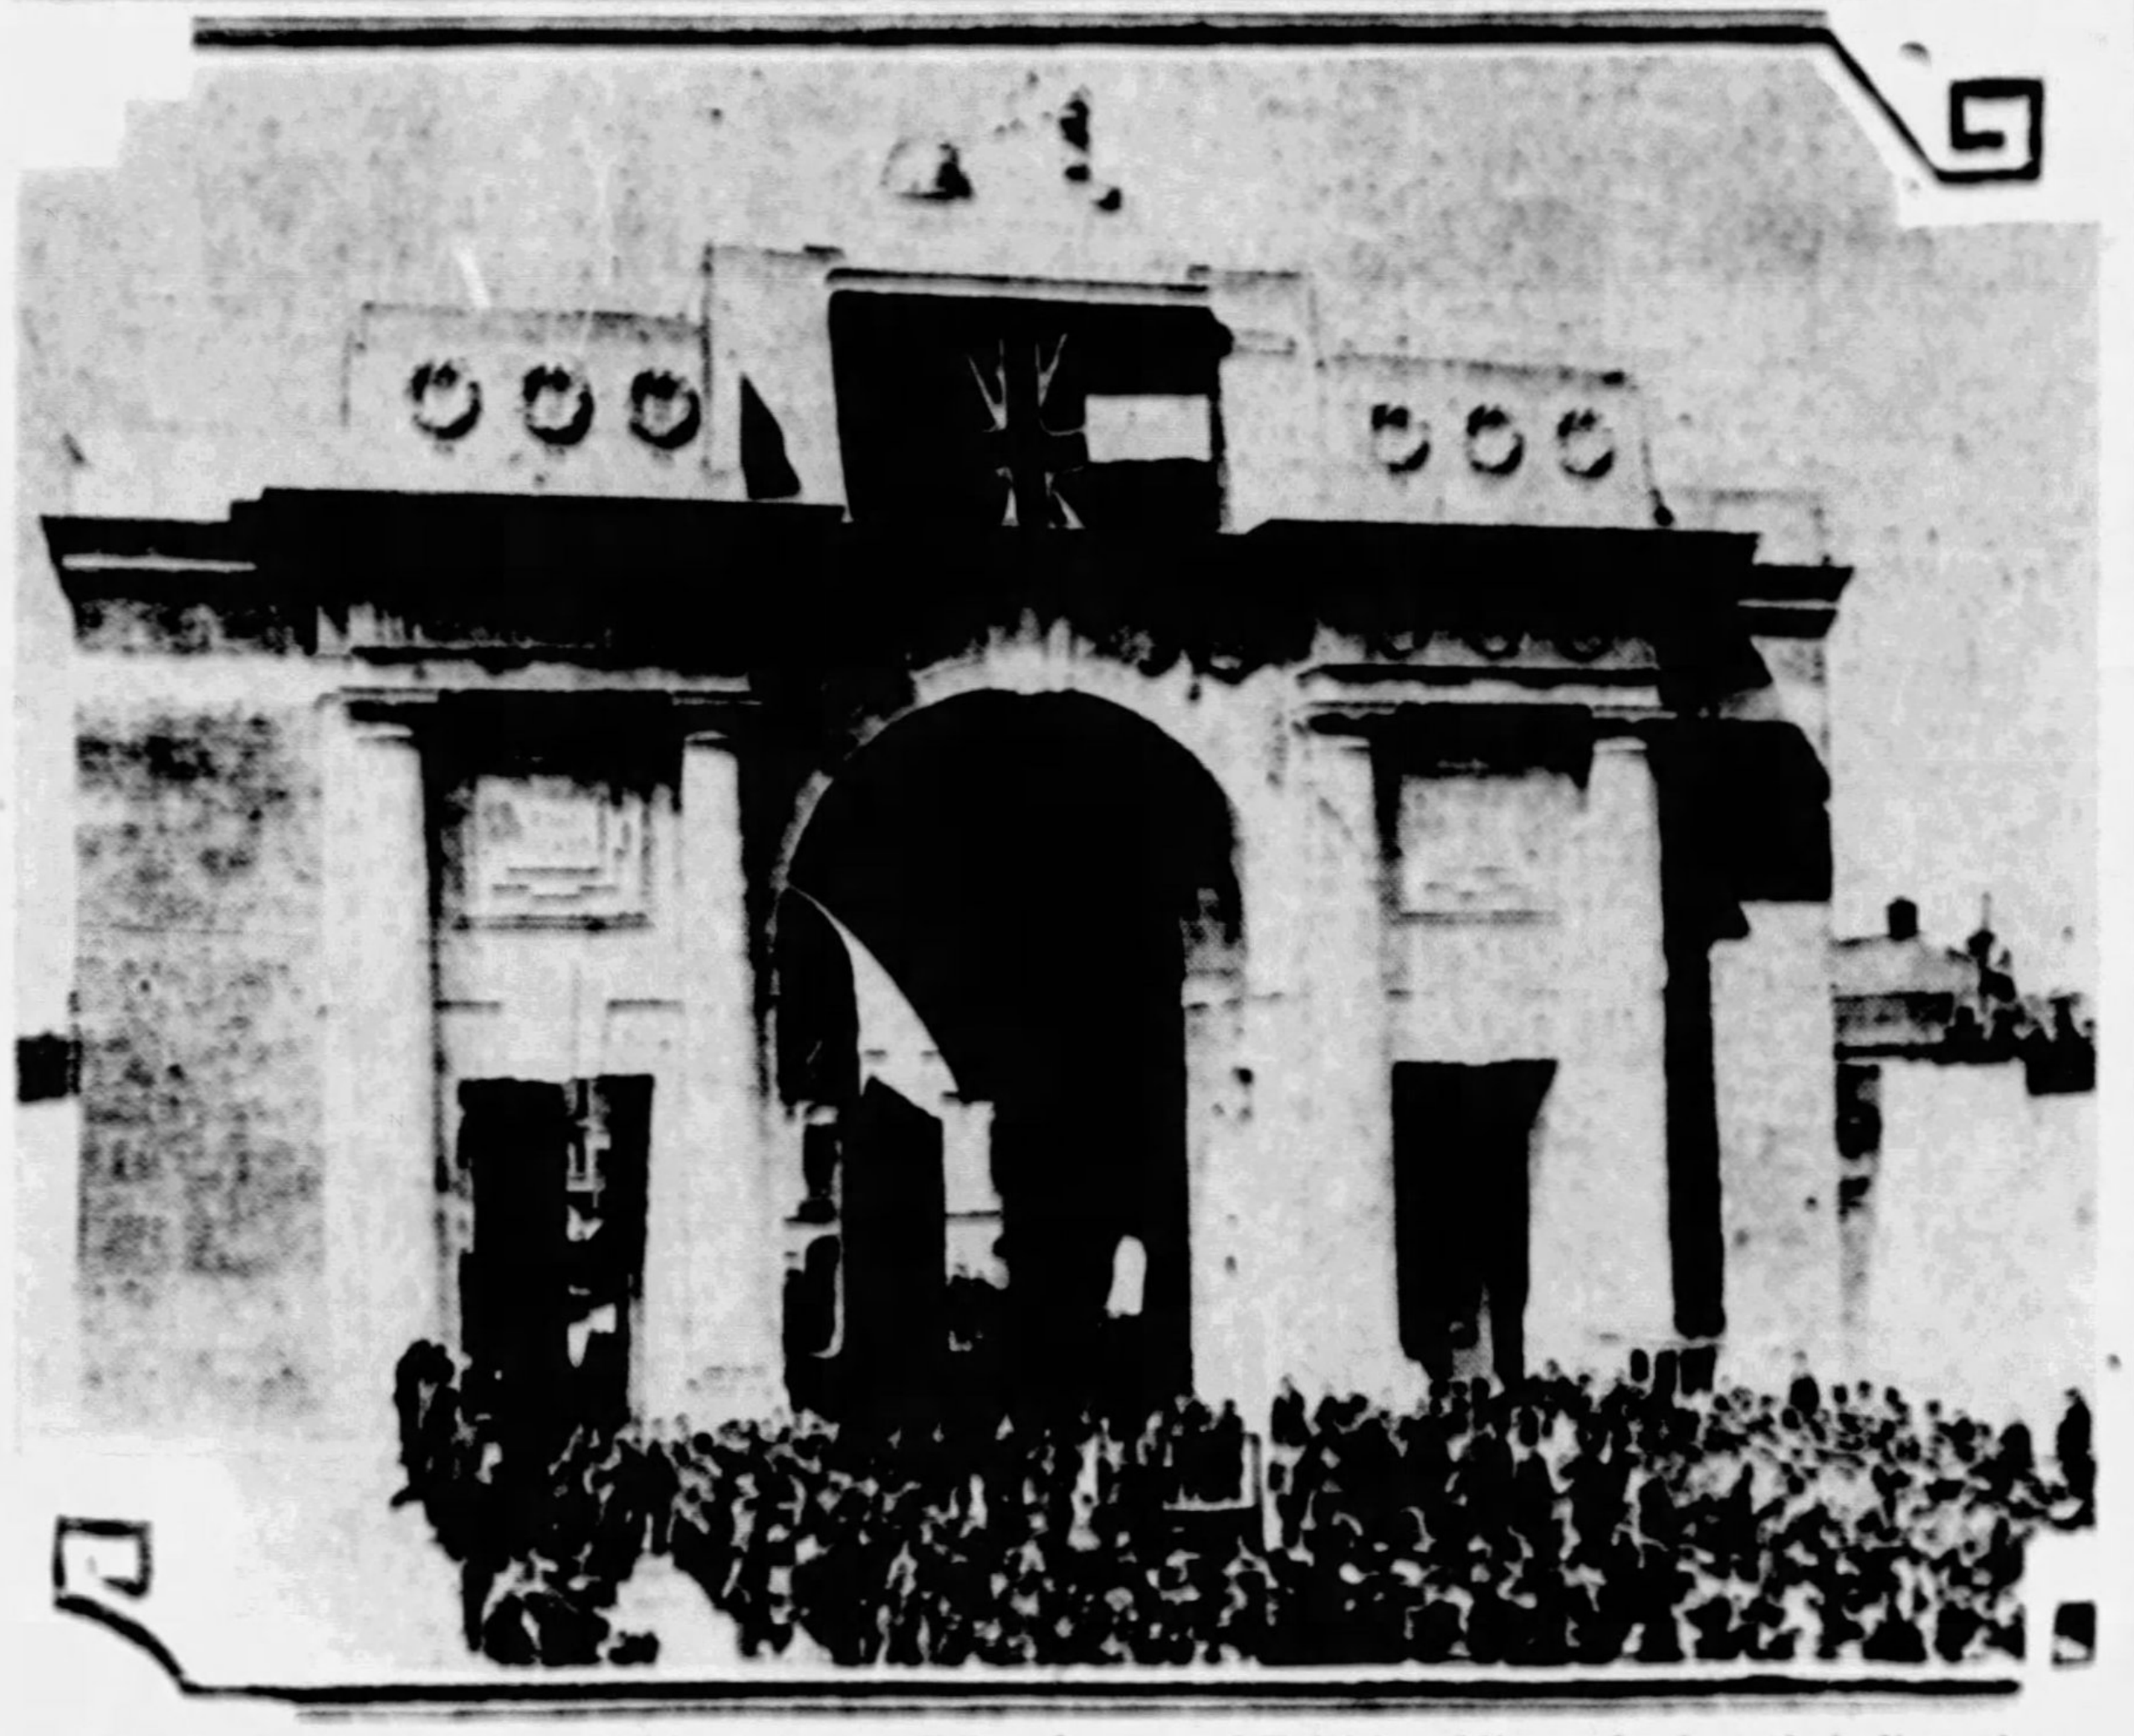
HONOR YPRES UNKNOWN DEAD



Impressive services were held at Ypres, Belgium, at the dedication of the Menin Gate which spans the road over which hundreds of thousands of troops poured into the salient, in memory of British soldiers who lost their lives there and are now buried in unknown graves. The photo shows the dedication exercises in progress at the Menin Gate.

MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH

Rudy Laschek, 45, Birdville, Harrison township, was killed yesterday when caught between two cars in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards near Natrona.

GREEN CAB

MEN WANTED:

Men of 25 years and over who realize that public service means exactly that.

Green Cab Co. wants men who will appreciate an opportunity to become stockholders, as most of our men are.

We want men who have more than two years' driving experience and who understand thoroughly the rights and privileges of pedestrians and auto owners.

We want men with a deep sense of responsibility who will value a permanent, all year round position, where the limit of earnings is determined by yourself.

Come out to 1814 Ellsworth Ave. for a friendly chat.

Boys! Want A Plane? Here's How To Get It

Pittsburgh's future "Lindys," take notice!

All boys of Western Pennsylvania who would like to be aviators and enter the National Aircraft Model contest, may begin today to plan what kind of plane to build for the test. In this issue begins the first article on how to build a plane. Others will follow daily. Along with the illustrations is a copy of the entry blank. Fill it out and send it to Aircraft Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph before August 13—for that is the last day to enter. Or give it to the director of your nearest playground, for the contest here is being conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Bureau of Recreation.

"Lindy"—otherwise Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, is the big boss of the national contest. P. E. Garber is the expert who will tell you how to make your plane.

The final contest will be held in Memphis, Tenn., October 8. The junior group will include boys up to 16 years, the senior those up to 21 years of age.

Today's "How to Build an Airplane" is on page 23.

GAVE WIFE ONLY $10 A WEEK: PRISON FOR HIM

She was given only $10 a week to support her family, Mrs. Anthony Bigdakis, 30, of 1819 Edwards way, testified in Morals Court today. "Well, judge, don't you think that's enough to keep her?" the husband asked Magistrate A. D. Brandon. "Absolutely not," declared Brandon. "At least $50 a month or the workhouse for you." "I'll go to the workhouse," said Bigdakis.

DOCTOR RELATES MURDER STORY

FRANKLIN, LA., Aug. 5—(AP.)—Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, Morgan City physician, was afraid for two years that James M. Lebouef, Utilities Company superintendent, would shoot him at any time, he testified in his own defense at the trial of himself, Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef and James Beadle, on trial for slaying the husband of the accused woman. Threats had been made by Lebouef against his life, the physician said.

Mrs. Lebouef wept while her alleged sweetheart told of events the night of the fatal boat ride. Dr. Dreher said he rowed out Lake Palourde, accompanied by Beadle, after he had received a note and a telephone call from Mrs. Lebouef saying her husband had agreed to meet him in a friendly manner.

As their boat approached Lebouef Dr. Dreher said he hailed the utilities man. Lebouef raised a pistol, Dr. Dreher continued, and fired two shots.

Beadle then grasped the shotgun they had placed in their boat and shot Lebouef, he said.

Mrs. Lebouef was crying when they pulled their boat near hers, he testified. After talking for a while, the physician said, they decided to turn the body over to authorities, but after Mrs. Lebouef had left them he and Beadle agreed that if they gave the body to authorities they would be arrested. Beadle suggested that they bury the body in the lake, and this was done.

PRISON RECORD HELPS HIM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(Universal.)—A former Federal convict, who has spent five years in Atlanta for train robbery, has found his "record" to serve him in good stead here.

Jesse C. Rumsey appeared at a Washington bank last week with a compensation check from the Veterans' Bureau which had been drawn to his order. The banks drawn to his order. The bank would not cash the check without sufficient identification to the payee.

Rumsey appealed to the finger print division of the Department of Justice. His measurements, made during his stay in Atlanta, were on file there.

The bank cashed the check.

U. S.-BRAZIL NON-STOP PLANE OFF FOR SOUTH

DETROIT, Aug. 5—(AP.)—Paul R. Redfern hopped off from the Ford airport here at 9:40 a. m. for Brunswick, Ga., in his Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, the "Port of Brunswick," which he will attempt to fly to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from the southern city, the longest non-stop flight on record. Eddie Stinson, designer of the plane, accompanied Redfern on the flight to Brunswick, a final test.

ACCOSTED WOMEN, FINED

Accused of accosting women, George Veladimiros, 39, of Warren, O., was fined $50 with the choice of 60 days in the workhouse by Magistrate E. M. Hough in the Central Police Court this morning. Ten women complained about him.

Ask for the new 1927 Atlantic ROAD MAP covering Pennsylvania and Delaware. Or write to The Atlantic Refining Company, 260 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, or Chamber of Commerce Building, Pittsburgh.

What is the proper fuel for your car?

Some plain facts for the motorist

TRUST one of the oldest, largest and most progressive refining companies in the country for the answer to the above question.

You'll find it in the new 1927 Atlantic Gasoline—a combination of choice elements from three different types of crude.

There's a scientific reason for this combination.

No one type of crude contains in the highest form all the qualities good gasoline needs.

Atlantic refiners use California crudes for certain qualities. Texas crudes for others. A peculiar petroleum product of the West Virginia gas wells for still others.

Not simply one outstanding quality in Atlantic Gasoline, but the whole range of fuel qualities modern motors require!

There's the quality for easy starting . . . Atlantic has it.

The quality for sure-fire ignition at various throttles and temperature . . . Atlantic has it.

The non-detonating quality . . . Atlantic has it in a measure not excelled in any all-round gasoline on the market.

And, especially important, Atlantic gives you all the power your motor can use. It burns completely . . . you can't beat it for mileage economy and smooth, carbonless combustion.

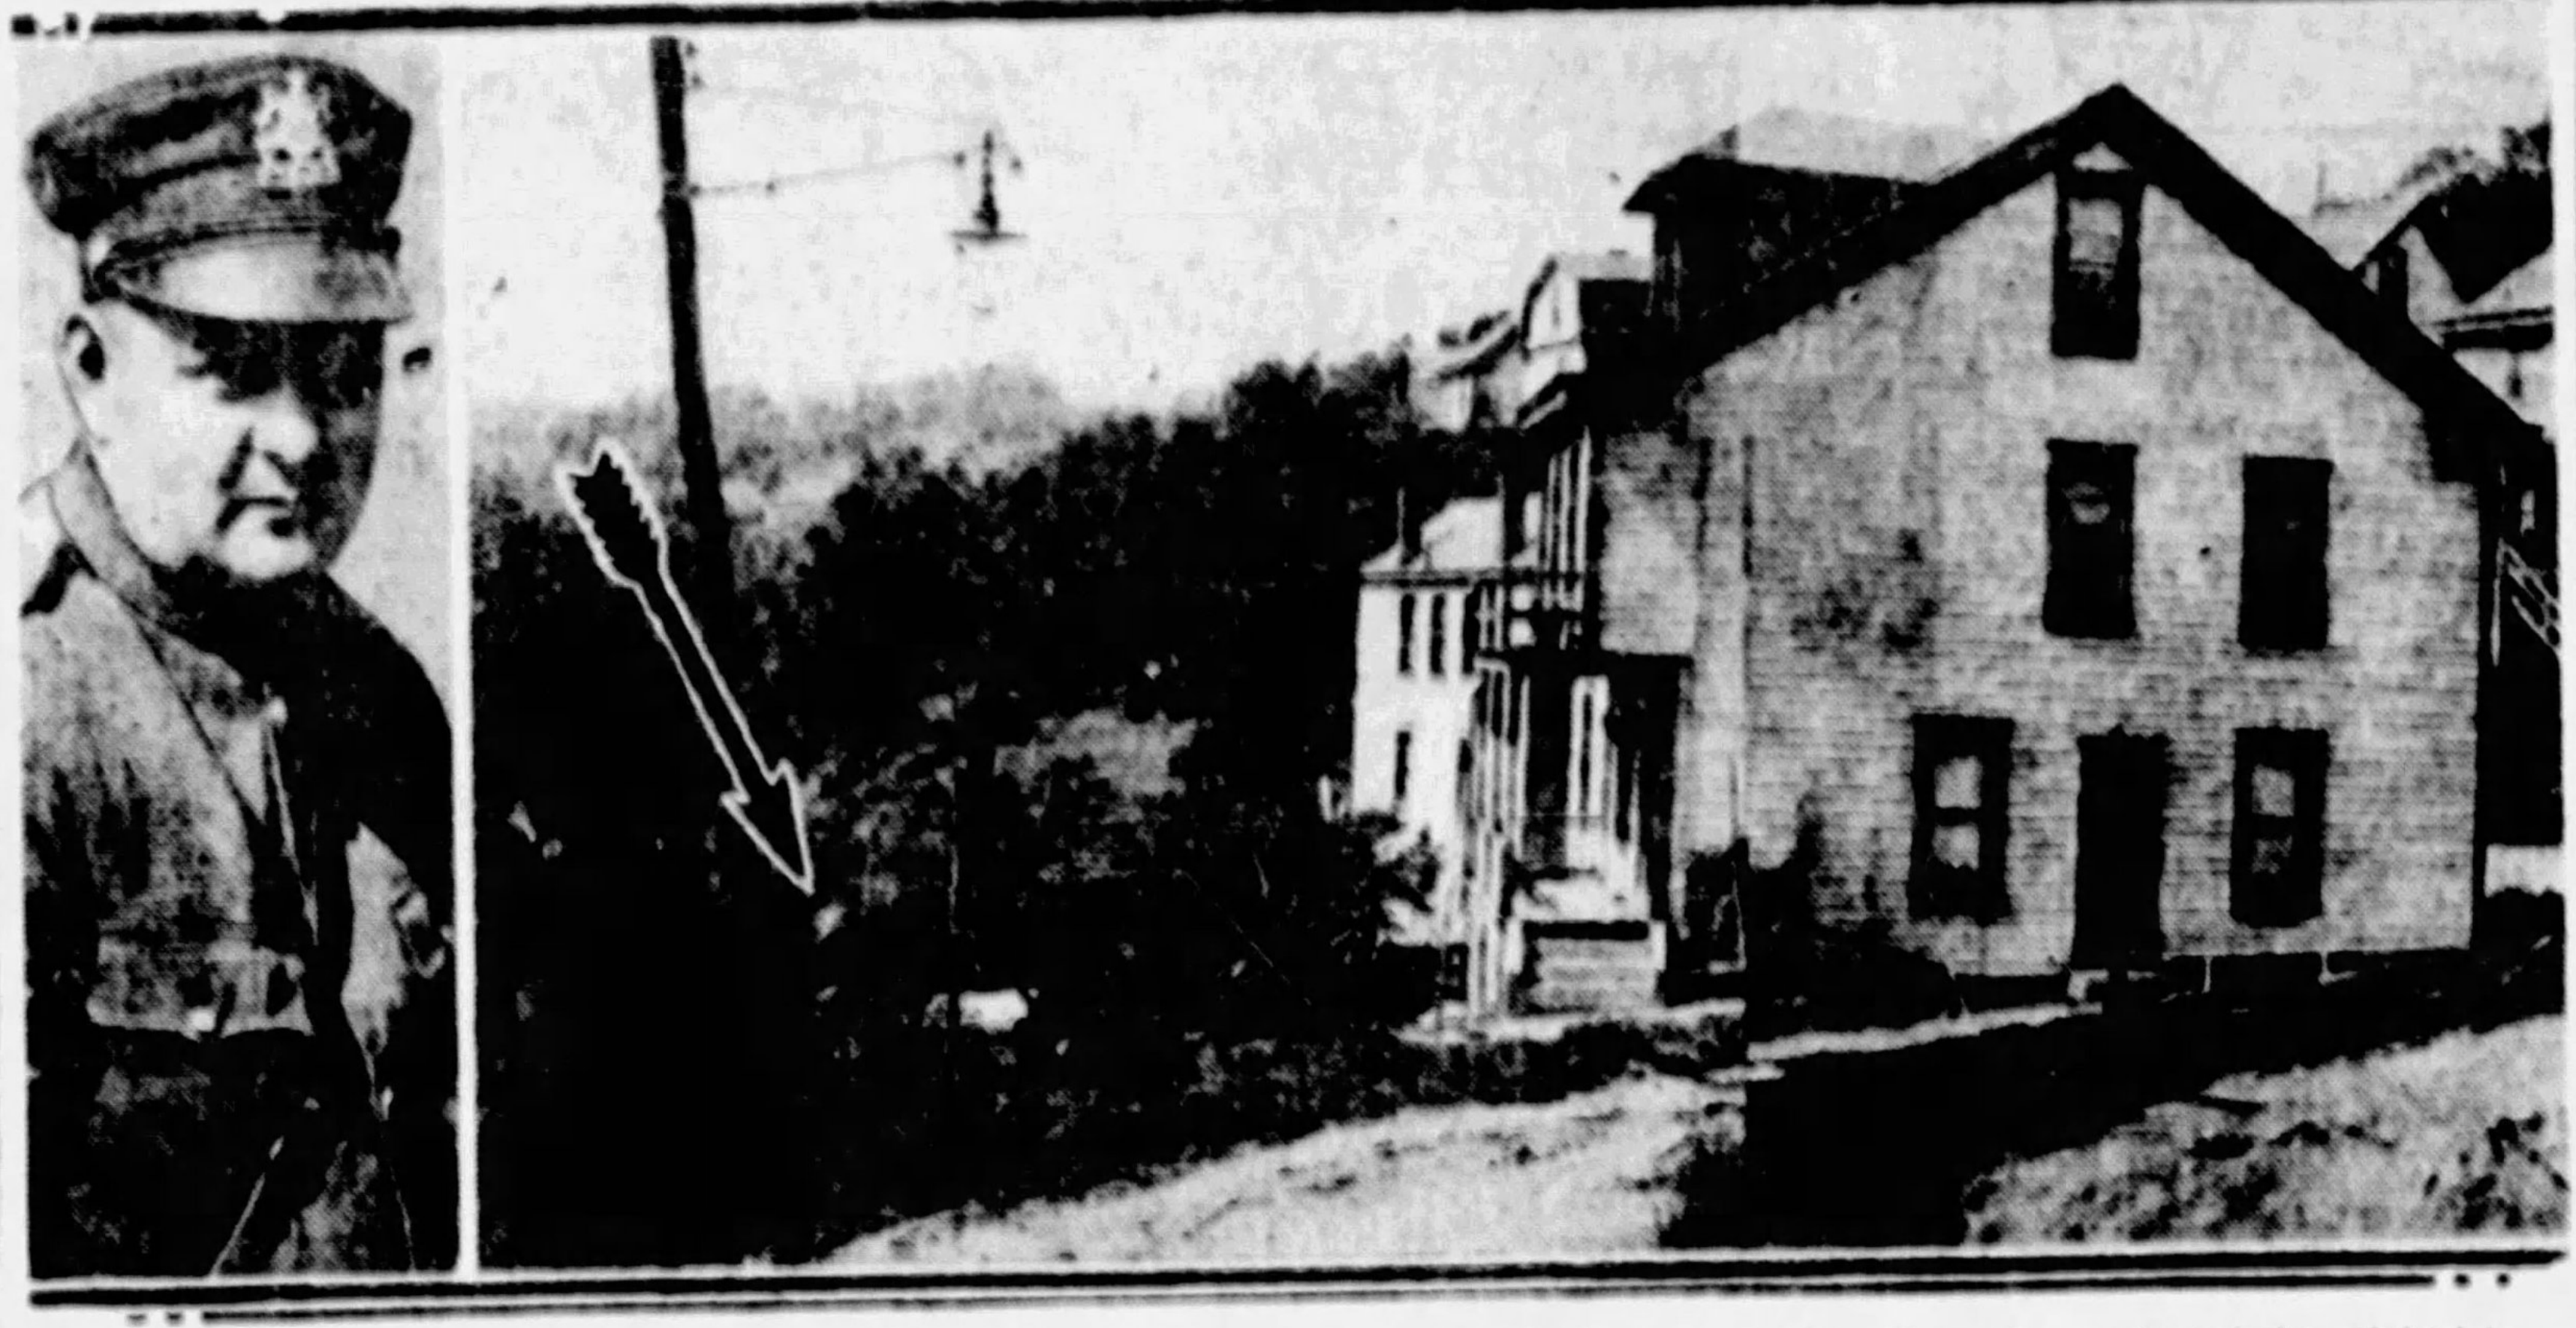
SCENE OF ROSS TOWNSHIP MYSTERY DEATH



At the spot marked by the arrow, Mrs. Sally Calderaro, 80, "Aunt Sally" to Ross township, where she cobbled shoes, was found dead yesterday. She died of natural causes, the morgue physician says. "She was murdered," her relatives answer. Detectives are seeking to decide who is right. At the left is Chief Vernon P. Moses of the Ross township police, who conducted the original investigation of the mystery. At the morgue they found a note in "Aunt Sally's" clothes, saying, "Please tell me who told on the people who made moonshine in my house. You know me, so fear not, I will not tell."

See Murder in Death Of Ross Twp. Woman

"Aunt Sally was murdered!"

That is the view the little Ross township Italian settlement took today of the death of Mrs. Roselia Calderaro, 80, the community cobbler and a woman of reputed wealth.

The body of "Aunt Sally," a neighborhood character for 40 years, was found late yesterday by Palk Singer, a peddler, as he climbed the hillside from Jacks Run road to Luzerne street, some 100 yards from the dead woman's home.

Blood covered the face; four gashes, apparently fingernail cuts, marked the throat along with great black welts, which were believed to be finger imprints.

At the coroner's autopsy Dr. T. H. Helmbold reported the "finger prints" were coagulation of blood beneath the skin, and declared death had been caused by heart failure.

Relatives and friends of the aged woman refused today to abide by this report and requested Vernon P. Moses, chief of Ross township police, to conduct a further investigation.

Mrs. Josephine Solomedro, daughter of the dead woman, told Chief Moses that she and other members of the family felt the lacerations on her mother's face and throat indicated an attack. The family advanced the theory that Mrs. Calderaro was attacked and choked, her heart failing from the shock before actual strangulation, which was believed by officers inspecting the body to have been the cause of death.

Intimation of a bootleg vendetta was contained in a note found pinned to "Aunt Sally's" underskirt and offered a possible motive for the supposed attack, Chief Moses said.

The note read:

"Please tell me who told on the people that made moonshine in my house. You know me. Fear not, I will not tell!"

HUNTING FOR MOTHER

AIDING IN SEARCH

Samuel Snell, Jr., son of a wealthy Philadelphia produce merchant, was in Pittsburgh Thursday aiding city detectives in their search for his mother, who disappeared from her home in the Quaker City Monday. Just before her disappearance, her son told detectives, Mrs. Snell withdrew $1,000 from her bank account. The last trace of the missing woman was at West Chester, where she gasolined her car and told an attendant she was driving to Pittsburgh, detectives said.

BREATH TESTER FOR DRUNKS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 5.—When the town drunkard stumbles into City Court on Monday morning, just recovering from his Saturday night spree, and protests that he had "only a few drops," science can determine how truthful he is.

A breath tester, which is said to determine the amount of alcohol actually present in the tissue of human beings, has been offered to Indiana authorities by Dr. Rolla N. Harger, professor of analytical chemistry at the Indiana University School of Medicine.

BOY BITES MAN SAVING LIFE

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 5.—Dr. G. C. Kasdorf will carry tooth mark scars on his right hand the remainder of his life, the result of saving the life of James Johnson, 12, of Porter. The boy had choked on a bit of apple which had lodged in his esophagus and had lapsed into unconsciousness when the physician arrived.

The physician did not take time to prepare surgical instruments, but plunged his fingers into the boy's throat, extracted the cause of the trouble and was in the act of withdrawing his hand when consciousness returned to the victim and a set of strong teeth crunched down on the doctor's hand. It was some time before the boy let go.

Brioschi! That's the Drink That Keeps My Stomach FIT

Sparkling, delicious effervescence that rids you quickly of acid stomach

ACID stomach was the bane of my life. I was uncomfortable, cranky and continually distressed until I found this delicious, satisfying drink that has been famous in Europe since 1880. It is called Brioschi (pronounced Bree-osky), and is the most pleasant way to keep your digestive tract sweet and clean. It quickly corrects acidity, stops indigestion and is slightly laxative when taken in the morning before breakfast.

Brioschi is in the form of appetizing, pure white crystals that immediately foam and sizzle when poured into a half-glass of cold water. You'll like the taste of this delightful, effervescent drink and the way it will quickly correct acid conditions will astonish you.

Take Brioschi every morning and no longer will you feel like a "stuffed shirt" after each meal. Your tongue will be clean and sweet, and you'll marvel at the change in your disposition.

In Italy they drink Brioschi as we drink charged water or sodas, and besides the pleasure of a good drink they obtain the benefits of the world's best antacid. 75c the large can of 24 drinks at all Italian stores, your favorite druggist or any of the May Drug Stores.

Harold Lloyd Offers Famous 'Specs' For Title

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5—Picture producers again are turning to the public for advice and assistance.

Not many months ago Samuel Goldwyn put up a cash prize for a story suggestion; more recently Jesse Lasky appealed to the wide world for help in finding a blonde whom gentlemen would prefer. Now Harold Lloyd steps forward to announce that he will give his horn-rimmed spectacles to the person who suggests a satisfactory title for his new picture, which is already in production.

The story is about a typical, carefree New York lad who is always unwittingly getting himself in wrong, always losing his job, but never failing to get another, and who finally, of course, rises miraculously to an emergency and wins the girl.

The following were awarded two tickets each to the Davis Theater, home of the finest Keith vaudeville and photoplays, as a result of questions submitted to the WHAT DO YOU KNOW? editor of The Sun-Telegraph yesterday:

Frances Coyle, 4719 Wallingford street.
Virginia H. Thompson, 2726 Pinehurst avenue, Brentwood.
Viola Stricker, 119 Mclain street.
Mrs. R. E. Vogel, 732 Maryland avenue.
J. R. Clark, 230 S. St. Clair street.
J. Standley, 142 Forty-sixth street.
Mary Wanzel, 2125 Jenkins Arcade.
Flora Meyer, Brown avenue extension, Box 464, Turtle Creek.
A. J. McCook, 3450 Second avenue.
Lawrence J. McCabe, 4443 Howley street.
Robert Hynes, 4316 Forbes street.
Marie Mongilla, 2724 Bedford avenue.
N. Pinsman, 2820 Bedford avenue.
Clara Josephine Schott, 431 Jucunda street, Mt. Oliver.
John Cummins, 1520 Merrick avenue, Brookline.
Nellie Catherine Parthemore, 456 N. Chestnut street, Carnegie.
John Nagle, Sr., 1626 Island avenue, North Side.
Catherine Fortun, 1807 Rialto street.
Esther H. Huber, 3412 California avenue.
Frederick Hopton, 4729 Perrysville road.
Mrs. Mary Lower, 1414 Buena Vista street, North Side.
Elizabeth Schwab, 3438 Fleming avenue.
Lillian Barkel, Box 526, Dolmont.
David Perrin, Downtown Y. M. C. A.
W. E. Wunnich, 2421 Oliver Building.

Arrangements for the daily award of 25 sets of tickets were made through the Stanley Company of America, which has direction of the Davis Theater.

FURS

THE finest skins, tailored with inimitable skill to make the smartest, most flattering garments for women and misses. This season there is a wide choice of furs and fashions—and a wide range of special prices, during the present month.

Calf Skin Coats, $185.00

Tailored sports coats, made on straight lines, some trimmed with leather, some with fur. In lovely shades of cream, beige and brown. Other calf skin coats, $195.00 to $295.00.

Muskrat Coats, $225.00

An ever-popular fur for general wear, serviceable and attractive. Distinguished by the various ways in which the skins are put together in patterns. Self trimmed, or with contrasting fur collars. Others, $245.00 to $335.00.

Raccoon Coats, $295.00

The rough-and-tumble charm of raccoon endears it especially to college girls and women who love the outdoors, as well as to business women who give their coats hard wear. Other raccoon coats, $335.00 to $465.00.

Gray Caracul Coats, $295.00

An unusual price for real caracul. The coats have collars of other furs, for the most part. Others, $335.00 to $1,265.00.

Black Caracul Kid Coats, $295.00; real Black Caraculs, $565.00 to $1,895.00; Brown Caracul Coats, $565.00 to $1,265.00.

Mole Coats, $295.00

Soft, luxurious skins, fashioned in the straight line models especially popular with the more mature women, with long collars and cuffs of soft, longer-haired contrasting furs. Others, $595.00.

American Broadtail Coats, $295.00

Soft shades of beige and tan, as flattering as the smart styles in which they are made, with self or contrasting trimming. Broadtail is a dressy fur which lends itself superbly to tailored excellence. Others, $425.00.

Hudson Seal (dyed muskrat) Coats, $295.00

The rich depth of this fur is almost universally flattering, and it has been used in coats of many types. Variety is achieved in the contrasting trimmings, light and dark, fluffy and flat. Others, $385.00 to $565.00.

Nutria Coats, $335.00

This lovely deep, soft fur rivals beaver in its beauty. Coats of nutria are loose or close-fitting, and for the most part unadorned with any other fur. Others, $485.00 to $565.00. Beaver Coats, $625.00.

Squirrel Coats, $465.00

Natural and cocoa-dyed squirrel, enriched in some cases with long collars of fox or some other contrasting fur. In individual styles for women and misses. Others, $495.00 to $765.00.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Serious Danger to Middle-Aged Women.

Only women can appreciate what many women suffer as they pass through the changing period of life. Blinding hot flashes with spells of fainting and weakness, intense nervousness, racking head pains and dizziness. These are symptoms which must be watched for they often indicate high blood pressure. So many times high blood pressure results seriously that it is usually dangerous to neglect it.

A licensed physician who made a study of high blood pressure developed a remedy of purely vegetable ingredients which generally relieves it. This proved so successful that it now is being sold at drug stores under the name of Norma.

As high blood pressure is a manifestation of some disorder or abnormality of the system it is advisable to discover the cause and correct it by other medicines or hygienic measures while taking Norma. Although Norma is not a treatment for the causes of high blood pressure, it usually gives welcome relief and a fine feeling of comfort and well-being. If you have high blood pressure start taking Norma at once and give it a chance to help you. Get Norma today at May's Drug Stores or any other good drug store.—Advertisement.

Foster, County Treasurer), and accompanied by an addressed stamped envelope for return of receipt tax bill or statement.

SAMUEL D. FOSTER,
County Treasurer.

LOCAL "QUEEN" FASHION SHOW FAVORITE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 5.—Alfhild Larson is the favorite at the style show. Number seven in the finale of the beauties, she was the first girl to receive applause as she paraded on the stage in her long pale pink trailing drapery that made her look like a queen. As Miss Larson stepped from the wings she was greeted with a storm of applause that kept up several minutes. Silence followed the appearance of the six beauties who preceded her.

Miss St. Paul is considered our Pittsburgh favorite's runner-up. She also is a girl of Swedish parentage; both are blondes. Miss San Antonio, dark and petite, was next popular.

Miss Larson made her first appearance in a black taffeta gown with lace hose and silver and black slippers. Her hair was draped over her ears, with a knot low on her neck. She is not a "bobbie," you know, and has the distinction of being the only unbobbed beauty in the show.

"TWO-HORSE RACE"

Miss St. Paul has a mannish, close-cropped bob. It looks very much like an interesting battle for honors between Miss St. Paul and Miss Pittsburgh.

Last night was the first night of the show and there are two weeks to go.

"SO PROUD!"

"Oh, it makes me so proud," said Miss Larson, "that I seemed to be the most popular girl. Now I know I stand a good chance of coming home with the title of national fashion queen. I wasn't a bit frightened. We came on first in evening clothes with pages escorting us. After parading around the stage we stood on a revolving platform to show our gowns, then walked back through the audience so that everybody in the theater could get a good look at us.

"Later, just before the finals, we went off stage, changed to our draped costumes, and returned. This was when I received tremendous applause.

"I am hoping so hard and if you all pull for me that may help too. This is the longest I have ever been away from home and, I suppose it is childish, but I feel a little homesick."

Charles Lindberg's Big Cake Fails to Get to Lindy

That Col. Charles A. Lindbergh might have cake to satisfy his hunger on the trip to Wheeling and several other cities after that—judging from the size of the cake—was the hope of 12-year-old Charles Lindberg, of McKeesport, who brought a commemoration of pastry to Bettis Field, McKeesport, with intention to present it to the hero. The boy was not permitted to reach Lindbergh.

Today part of the cake is still uneaten and Charles had little appetite for it.

McKeesport's Charles Lindberg is a blond, sunny dispositioned chap with two regrets—that there isn't an "h" on his name, and that the cake isn't in the cockpit of the Spirit of St. Louis right now.

8 MORE GIRLS TO BE NAMED IN CONTEST

All contenders for the beauty crown of "Miss Pittsburgh 1927" and the 23 nine-day vacation trips to Atlantic City and Washington will have been named with the staging tonight of the final theater eliminations. Two theaters, the Arcadia, 823 East Ohio street, North Side, and the Orpheum, McKees Rocks, will select four girls each as contestants to appear before the official 1927 "Miss Pittsburgh" Committee judges at The Willows, Oakmont, Saturday, August 13.

The Oakmont program calls for the presentation of 92 contestants. The girls will represent 23 motion picture theaters in Greater Pittsburgh who have conducted the quest for the district's beauty. The theaters will be hosts to 23 contestants chosen to carry individual house names for the seashore trips. These vacations will mean seven days at the seaside with daily programs arranged for the beauties' entertainment, while a night and a day are scheduled in the national capital with a theater party and sightseeing arranged.

The four winners at the Arcadia Theater tonight will be presented with special awards arranged by Bud Silverman, manager. With the selection of "Miss Arcadia" by the "Miss Pittsburgh" judges at Oakmont, this lucky girl will be presented with a wardrobe for her vacation trip.

TRAFFIC ON OHIO RIVER GROWS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Transportation on the Ohio River and its tributaries has increased greatly in recent years, and promises to continue expanding, a joint report of the board of engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the War Department and the Bureau of Operations of the United States Shipping Board reveals.

On the Ohio River system, the record figure of 48,000,000 tons of cargoes was reported for 1925. This was about 6,000,000 tons greater than in 1920, the previous record year.

On the Ohio River proper about 16,000,000 tons were transported during 1925, compared with 12,000,000 in 1905, the previous record.

Coal is by far the most important commodity transported. Oil and steel products are of growing importance.

Completion of canalization projects should cause further expansion in river traffic, it was predicted.

3 AWAIT COURT IN MURDER

Alderman A. M. Maloney yesterday held three men for court on charges of murder in the violent death, June 18 of Martin McDonough in North Braddock. The three had been exonerated by a coroner's jury. They are Milo Rectowick, John Shwiska, and Michael Chismar, of North Braddock.

They were arrested June 18 in Braddock after McDonough was found in the streets and sent as drunk to Braddock General Hospital, which later reported that death was caused from a fractured skull. Information was made against them last week by Mrs. Mildred McDonough.

POSTAL DEPARTMENT GIVEN BOMB SCARE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Pandemonium broke loose in the post-office department yesterday, when two sharp explosions rang through the building at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue. Hundreds of employes, fearing a bomb outrage, jumped from their desks and scrambled for the corridors. A searching party finally discovered that an inventor was demonstrating a defensive device in the office of the solicitor of the department, H. J. Donnelly, to determine if it could be sent through the mails.

CHINA WANTS TO REVISE TREATIES WITH AMERICA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5.—Frank Lee, Chinese vice president of Shanghai College, has been appointed special envoy by the Nanking government to proceed to Washington in an endeavor to start preliminary steps to induce the American government to consent to negotiations for a revision of the treaties with China. Lee is already en route to Washington.

HONOLULU RACE PLANES COME TO GRIEF

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Entrants in the impending $35,000 Dole airplane race to Honolulu began to find trouble as their preliminaries entered the serious stages today.

One plane, that of Lieuts. George D. Covell and L. P. Palikowski, U. S. N., was for a time reported missing last night, but was declared to have been located at Santa Ana, Cal., where it had been forced down while flying from Los Angeles to San Diego for a test.

Lieuts. Al Henley and Bennett Griffin, of Oklahoma, encountered bad luck on their projected flight from Bartlesville to San Francisco when forced down last night at Amboy, Cal., 500 miles from their destination, because of a gasoline shortage. They planned to resume their trip today.

QUITS HUBBY

German Planes Ready To Hop Atlantic

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 5.—Its enthusiasm fired by the three American flights to Europe and especially by the Chamberlin and Levine flight from New York to Germany, Germany has accepted America's challenge in the air.

The Junkers Airplane Company at Dessau today officially announced the impending flight of two all-metal monoplanes from Dessau to New York within a week or 10 days. Each plane will carry three men and will hop off within the time specified, weather and luck permitting.

This most difficult flight—more difficult even than the Chamberlin flight because of the adverse wind conditions which have to be battled by a longer stay in the air and the consequent use of more gasoline—will be participated in by two of the specially built Junkers planes, the "Europa" and the "Bremen."

BACKED BY HEARST

The flight is being backed by the newspapers of William Randolph Hearst, the American publisher, the North German Lloyd Steamship Company and by the Darmstaedter and National Bank.

In his desire to aid in the development of transoceanic aviation as well as aid in the securing of better understanding between nations, Mr. Hearst has offered a total of $33,000 toward making possible the flight. Of this amount, $15,000 is being paid outright for the privilege of sending a correspondent along in one of the planes as the first correspondent passenger in a transatlantic flight.

A second $15,000 is being offered as a prize for the first airplane which reaches the American continent from continental Europe. The remaining $3,000 is offered as a prize for the second airplane to reach the American continent from continental Europe.

PERSONNEL OF CREWS

The personnel of this first attempt at a dual flight across the Atlantic and the first attempt to fly to America from continental Europe since the ill-fated Nungesser-Coli flight will be as follows:

The Europa—Pilot, Johann Ristics; navigator, Cornelius Edzard, and passenger, Hubert R. Knickerbocker.

The Bremen—August Loose, captain; Hermann Koehl, observer-pilot, and Baron Behrenfried Gunther von Huenefeld, passenger.

The Hearst newspapers will not only have the exclusive story of the flight as told by their own correspondent, going along in the Europa, but will also have the world publication rights to all stories of the flight by all the other five participants.

RUN-OFF NECESSARY IN MISSOURI PRIMARY

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Complete unofficial figures in the Democratic primary for governor held last Tuesday showed that a run-off election between Theodore G. Bilbo and Gov. Dennis Murphree would be necessary. With the final votes tabulated the count stood: Bilbo, 128,636; Murphree, 70,050; Conner, 59,255, and Anderson, 21,993.

BUILT HIS HOME ON EQUATOR

NEWARK.—A kitchen through which runs the equator is the proud possession of Dr. Emory Ross, secretary of the 27 Protestant missions in the Belgian Congo, who arrived here yesterday with his wife and three children aboard the Cunard liner Tuscania. There are times when the eggs that are peculiar to the Congo can be fried on the kitchen stove without any heat other than that from the equatorial sun.

Dr. Ross has been doing missionary work in the Belgian territory for 11 years, following a service of four years in Liberia. All of his children were born in the Congo.

Despite the efforts of the traders and missionaries to keep the moral standards of the Congo natives at the point where they should be to make living there pleasant, the resistance of the black men has lessened since the European went there, Dr. Ross said. Taken out of their primitive existence and faced with the more complicated civilization of the whites, their adjustment has been slow and not without detriment.

It was this that Dr. Ross reported to King Albert of the Belgians when he stopped at Brussels on his way home for his first American vacation in four years. He also reported on the strong industrial advance made in the colony within the last few years—an advance that has brought the simple-living Congolese into the role of laborers. Watching from his home at Bolenge, 1,000 feet above sea level and 800 miles from the sea, Dr. Ross has seen the natives change until today they are willing to work in factories and mines. There is one saw mill in the Belgian territory manned entirely by natives.

Dr. Ross explained that when the natives saw matches they were ready to believe the white men could do anything. Nothing that can be shown today will astound them nearly so much as did the sight of a man coaxing a blaze immediately from a small piece of wood.

The missionary has great faith in the future of the Congo—a territory that is eight times the size of the nation that owns it. In this district there is the greatest potential water power in all Africa. In addition there are the radium mines, filled with more of this treasure, perhaps, than there is anywhere else in the world. The price of radium dropped from $150,000 to $70,000 a gram when the Congo mines were opened.

LOWDEN SILENT ON CANDIDACY

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—In spite of the fact he is the only Republican candidate for the presidential nomination for whom an extensive campaign is being conducted, Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, returned to his summer resort today, content to remain "an inactive presidential possibility."

Lowden left Chicago last night to return to his family at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., after traveling 1,800 miles for an eight-hour conference with his Western supporters. He did not, however, amplify his one-sentence statement that he "knows no man who ever ran away from the presidency."

"CONSECRATED GROUND" AT ZION CITY IS SOLD

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overlord of Zion City and its religious colony of Zionists, has added $1,000,000 to the colony's treasury by selling a tract of its "consecrated ground."

Although Zion City was once adorned with signs which said: "Every foot of this city is consecrated property and belongs to God—the land is leased, not sold," Voliva told his followers yesterday that he had sold a tract to an unnamed purchaser.

LAKE NEEDS TRAFFIC COP

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A traffic cop may be sought for Deal Lake as a result of the increased fleet of motorboat speeders. The land policeman's strident whistles from the bank edge brings only jeers from the racers, it was shown yesterday.

LAW MAKING IS FAST JOB

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Pity the poor American citizen who lives in the year 2027. He will have 1,167,815 more laws to harass him than his forebear of 1927, according to Glen B. Winship, novelist of New York, in an address here before a meeting of lawyers.

"New laws at the rate of 11,678 a year are being written on the statute books of the United States," declared Mr. Winship. "In the last 20 years alone 233,563 new laws have been enacted. New York State led in legislation by accounting for 14,220 additional laws in the 20 years period.

"Many legislative bills which later become laws are of a bizarre and odd character. Iowa recently adopted a measure intended to prevent the sale of a certain kind of canned heat for fear the alcohol in the device would be diverted to unholy purposes. Missouri provided that butcher shops selling both kosher and non-kosher meats should so stipulate by signs in the window. In another state a bill was offered providing for compulsory memorizing of the Ten Commandments by school children. In Georgia a bill was introduced making it grounds for marriage annulment if the woman in the case had induced the proposal by artificial means such as false hair or rouge.

"Multiplicity of laws has made it practically impossible for a person to engage in any normal human activity without breaking some law. If all the violations of law were punished by imprisonment, half the population of the United States would be in jail all the time."

1858—69 Years in Business—1927

Visit Our Great Anniversary Sale

These facts make any Loftis sale a matter of universal interest to all who wish to secure quality jewelry at low prices: Loftis Bros. & Co. were founded by Peter Swift Loftis, a native of Ireland, who opened the first Loftis store in Philadelphia in 1858—69 years ago. His immediate family are still the active directors of the firm, which has grown to be the largest of its kind in the world, with stores in principal cities and a large mail order business. Due to our enormous business we buy for less and therefore sell for less. Our own experts go to Europe and personally select our Diamonds, which we import direct and sell direct to you, thus eliminating all middlemen's profits. EXPENSE MONEY FOR PRIMARY VERY 'TIGHT'

Allegheny county politicians have taken to heart the lessons drilled into them by Senator James A. Reed and other members of the committee that brought to light the great sums of money expended in the Vare-Pepper-Pinchot primary last year.

Candidates this year are watching their expenditures with unusual care, apparently determined to observe not only the letter but the spirit of the law.

The first result of this care struck a hard blow at those who have been accustomed to selling aspirants for office blocks of tickets to bazars, excursions, picnics, boat rides and corn roasts.

Mortimer B. Lesher, assistant county solicitor, today handed down an opinion on the legality of such purchases, his advice having been requested by candidates on the Republican organization slate.

"The purchase of admission tickets in large numbers exceeding the number required for the admission of a candidate or his representative to the particular affair is a violation of the Corrupt Practices Act of 1906," said Lesher, basing that on an opinion handed down by the late Judge John D. Shafer in 1911, when exceptions were filed to an expense account returned by William Conner. In declaring the purchase of blocks of tickets illegal, Judge Shafer said:

"The class of people who before the act of 1906 were accustomed to beg or demand money of candidates for office are sure to endeavor to contrive means of covering up their demands in some other form, and one of these seems to be the holding of picnics, corn-roasts and excursions of all kinds, which, whether they are actually held or not, give a pretext for selling tickets and demanding sums for advertising upon programs gotten up for no other purpose."

This opinion pleased the candidates as much as it displeased the picnic promoters. Each candidate on the organization slate has been assessed five per cent of incomes for four years from the positions to which they aspire, the sum totaling close to $50,000, which will be used for campaign expenses. Several bills designed to limit expenditures of local candidates in primary campaigns failed to pass the last session of the Legislature.

Robber Who Removed Sign of Warning Caught by Cops

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—(UP.)—A burglar who didn't believe in signs landed in the Dauphin county jail here today.

The burglar who thus far has refused to reveal his identity was apprehended while attempting to enter the offices of the Union News Company here.

Before attempting to force an entry, the burglar had calmly removed a sign which said the building was protected by a national detective association and that a reward would be paid for the apprehension of anyone seeking to gain unlawful entry.

OIL PRODUCTION CUT TODAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Floodgates of the greater Seminole oil area was partially closed today in the first concerted effort of operators to stem the flow that has caused a price depression felt nationally in the oil industry.

Approved by the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, a plan unanimously agreed upon by producing companies went into effect at 7 a. m.

By pro-rating production of the various companies, it is intended to hold the total daily output to 450,000 barrels, some 50,000 to 75,000 barrels less than the present daily yield.

PITTSBURGHERS 'SAVE LIFE' IN NAVY DRILL

NEWPORT, R. I., Aboard U. S. S. Sharkey, Flag Ship Reserve Training Cruise Division, Nememsha Bight, Mass., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Reservists of Pittsburgh district, in command of Lieut. J. H. Cox, yesterday showed the results of training ashore aboard the Destroyer Charles Ausburn which is making its annual practice cruise in New England waters when, without warning, the "man overboard" signal was given. Within a few seconds, a volunteer crew, which was drilling with a four inch gun nearby, clambered in a life boat, shoved off and picked up the theoretical man, returning to the ship in 10 minutes, despite choppy seas.

The reservists today went through first real day instruction, practical training designed to qualify them to man destroyers in a national emergency. The ship commander ordered concentrated gunnery exercises, crews remaining at four inch guns and loading machines more than two hours. More detailed drills were held this afternoon. The regular officers aboard the Ausburn commended the proficiency of Pittsburgh reserves. At present the Pittsburgh reservists show up better at gun drills and probably will win first place in short range battle practice.

BLACKBOARDS BLACK, NOT GREEN OR BROWN

PREPARES FOR WESTERN FLIGHT

Charles "Speed" Holman, pilot of nine years' experience, is preparing to follow Greeley's advice to go West. He will hop off from St. Paul to Seattle, thence attempt a non-stop flight to Tokyo.

LEVINE DODGES FLIGHT WITH DROUHIN

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Although the transatlantic plane Columbia is fast approaching the stage when it can be flown off at any time weather permits, with excellent chances of making the first westward flight across the Atlantic, the legal advisers of its owner, Charles A. Levine, and Maurice Drouhin, engaged as pilot, have not yet succeeded in arranging all the details of the final agreement.

There was still some doubt today whether Drouhin actually would fly the plane, the Matin, commenting in this connection, says Mr. Levine does not want to fly with Drouhin because the French aviator does not speak English and is not a skilled navigator. Not wishing to disappoint him, however, the paper asserts, Mr. Levine is willing to give him a French plane fitted with the same Wright engine as the Columbia, with which he could try a transatlantic flight.

ITALY TO COMPENSATE FASCISTI HURT ABROAD

ROME, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The cabinet has decided to grant compensation to Fascisti abroad, who, since July 23, 1919, have suffered injury during clashes with opponents of the Fascist regime. The relatives of those killed in such clashes also would be compensated.

JOHN DILLON DIES.

TROOPERS GUARD JUDGE THAYER, GOV. FULLER

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—(INS.)—Extra precautions are being taken to guard Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, as he visits his summer home in Rye Beach, every evening and over the week-end, following his adverse decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

In addition to a Massachusetts state police bodyguard a detail of three New Hampshire state troopers have been assigned to the Fuller estate to go on duty with three Massachusetts state troopers.

Gov. Fuller was offered any protection desired by Gov. H. N. Spaulding and it was thought that a detail will be assigned from the One Hundred and Ninety-seventh Regiment, Coast Artillery, National Guard, in camp in Rye, near the Fuller estate.

Two state troopers were sent to Ogunquit Beach, Maine, to guard Judge Webster Thayer. Judge Thayer was on the golf links.

DREADED MALADY KILLS YOUTH

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—(INS.)—George Dimmick, 19, is dead here today at the Monroe County Hospital from Landry's paralysis, one of the rarest diseases known to the medical profession.

Dimmick was stricken last Sunday with severe pains in the back, a severe headache, a high temperature and rapid pulse. He was taken to the hospital by Dr. J. H. Stearns, of Delaware Water Gap, who called Dr. A. C. Morgan, of the University of Pennsylvania, into consultation. Twenty-four hours later paralysis set in from the toes, and crept up the body. Dimmick was conscious at various times and able to converse. Later he became unconscious.

CONVICTS TAKEN TO NEW PEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Eighty-two prisoners from the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta and 42 from Leavenworth have been transferred to the new Chillicothe, O., Reformatory for male first offenders, the Department of Justice announced today. Forty-seven prisoners were transferred from the latter institution to the Federal road camp at Alderson, W. Va., where they will assist in the construction of the Federal industrial prison for women.

SUICIDE WARNS OF CLERGY

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 4.—(INS.)—Mrs. Jessie Stowe, of Findlay, O., died yesterday of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. In a note to her husband, David Stowe, she wrote:

CAMBRIA COUNTY COURT BARS UNION PICKETS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—On petition of the Heisley Coal Company of Nanty-Glo, the County Court yesterday granted a preliminary injunction restraining the officers and members of District No. 2, United Mine Workers, and local No. 1386 of Nanty-Glo from interfering with Heisley No. 2 mine. The rule is made returnable Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. It is claimed that union miners at Nanty-Glo have interferred with the nonunion workmen, employing from 50 to 200 as pickets and compelling the nonunion miners to walk between two lines of striking union miners.

OAKMONT MAN MENTIONED AS CANDIDATE

Hyatt M. Cribbs, Oakmont, who directed the Pinchot-for-Senator campaign here last year, may take the field as an independent candidate for County Commissioner, according to reports. The name of former Congressman William E. Coleman, who has been studying the situation with the thought of an independent ticket, is mentioned as Cribbs' running mate. Former Sheriff William Haddock has been asked to run independently for Commissioner, but has declined.

Active in the independent movement is Recorder John D. Graham, who was dropped from the organization slate when Treasurer Samuel D. Foster was ticketed for Recorder. Controller Charles C. McGovern also is active in the move to form an independent ticket for the Republican primaries. There is talk of former Representative Jerry Simpson coming out for treasurer, although strong elements in the independent group are insisting that Clerk of Courts John Francies be indorsed for Treasurer and District Attorney S. H. Gardner and Prothonotary John Vogt for re-election.

HALITOSIS? KILL IT!

Seven times in ten, Halitosis is due to a sour, gassy stomach, caused by intestinal stasis, or "Constipation." People with halitosis (unpleasant breath) are shunned, avoided, because they are like a "plague"—friends just can't endure being near such a person. Old and young, rich and poor, none escape if fermented food remains in the body more than 24 hours. Even if the bowels move daily, there is often a remainder of foul, decaying matter, that can only be removed with a thorough cleansing, such as Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills produce. This sweet little pill is "Better than Castor Oil."

Its action is pleasant and prompt. Stomach, liver, spleen and intestines all are benefited. The effect is so different from ordinary laxatives, salts, calomel, etc. A smooth, abundant action from the very first dose, soon rids you of all the disagreeable symptoms.

Let the whole family learn the value of Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills, 45 pills, 30 cts. At all May's Drug Stores and all good druggists everywhere.—Advertisement

MRS. COOLIDGE REJOICES

(Copyright, 1927, Universal Service.)

DEADWOOD, S. D., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, here for the Days of Seventy-six celebration, had all the appearance of being the second happiest person in the world.

With her husband she shared that look of relief which has been his since he announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. From his shoulders had been lifted the great responsibility of a President of the United States who presumably had five more years of its arduous duties before him. And from hers had been lifted the manifold cares which attend the social requirements of the White House.

Not since Dolly Madison has there been a more popular mistress of the Legislative mansion. Her gracious smile and cordial manner are as much a recognized part of the Coolidge administration as his slogan of peace and prosperity. But the social requirements have been exacting upon Mrs. Coolidge.

Mrs. Coolidge had engaged in no Mrs. Coddle's curtain lectures upon the subject. But the President, of course, knew her desire to relinquish the burdens of her station as first lady and that was one of the causes of his decision not to run again.

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Virginia Asks Betty What The Dispute With Bob Was About

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pretty black-haired Betty Warren goes on a pleasure trip with some friends, including Bob Stevenson. Betty lives with her mother and two sisters in Brooklyn and works as a typist in New York City. The girl and the young man leave before the others so that they can enjoy each other's company on the trip home from Coney Island. As the next day is a Sunday the whole Warren family assembles for dinner. Helen, the 16-year-old beauty of the family; Gladys, the artistic dreamer; Mrs. Warren, motherly and impractical, and finally, Betty's married sister, Virginia, with her little boy, Junior, and her husband, Jim, who was gassed in the war. Virginia is despondent about her husband's health. Betty is acquainted with a wealthy author, Anson Lorrimer, and Virginia urges her to try and attract him. The next day Lorrimer visits Betty's office with some typing he wants her to do. Betty is oblivious of his admiration. Bob asks Betty to marry him, and she accepts. Betty's brother-in-law becomes so ill that he must be sent to a western hospital. To Betty it means an indefinite postponement of her marriage to Bob. Betty and Bob have a trivial argument. Bob is very angry when he leaves her home. Lorrimer invites Betty out to lunch and she accepts. He offers to get her a better job. To add to her happiness, when she reaches home she finds Bob waiting for her, and they make up. Several nights later Lorrimer calls at Betty's home and meets Bob, who forms a dislike for him. After Lorrimer leaves Betty and Bob have another argument.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE tried to turn her mind away from the recent interview. She knew she must look and seem her best tomorrow when she would go hunting for the position with Weston & Sterns. She knew she must have a good night's rest. She must close her mind to worry and trouble, anger and sorrow, all of these devastating emotions which would react upon her mental alertness, upon her physical well-being, upon her looks even.

But once in bed, wrapped about by the kindly darkness, she could not help going over the scene again and again. Helen was sound asleep—Helen never woke up, it seemed, to find out what was going on—or if she was awake now she took good care not to let Betty know it.

Over and over again it went in her mind. Bob's voice, his angry brown eyes, his unkind accusations which were so brutal and so unfair.

Betty began to cry. She could not help it. She stifled her sobs in the pillow, praying that she would soon find strength to stop, praying that Helen would not wake and hear her and ask questions.

Oh, why was life such an up and down affair? Why couldn't you be happy for more than a few moments altogether? Why, when you were happy, couldn't it be a happiness without horrid reservations? Why did two people who really cared for one another hurt each other so much? Why was life so terribly hard on women?

If she hadn't known Bob, she thought, she would have gone her way more or less serenely, fought her little battles, worked her way up to a better position and more ease for the family with very little sense of sacrifice. She would have been at least, content, if only she had never met Bob, or having met him, had not loved him.

Yet if she had not met him, had not loved him she would have missed from her life those wonderful hours together, those hours in which each had understood the other without words somehow, those hours of mutual tenderness and love.

Either way, it was dreadful!

Her door opened and Virginia stood there, tall and dark with a dim light behind her, clutching against the air of the winter night, the shabby bathrobe about her over-thin body.

"Betty," she whispered, "come here a minute."

Betty was disarmed. She thought that perhaps Junior was ill. In such emergencies Virginia always called on her. Without hesitation she sprang from her bed, groped for slippers and wrapper and joined Virginia in the hall.

"What is it?" she asked anxiously, "is it Junior?"

"No, no. I had to talk to you. We can't go in my room because of him—please come downstairs. Betty, you must come. It's still warm down there—"

Betty knew it was. Bob had looked to the furnace before the unfortunate arrival of Lorrimer and she had heard Virginia go down to bank it for the night just before Bob left. So she followed unhappily wondering, cursing her red eyes and little swollen nose.

Once downstairs Virginia hauled an old coat out of the closet, pulled Betty down on the couch beside her and covered both of them up.

"I heard you crying," she began abruptly. "I heard Bob leave. I heard some other things, too. Now tell me about it. It will do you good."

Betty hesitated!

CHAPTER XIII.
PROGRESS

OF ALL the people in the world, Virginia seemed the last person that Betty, at that moment, would wish to confide in. Yet she could feel a strong impulse toward confidence rising in her heart. After all, Virginia was older than she, her own sister, her flesh and blood, and until this sorrow had come to her, she had been Betty's most happy and inspiring companion, gay and vital and understanding. The love between them was very strong and would endure much. And then it was night—a cold, dark, disheartening night and Betty was worn out with emotion. And her anger at Bob could not help but influence her.

"I—Oh, Vee," she said desperately, "I'm so unhappy!"

"I know—tell me—"

"Bob—" replied Betty, shutting

RUMANIA MOVES TO NAB CAROL AT BORDER

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY, Aug. 5—(AP.)—Premier Bratiano has ordered a double guard to keep utmost vigilance at all border points where Former Crown Prince Carol might attempt to enter the country, according to Bucharest dispatches reaching here.

Opposition parties in Rumania, while ostensibly manifesting loyalty to the new sovereign and the regency, say these dispatches, actually would welcome any change in the dynasty that would overthrow the regime of Premier Bratiano.

Carol is declared to be still popular with certain sections of the army, although perhaps somewhat less so than six months ago, and many Rumanians are represented as believing that his return either secretly or legally is not excluded as a possibility. It is stated that, realizing this, M. Bratiano has ordered the double border guard at strategic points.

AMERICAN GIRL STRANGLED BY CZECHS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 5—(AP.)—Police claim they have succeeded in solving the mystery of the disappearance of Sarah Voerdesmart, a New York girl. They have arrested a man named Sikorsky, her brother-in-law, who, they allege, declared that on July 29 last year he, Margit and two other men went to a Carpathian mountain resort and in the course of a walk in the woods the two men strangled the girl and buried the body in a sandhole, while he looked on, terrified.

The names of the two men, as given out by police, are John Michalko, well known in Czechoslokav political circles, and his friend and physician, Dr. Klepetar. They deny Sikorsky's story, but police are continuing their efforts to verify it by a search of the spot described.

Army Needs Fliers

WASHINGTON.—The biggest problem facing the United States Army at present is not planes, but where to get the men to man the planes that are being built under the five-year program. The Army placed orders for 299 planes last year, and will get 590 new planes this year. When the program is completed the Army Air Corps will have nearly 2,000 planes—480 pursuit, 95 attack, 185 bombardment, 59 transport, 412 observation, 72 amphibian and 479 training planes.

These call for 1,650 flying officers, 555 reserve officers on active duty and 15,000 enlisted men. Numerous plans are being tried to induce men to even temporarily enter the Air Service, so that these planes may be kept in action. The Navy's problem is not quite so difficult, as it will only have about 1,000 planes.

TRAVELS 1,145 MILES IN FARM WAGON

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Aug. 60.—Traveling 1,145 miles in a home-made automobile contrived of a farm wagon propelled by a tractor engine, Joshua Robson and his family of nine arrived here from the flooded area at Hazen, Ark., bound for a new farm near Clive, Alberta.

"The family flivver was carried away by the flood," said Mr. Robson, "so we rigged up a 'horseless carriage' out of old machinery and headed for Canada. We averaged 76 miles a day on the trip to Winnipeg and were just as comfortable as if we had been riding in an expensive car.

"The farm we left at Hazen, Ark., has been in possession of the Robson family for 110 years. We sold what stock and equipment the flood left us and simply carried our personal belongings. Many of our neighbors who were washed out by the flood have already migrated to Canada to get a fresh start on the land."

In spite of the fact that the Robson family are flood refugees, Mr. Robson carried with him a check for $10,000 to be invested in his new farm in Alberta.

HOOKS RECORD CATFISH IN PACIFIC COAST RIVER

WOODLAND, Cal., Aug. 60.—What is declared to be the largest catfish caught in Western waterswas hooked in the Sacramento River by Joe Armstrong, postoffice official. With the aid of Victor Nyholm and George Bender he pulled the giant fish ashore on an ordinary throwline. The fish was so large that a man could put both outstretched hands in its mouth. It weighed 16 pounds and was 30 inches long. The head measured nine inches across.

3RD GUARDSMAN SUCCUMBS AT MT. GRETNA

International News Service Wire.

MT. GRETNA, Aug. 5.—The death toll during the two encampments of the Pennsylvania National Guard here today stood at three, with the finding of the body of Private Willard Reese, 19, of Company B, One Hundred and Twelfth Infantry, of Meadville, in the company street. Acute dilation of the heart was given as the cause of his death. Two other guardsmen, injured in traffic accidents, died during the first encampment.

Reese, an orphan, had engaged in a baseball game in the afternoon, and had complained of pains. Lieut. Manning W. Dodson, of Company H, One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry, Philadelphia, a member of the international rifle team suffered a broken leg during the One Hundred and Eleventh Service Company rodeo yesterday.

SURFACE NOT ALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Relaxations and vibrations are the fountain heads of youth and beauty, the national president of the Cosmeticians said yesterday, and warns that "saving the surface" doesn't mean the same thing in the case of a woman as it does for a house.

RAID NETS STILLS, RUM

Two 150-gallon stills in operation and 150 gallons of moonshine whisky were destroyed when prohibition agents conducted a raid in the rear of 2237 Penn avenue. Harry Meehan, of 5239 Wickliss street was arrested and a truck confiscated.

THE DIAMOND DICTIONARY

COMMERCIAL WHITE DIAMONDS—Commercial white diamonds are slightly yellow—and very brilliant under artificial light. They are cheaper than blue steel diamonds—are in demand, but are not a good investment. An expert distinguishes such diamonds at a glance.

The beauty and luxury of Europe have always treasured Castile

—and here at last is Castile made exquisite

The beauties of Spain, the most ravishing of women—possessors of the most delicious complexions in Europe—have always used Castile and nothing but Castile. Since it was first made (in Castilla, northern Spain) six hundred years ago.

And not alone the beauty of Spain—the luxury and fashion of Europe have always treasured Castile as the one toilet soap perfect for a woman's delicate skin, because of its mild, pure, bland cleansing virtue. Rightly, too—for in this respect Castile is matchless, utterly perfect!

But not content with the most beneficial of all toilet soaps, we have made a new Castile for American women, Doña* Castile! Far finer—an exquisite, feminine, modern toiletry—a Castile for Beauty.

Keeping the matchless bland cleansing virtue of the old Castile, we have added modern virtues to endear it to fastidious American women.

We have given Doña a quick generous lather even in cold water (instant rinsing too!) Moulded it in a delicious shape for your hand, "hard-milled" so it will last. Too, Doña is always absolutely standard, always the same, always fresh and dainty, sealed in a smart wrapper. Loveliest of all Beauty Soaps! And not too costly—ten cents wherever you buy your toilet soap.

*Pronounced Don-ya.

When Hubby Goes

Mrs. Will Erwin

When Captain Will Erwin hops off on his proposed flight from Dallas, Tex., to Hongkong, China, his wife (above) will not only be a passenger, but she will go as navigator and radio operator. She has frequently handled the plane in which the jump for the $25,000 Easterwood prize will be made.

BYRD'S FLIGHT POSTPONED ONE YEAR

(Copyright, 1927, by New York American.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Commander Richard E. Byrd will not attempt a flight to the South Pole until a year from September, it was learned exclusively today by the New York American.

Inability to complete arrangements for the financing of the expedition, coupled with the wishes of his family, are said to have influenced his decision. Meanwhile plans for the expedition will be completed to the last detail.

Edsel Ford will defray half of the expedition's cost. The other half will be met through the sale of exclusive story rights to a newspaper, or to a syndicate.

The second part of this arrangement is yet to be completed.

Those who are to make the trip will not be idle. Lieut. George O. Noville leaves next Wednesday for San Francisco, where he will re-enter the employ of a coast oil company.

Bert Acosta, pilot, is preparing to enter a number of flying races during the year, including the National Air Derby, at Spokane, Wash.

Bernt Balchen, relief pilot, will leave for his home in Norway to visit his mother, and later will supervise the building of the giant South Pole plane at the Holland factory of the Fokker company.

Upon completion of the new plane it will be brought to Norfolk, Va., to be made ready for the flight. From there it will be shipped to South America.

FORESTS SWEPT BY HUNDREDS OF FIRES

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—With military authorities lending all possible aid to embattled fire fighters, with government airplanes pressed into service for reconnaissance work and Army mules laboriously moving supplies through mountain trails, the Northwest was fighting hundreds of forest fires today. All the conflagrations were started by lightning.

Storms rolling over the mountain timber tracts each day this week have shot down bolts of flame from the clouds. Today a hundred fires swept through the forests of the Columbia national forest in Washington, another hundred fires were blazing uncontrolled in the Rainier national forest. More than 60 had been reported on the Wenatchee tracts.

SACCO, VANZETTI AID URGED THROUGH STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The Workers Communist Party, at a rally held in Union Square last night, appealed to labor throughout the country to strike next Tuesday on the eve of the scheduled execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The Sacco-Vanzetti liberation committee of the Italian Labor Board, representing 29 labor organizations, called a session to consider a walkout. Two thousand barbers in Brooklyn struck for a day yesterday without waiting for notice from the Italian Labor Board.

Cowboy Actor and His Horse Going to Europe in Spring To Film Scenes for Movies

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—London, Paris and The Balkans are due for a thrill and a surprise. Ken Maynard and his horse are traveling to Europe early next spring to produce two westerns. Some of the scenes will be filmed here in California and finished in the Balkans, or some other unfamiliar kingdom, with a mythical background.

Piccadilly and Rue De La Paix take notice. Mr. Maynard will stage a rodeo with [illegible] in the heart of Paris and London.

[illegible] be more appro[illegible] out the idea of what [illegible] expect of Califor[illegible]

Charlie Rogers, who discovered, sponsored and now produces the Maynard horse operas, will accompany his protege.

It just occurred to me that all this talk of First National sending a company abroad to make pictures is probably centered around this Maynard Company. Mr. Rogers releases his productions through First National and Watterson Rothacker has admitted that one of these days First National will make some pictures abroad. Smart of me, isn't it, to guess?

There was lots of talk about Vera Veronica a few months ago at the Famous Players-Lasky studio. I never made up my mind whether she was popular with the publicity department or whether she was really the beautiful and talented young woman as they tried to tell me. In her one picture I wasn't sold on the idea that she was due to be Greta Garbo's successor. I have to admit that I have seen many American girls who outrank her in looks and screen appearance. Famous, however, is still sticking to their guns and Miss Veronica will be cast for a part in "The Legion of the Condemned." She has been in London where she has played opposite Harry Lauder in a motion picture.

Something entirely new in motion pictures is being inaugurated by Frank P. Donovan through the Famous Authors Productions. Mr. Donovan is presenting two-reel productions based on stories written by celebrated authors, many of them classics in the world of literature. Among the famous stories that will be filmed are "The Necklace" and "A Piece of String," by De Maupassant; "A Lodging for the Night" and "Will o' the Mill," by R. L. Stevenson; "A Desert Passion," by Balzac; "The Queen of Spades," by Pushkin; "The Deserted Village," by Goldsmith, and others. A well-known player will be chosen for each one of these classics. I wonder how near the screen version will come to visualizing the author's idea. We all have our own idea of our favorite short stories.

Sparring Partners ∴ A "Best Bet" ∴ An Actor Rides

Pretty Yola d'Avril, screen actress, is no mean opponent with the gloves. Nate Slott, Los Angeles athlete, has taught her the art of self-defense and she enjoys a few minutes in the ring before starting the day's work at the studio.

Sometimes it's a new makeup, sometimes a new type of role or maybe a new outlook on life that seems to change a particular player from a "possibility" to a "best bet." Jacqueline Gadsdon was in pictures several years before she won recognition.

William Collier, Jr., "Queen" and Mary Astor are three principals in "The Sunset Derby," a picture based on William Dudley Pelley's exciting story of the racetrack. Collier as a jockey rides Queen to victory and to the arms of lovely Mary in the screen drama.

"LOW DOWN" ON FREAK FURNITURE IN PICTURE

What might be termed the "low-down" on freak film furniture is contained in Constance Talmadge's new screen farce, "Breakfast at Sunrise." Some of the wide upholstered armchairs used in the picture are not more than 18 inches high, and the table that goes with them stands about one foot off the carpet. All the pieces accommodate adults of normal stature.

No Foreign-Made Film For Norma, Star Asserts

Norma Talmadge will not make a picture while in Europe because her husband won't let her, according to word brought here.

"There is not a chance of my making a picture in Europe," she said. "Mr. Schenck would not listen to the idea." As Mr. Schenck is Miss Talmadge's manager as well as husband, his word probably is final.

Norma commented on the proposal to adjust motion picture finances by reducing salaries.

"Salaries are not the root of the evil. Let them cut down the time lost on production and the over-elaborate sets and over-lapping distribution."

TRUDY USES COSMETICS FOR FIRST TIME IN FILM

Gertrude Ederle, famous swimmer, used cosmetics for the first time in her life recently. Even then it was not of her own volition. The make-up was applied for use in her first film venture, "Swim, Girl, Swim," Bebe Daniels' latest comedy, in which Miss Ederle has a prominent role.

Dogs Reflect Actions Of Their Owners In Movies

Doubling the usual film triangle by featuring a dog hero, his "blonde" heroine, and a shaggy-haired villain who reflect on an animal plane the actions of the three principal humans in the cast, is an innovation tried out in "Breed of Courage," starring the dog actor Ranger.

The "blonde" who plays opposite Ranger is Nitchamoose. She is the faithful pet of the human heroine, while Ranger portrays the loyal hound of the human hero. The dog villain, who is also the human villain's dog, is a black, lop-eared mixed-breed, with the name of Ogama.

ADVISE DELAY ON 427-FT. 'TOWER' BUILDING

Delay of councilmanic action on an ordinance to allow the Koppers Company to erect a 427-foot high "tower" building at the southwest corner of Seventh avenue and Grant street, was recommended yesterday by the City Planning Commission in joint session with the Public Works Committee of City Council.

Postponement was asked by the commission in order that it might prepare a report upon which the ordinance could be amended to cover other building operations in the same district.

The building height under present zoning laws in the Seventh and Grant district is 265 feet. The Koppers Company wishes to build a 21-story building to that height and extend a "tower front" 162 feet higher.

TO SEND PHOTOS BY BEAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A wireless transmission system enabling photographs and complete messages to be tossed across the ocean at a speed 12 times greater than any yet attained will be placed in operation within a month between New York and London.

The Radio Corporation of America has announced it will adopt the beam or short-wave method now successfully used by the Marconi Company in England and expressed the belief that within three years the system will link the world's leading cities with radio communication on a facsimile basis.

The beam system differs from the method of transmitting photographs now in use in that it uses a shorter wave length and that "listening in" is impossible.

ATLANTA HOMES DYNAMITED

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Two Negro homes in opposite sections of the city were dynamited last night after warnings to their occupants to move had gone unheeded. The front porch of the residence of Zack Cook was demolished and the windows of an apartment house nearby, occupied by white persons, were smashed by the detonation of what police said was a large quantity of dynamite. Cook's family was in the house, but all escaped injury. Cook announced he would leave the city today. Mose Lindley, who reported an attempt to blow up his home, was undecided about moving.

3 Cakes Octagon Toilet Soap and a Cannon Towel all for 35¢

AT your grocer's for a limited time only—here's a bargain for you! Order three 10c cakes of the famous Octagon Toilet Soap from your grocer. Ask him to deliver with the soap a snowy-white towel, 17 x 34 inches, with a fashionable border design woven in rich delft-blue—one of the newest effects created by the well-known Cannon Mills. And, for all this, you pay only 35c. This offer is unlimited as to quantity. If you already know the quick-lathering, gentle-cleansing qualities of Octagon, you may want to buy a dozen or more cakes. All right. With every three cakes you get your Cannon Towel. If you haven't already used Octagon, this offer is a money-saving way to discover new soap satisfaction. For the large-size, delicately scented cake of Octagon Soap is made to do one thing—to clean. In fact, it is such a good cleansing soap that it leaps to lather even when used in cold water. And a good soap in cold water means a perfect soap when the water is warm. An economical soap, too, for with all its generous lather, Octagon lasts long even in hard water. There's still more to this bargain offer. Each cake of Octagon brings you a valuable coupon. It's on the wrapper. These coupons are redeemable for many necessities, even luxuries, things you want but hate to buy. Some of these valuable articles are shown below. You can easily secure any or all of them with coupons clipped from Octagon Toilet Soap and other Octagon Soap Products and from Fab, Colgate's wash-bowl flakes for fine fabrics. DAMON RUNYON SAYS

DAMON RUNYON

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—An excited crowd in West Forty-eighth street attracted my attention yesterday. The crowd was gathered around a sawed-off young fellow of maybe 118 pounds weight, and was examining him with rabid curiosity. I made the inquiry, becoming an alert reporter, and learned that the sawed-off young fellow was a bantamweight boxer and that the crowd was made up largely of local ring worms who had seen nothing but heavyweights for so long that a bantam was a distinct novelty.

As far as the eye can see the pugilistic woods are full of heavies.

They lurk behind every rock and tree, frightening women and little children, and even causing stout-hearted hombres to quail. Fortunately, however, this situation can not long endure, as heavyweights must eat beyond any other fistic fauna, and presently a lot of them will disperse to find sustenance in regular work.

IT IS estimated that if the 1927 crop of heavyweights was suddenly dropped into the Atlantic Ocean, which many cynics say might be a good thing, at that, it would displace enough water to overflow the British Isles. I have never seen more new heavies in a single season, or of such funny shapes. I have scanned a large number of individual specimens and find only a few wear larger than 6⅛ size hat. It is very strange.

The pugilistic prospectors who are ever hopefully scouring the hills and dales, seeking the vein of fistic prominence that may lead them to one of Mr. Rickard's fattest gates, have certainly brought in a lot of ad lib. material, as well as some that looks as if it might do with a little dry cleaning and reblocking.

IT SEEMS to me that one of the best of all heavyweight prospects of 1927 is the raw-boned lad from old Cheyenne, who is called Wyoming Warner.

I make this report with some pride, as Warner is by way of being one of my pugilistic grandchildren. I was one of the sponsors of his debut, the success of which caused me great astonishment.

I always have a number of these grandchildren around, but usually they sorely disappoint me by their didoes when the bell rings. Just about as I get through telling what great guys they are, some unfeeling opponent, who has no godfather, belts them on the jaw bone, and the wagon backs up for the remains.

But Wyoming Warner seems to be something of a fistic phenom—one of those fighters that come along at rare intervals to the game—and he may offset the serpent's teeth, or ungrateful godchildren. I say he may, because if there is one thing you never can tell about, it is a heavyweight prospect.

WYOMING WARNER is the protege of my friend Otto C. Floto, famous sports writer of the Denver Post, out yonder in Colorado, who was one of the first to call attention to William Harrison Dempsey as a champion prospect. Floto thought so well of Warner that he personally chaperoned the young man into the effete East and turned him over to Harry Lenny, one of the greatest handlers and instructors of pugilistic youth in the business.

FOR five months little was seen of Lenny in his old haunts. He was working with Warner in a Harlem gymnasium, far from the critical throng, toiling with such ardor as to lead to rumors that Harry was planning a personal comeback, though his fighting days are twenty-odd years behind him.

He exposed Warner on three different occasions in that period, once at St. Nichols Rink, once at Ebbett's Field and again at the Yankee Stadium. On the first occasion when he beat one Francis Goodwin, Warner impressed the beholders as awkward, tough and dead game, but months away from real competition.

ON THE other two occasions he belted out his opponents with such rapidity that the ring world got little line on him, though he showed a terrific punch. Then suddenly, a few weeks ago, Lenny appeared before Jess McMahon, that tall matchmaker for George Tex Rickard, and requested a place on the Dempsey-Sharkey card, asking as Warner's opponent none other than Sandy Seifert of Pittsburgh, one of the toughest of all the big fellows.

McMahon thought Lenny was spoofing him.

"No one wants to fight Seifert," he said. "No one at all. Too tough. Too smart. They all duck Sandy, so don't kid me, boy. Here's a list of 50 other heavies. Pick one of them that you're fellow's got a chance with."

"Seifert, or nobody," insisted Lenny.

"All that work in the gym has made poor Harry crazy," sighed McMahon, as he signed the contract.

FANS, STUNG BY TWIN JOLT, ACT

CHARLEROI, PA., Aug. 5.—After losing two games to the Fairmont team of the Middle-Atlantic League here yesterday, a meeting was held last night in the Charleroi Municipal Building by citizens and fans of Charleroi to take steps to strengthen the team.

Manager John G. McIlvain tendered his resignation and in his stead Thomas Comstock, middle fielder, was chosen. The team left for Johnstown this morning and when they appear on the field this afternoon it is probable that there will be some new faces in the lineup and a general shakeup is anticipated.

The game at Johnstown today was transferred there from Charleroi.

The shakeup in the Charleroi club marks the passing of two Mid-Atlantic League managers in as many days. It was announced yesterday that the Jeannette pilot had been released, certain players fired and others rehired, because the club expenses had been permitted to mount.

PARI-MUTUELS ISSUE IN KENTUCKY VOTING

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 5.—(INS.)—Kentucky voters will go to the polls tomorrow to express their opinion on the pari-mutuel race track betting law, after the most heated gubernatorial primary campaign in the history of the state.

The Democrats will choose between J. C. W. Becham, of Paducah, father of the pari-mutuels and the racing commission in Kentucky, who is now against race track betting, and Robert T. Crowe, of La Grange, who favors retention of the pari-mutuels.

The Republicans will choose between Judge Flem D. Sampson, of Barboursville, advocate of the pari-mutuel betting machines, and Robert H. Lucas, whose campaign has been sponsored by the anti-race track gambling element of the state.

WHEELING TAKES PAIR FROM GENERAL OUTFIT

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Behind the superlative twirling of Chief Hogsett and Claude Gillenwater, the Wheeling Stogies trimmed the Generals in both ends of a doubleheader here yesterday, 5 to 2 and 4 to 0. In the first game Hogsett allowed but three hits, while in the second Miller's two-bagger was all that robbed Gillenwater of a no-hit no-run contest. Martin carried away hitting honors for the two games with five hits in nine times at bat.

Wee Willie to Protest Retirement of LaBarba

Willie Davies of Charleroi, the state flyweight champion, may lay claim to the world's title if Fidel LaBarba, the crown-bearer of the division, quits the ring to take up his studies at Leland Stanford University next month without again defending the title at weight.

Davies has a better claim to the top post than any of the other contenders. He has beaten Newsboy Brown, who holds two draws with LaBarba, and virtually all of the other hopefuls.

Jim Buchanan, Davies' manager, said today he is planning to make a claim before the National Boxing Association to have Willie recognized as the champion if LaBarba goes to college and locks up the crown in the family safe.

TOMMY CROWLEY RETURNS

Tommy Crowley arrived back in Pittsburgh this morning from Philadelphia, where he was knocked out by Benny Bass, the state featherweight champion, in two rounds Wednesday night. Tommy and his manager, Bill Heckman, were loud in their praise of Bass as a hard-hitting, two-fisted puncher and said that a right to the jaw in the second round as Tommy missed with his left had caused the knockout. Tommy had the better of the first round, his manager contended, despite news reports to the contrary.

Ray Shafer, the Lawrenceville middleweight, now under the management of James (Red) Mason, will make his first start in one of the bouts on the next card at Johnstown, a week from next Monday.

Voigt Gets Status O. K. By U. S. G. A.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Cleared of charges of violating the amateur code by the United States Golf Association, Washington's leading links player, George J. Voigt, was prepared today to participate in the national amateur tournament at Minneapolis starting August 23.

At the same time he was exonerated of the golfing charges, Voigt became involved in a domestic difficulty when his wife, Charlotte V. Voigt, filed a suit for maintenance. They are separated and she alleged the sum of $50 a month which Voigt agreed to pay her was insufficient to support herself and two children.

The decision of the United States Golf Association resulted after the District of Columbia Golf Association had disbarred Voigt from District tournaments because of violating the amateur rules. The charges of the District association were based on the employment of the player by Edward B McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, on his newspaper and the allegation that Voigt gave instructions to the publisher in golf. Voigt denied the charges of giving instructions.

MARTINSBURG ABANDONS SUNDAY BALL GAMES

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—By a close vote the board of directors of the Martinsburg (Blue Ridge League) professional baseball team last night decided not to play further Sunday games in this city. Action resulted from a protest by the ministerial association and warning through counsel that legal means would be employed if further games were attempted. The resolution providing for discontinuance of the games—two having been played this season in an effort to help out financially—speaks for the present year only, and adds an appeal to the public to come forward and help liquidate an existing indebtedness.

Sarazen Is Retired; Sent to Graze on Widener's Farm

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's Sarazen, once rated as one of the best geldings in the United States, has been retired forever. Sarazen will be sent to Philadelphia to graze on J. E. Widener's farm.

As a 2-year-old Sarazen cost Mrs. Vanderbilt $60,000. He never was defeated as a 2-year-old. In recent years the horse had developed a mean temper. At times he would show some of his old time speed. Then he would sulk, pin back his ears and refuse to extend himself.

BRICKLEY HELD AS SWINDLER

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Charles E. Brickley, former Harvard football star, was arrested today on an indictment which charged him with operating a bucket shop and appropriating stocks and bonds of three customers amounting to $35,588. He pleaded not guilty and being unable to furnish $20,000 bail, was taken to jail. Brickley was indicted on similar charges in 1923, but was acquitted.

GERMAN HORSES SOLD AT SARATOGA SPRINGS

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A consignment of 23 yearlings and a 7-year-old stallion from the famous Harzburg stud in Germany, marked the opening of the Tasig-Typton sales, with 36 head bought for $56,650, an average of $1,574.

The Idle Hour and Fairfield farms, John T. Ireland and other American breeders, are participating in the sales. E. R. Bradley was one of the bidders and bought two horses from the stables of Baron von Lyncken.

BENNY BASS, a Jewish boy of Philadelphia, is the featherweight champion of Pennsylvania. He is in reality the featherweight champion of the world, but is uncrowned. This division has had no [illegible] leader [illegible] Louis Kaplan grew too fat for this division and relinquished the title.

Bass has beaten practically every good boxer in his class, and those he has not beaten, have been beaten by men Bass has thrown for a loss.

At present the boy who seriously challenges Bass' right to be called the best featherweight in the world is Rosey Stoy. A meeting will soon be arranged so that this argument will be cleared up.

On what both have shown so far Bass should have no great trouble in scoring a victory over Stoy.

THE other night Tommy Crowley, a Pittsburgh featherweight, against the advice of friends, took on Bass. He lasted one round and a part of the second. Bass' superiority was well known. The inequality of this match was pointed out to Crowley, through his manager, but both insisted Tommy should have a chance against Bass. The result was no surprise to those who knew the records of both boys.

Crowley, after a brief flash a year ago, indicated he was never going to be of championship stuff, yet rashly he was matched with the best boy in the world. This in the face of the records which showed that other boys inferior to Bass had been good enough to defeat Crowley.

WILL the knockout suffered by Crowley do to him what a knockout did to another promising Pittsburgh boy, Pete Zivic? At one time Pete Zivic looked far superior in his class to his younger brother, Jack. But one sunny afternoon in Pittsburgh Carl Tremaine knocked Pete kicking and ever after that Pete was nothing but a third-rater. His brother, Jack, took the spotlight away from him and has held it ever since.

BASS, in marching to the featherweight throne, is doing everything asked of him. He knocks out inferior foemen who challenge his right to the title. Recently he flattened Mickey Boyle, who was erroneously deemed worthy of a chance, and he followed this up with an easy victory over Crowley.

BASS was born in Russia in 1904. He has been boxing since 1923. He is a complete ring workman. He makes the weight with ease, goes into the ring strong, in fine condition. He punches well with either hand, and his attack is varied. His defense and offense are well balanced.

Old-timers will not grant him equality with the featherweight grade of the past. At this time, at any rate, the name of Bass does not fire the imagination as do such names as Terry McGovern, Young Corbett and George Dixon.

But perhaps 20 years from now the fans will be sighing for the good old days when Bass was the best featherweight, while moaning over the present crop of feathers, with which they are confronted.

BASS is under contract to Phil Glassman, a talkative little man of Philadelphia, who has rolled up a considerable fortune managing boxers. A newsboy once, Glassman got into the boxing racket and was fortunate to pick up Lew Tendler, a lightweight. Tendler rose to prominence just about the time big purses were offered. He got two bouts with Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, and the returns from these bouts were enough to give both Tendler and Glassman a comfortable fortune.

Glassman is thoroughly convinced that Benny Bass has no superior. He is not afraid to put Bass against any group of feathers the proper authorities select. Those who have seen Bass find themselves agreeing with Glassman in his contention. This is unusual. Very few agree with Glassman very often. He is a positive man who by his strict dogma alienates those who like to hear in a conversation every once in a while: "Of course, I may be wrong . . ."

BASS is not the only Pennsylvanian asking for a title. His fellow-Philadelphian, Tommy Loughran, is insisting he and not Michael McTigue, is the light heavyweight champion. But Loughran's actions are not quite so sincere as Bass'. Where Bass, to establish his claim, is willing to meet all and sundry, Loughran is objecting to meeting a rival in an elimination contest to determine which shall have the right to meet McTigue for the title. If Loughran thinks he is the best he should welcome, and not resent, offers to establish his superiority.

Loughran, possibly, is the best light-heavy today, but he is not helping his case in making faces when he is asked to establish his claim to a meeting with McTigue.

STIFF GAME TODAY

A stiff game confronts the Philadelphia Company team this evening when Manager Harry Long's outfit stacks up against the crack Duquesne Light Company team on the Duquesne University field at 6:30.

Local Star Equals Par

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER, Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Shooting par golf or better most of the way, Carl Kauffmann of Pittsburgh advanced to the semifinals in the national public links golf tournament at the Ridgewood Club here today. The Schenley Park ace's brilliant play, which has been surpassed by no other tournament entrant and equaled by very few, proved too much for J. K. Miller of Washington and he bowed in defeat, 5 and 4.

Miller put up a stubborn battle over the first nine holes when Kauffmann, after shooting exactly par, won an advantage of but a single hole. Class and experience "told" down the stretch however and the Pittsburgher gained the decision handily.

Kauffmann's opponent in the semifinals is Robert Wingate, of Jacksonville, Fla., who eliminated Ed Curtin, of Newark, one up.

In matches in the other bracket, William Serrick, New York veteran, who is regarded as Kauffmann's most dangerous rival, defeated B. M. Burrows, of Washington, 2 and 1, and Kendall Morrison, of St. Joseph, Mo., eliminated Frank Brokl, of St. Paul, one up.

KAUFFMANN GAINS LEAD

Kauffmann plowed sand off the first green and took a 5 for a half, Miller requiring three putts. They halved the second in par. Kauffmann reached a ditch guarding the fairway to No. 2, as did Miller, each dropping out for the penalty of one stroke. The Pittsburgher was down for a 5 and a win, Miller taking three putts.

Kauffmann's approach shot to the third was 35 feet from the pin and he putted dead, two feet away and was down for a birdie 4, Miller taking a 6. The Washington entrant sank a 15-footer for a birdie on the fifth while Kauffmann got his par. One the short sixth, Kauffmann's iron carried to the face of a mound in front of the green and bounded back 50 feet.

Kauffmann chipped and the ball rolled into the cup for a birdie and a win.

Kauffmann's drive to the seventh reached the woods and he was over the edge of the green on his second. Miller hit par for a win. On the long eighth Miller was well up to the pin on his second and was down for a birdie 4, Kauffmann requiring three strokes to reach the carpet and two putts.

To reach the turn, Kauffmann laid his approach less than 12 inches from the pin and was down for another birdie and a win, giving him the advantage of 1 up as they started to the tenth. The cards going out:

Kauffmann ......5 4 5 4 4 2 5 5 3—37
Miller ......5 4 6 6 3 2 4 4 4—39

BIG PROMOTER DISAPPEARS

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The whereabouts of James Mullen, Chicago boxing promoter, was the cause of some concern among his friends today after it was reported that the promoter had not been seen since Tuesday night following his last fight card.

Mrs. Mullen said her husband was out of town but did not know where he was or when he would return.

Friends of the promoter said he apparently disappeared immediately after his fight show in the new Mill Stadium Tuesday night. That show marked Mullen's entry into the field of low priced fight promoting and was considered one of the most successful he had carded for some time.

The Chicago Tribune today said that at the time of his disappearance Mullen was believed to have been carrying most of the $15,000 gate receipts and that the fighters on his card had not been paid. The paper expressed the probability that something sinister might have happened.

Mullen's son celebrated his birthday anniversary yesterday and when Mullen failed to appear for the festivities his friends expressed their concern.

COLUMBIA BOOKS DARTMOUTH

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Columbia and Dartmouth have signed a two-year agreement in football, effective next year. The teams will renew their gridiron warfare October 20, 1928, at Hanover.

The Dartmouth schedule for 1928 likewise is in the making, with games listed against Harvard, Yale, Brown, Cornell, Columbia and Northwestern. The Northwestern game will be played at Evanston, Ill.

Fight Results

At New York—Tom Heeney, New Zealand, won on a foul from Bud Gorman, Kenosha, Wis. (3); Monte Munn, Lincoln, Neb., knocked out Pat Lester, Tucson, Ariz. (1); Jimmy Byrne, Louisville, knocked out Italian Jack Herman, New York (5); Jack Roper, Los Angeles, won on foul over Georgie Smith, Newark (2).

At Detroit—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, defeated Bob Sage, Detroit (10).

At Philadelphia—Jack Gross of Salem, N. J., heavyweight, won the decision over Ray Neumann, Jersey City, (10).

At New Haven, Conn.—Bat Battalino defeated Tony De Palma, New Haven, (10).

CHILLYSAUCE

—By CHILLY DOYLE—

Fine Boys, These.

A wonderful batter named
Waner,
Whose methods could hardly be plainer;
When asked by a tout
If he ever struck out.
Replied, "I'm a total abstainer."

Another disciple of clout
Who puts many pitchers to rout,
In refusing to fan
When he stands at the pan,
Is that jack-rabbit youngster called Sprout.

Brother Ralph Here.

THE Waner boys are much more popular than the Marx brothers, especially with baseball fans. Paul and Lloyd were augmented yesterday as they welcomed their brother, Ralph, who came all the way from dear old Ada to spend a week in Pittsburgh, the most of which will find him in the Oakland Orchard.

A business man of the home town in Oklahoma, Ralph has been the star shortstop of the Ada club for the past eight seasons. When Donie Bush heard this he invited Ralph to take a workout with the Pirates. The invitation was heartily accepted and Ralph will have a frolic today. But if Bush tries to hold onto the oldest brother, Ada will take the case to Judge Landis.

Speaking of Speed.

PUNCH-'EM PAUL and Sprout yesterday connected for nine safeties, Lloyd making five in the two games. The jack-rabbit runner also was robbed in the first inning of the second game, Heinie Sands spearing a liner that carried a two-base tag.

The marvelous speed of the younger of the two Pirates has players upset all over the circuit, and fans are buzzing continually on this phase of his play as Sprout shows his heels. The ease with which he gets over the ground is striking. This is noted also in the chasing of fly-balls. He steps from left-center to the foul line as quickly and as lightly as a zephyr.

At this writing I can't recall any instance where he has been doubled up on a ground ball throughout the season. On the other hand, I have seen him lose three or four hits through the medium of a runner going from first to second. Force plays have robbed him of safeties when the infielder had no chance to get the wee sprinter at first.

* * *

A young man named Spalding fouled off 10 successive Kremer pitches in the second game. Most of the rockets were grabbed up as souvenirs by the fans. If one wanted to be suspicious or a bit comical he might conclude that Mr. Spalding was working for Mr. Spalding.

Like Oakland Kid.

Regis Lehney, clever lefthand pitcher and a real son of Oakland, is likely to join the Pirate family. The son of Police Lieutenant Peter Lehney, Regis inherits his baseball skill from a ball-playing dad. Pete was a star in his boyhood days, but his son is even more impressive.

Regis wore the Pirate regalia yesterday as he worked the batting practice for the Pirates. Donie Bush, Chic Fraser and Bill Hinchman were all tickled over the form and stuff showed by the southpaw recruit. It is probable he will be sent out under a Pirate string.

* * *

"Them Giants are coming tomorrow, so it looks like another big holiday in Oakland. It's always circus day when the New Yorkers reach town."

Minor League Players Out of Game Due to Mumps

Universal Service.

READING, Pa., Aug. 5.—It was appendicitis that ran up the hospital lists in the big leagues this spring, and now puerile mumps has attacked the minors.

Two members of the Newark International League club, playing here have been stricken. Jack Bentley, former Giant utility man, is ill in Newark with mumps and Harry Mackin, second baseman of the bears, was taken ill with mumps at the club's hotel.

Others may be infected, it is feared.

PENN'S METHOD HAS DEFENSE

By JESS CARVER.

There are those who would register a kick over the methods used by Penn in getting Rusty Callow for crew coach from the University of Washington.

Callow's contract with the Huskies had a year or so yet to run at Washington when Penn decided to go out after the famed mentor. They made overtures to him of such palatability and couched in such glowing terms that Callow sought his release.

When a coach seeks to break a contract, it is usually best to permit him to do so. Washington did this, and now Callow will head the oarsmen at Penn—at a figure closely approaching, if not equaling, that of many a grid coach.

There isn't anything so terribly wrong with Penn's going out and getting Callow. The moral side of the affair rests entirely with the coach himself. If he wishes to break a contract in order to sign a better one—fine, let him go. Big business spares no means to secure a desirable man, so why should the big business of college athletes be any the less squeamish?

It's all in the way you look at it. If Washington wanted Rusty badly enough, they certainly could have raised the ante.

And many a church issues a "call" to a minister of another congregation, and attached thereto is usually a fat increase in the yearly stipend.

The United States suffered a sad blow in the death of William Prout, president of the American Olympic Council.

Prout was a famous track star in his younger days, and had been affiliated with the A. A. U. and Olympic bodies for a number of years. He possessed a thorough understanding of track and field affairs.

Prout excelled on the track as a quarter-miler, and stepped the distance in and around 48-3 and 49 seconds consistently.

There is a certain young man, an athlete of parts and a graduate of a high school located within 50 miles of Pittsburgh, who is causing two college athletic managers to lose no little amount of sleep.

This young gentleman wrote to both managers, expressing his intention of enrolling in their respective schools this fall and of coming out, as they say, for the football teams. Inasmuch as he is a big fellow, possessing plenty of promise, the two managers both kicked up their heels in high glee when they received his letter.

Then they met, and one happened to mention to the other the acquisition of the said star. And both parted feeling sorry for the other.

It's very quaint.

PAULINO MEETS SHARKEY IF HE BEATS DELANEY

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—If Paulino, the big elm eradicator from the Pyrenees, gives Jack Delaney the ax next Thursday night at the Yankee Stadium, he will be matched with Jack Sharkey, the martyred Mariner from Massachusetts. This statement was issued by Tex Rickard's press bureau today.

P. R. R. TRACKERS IN MEET

Athletes of the Western Pennsylvania Grand Division of Pennsylvania Railroad will hold their grand division eliminations at Pitcairn tomorrow starting promptly at 12:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

The meet will be in charge of Frank Shea, coach at the University of Pittsburgh, and Johnnie H. Baker, general athletic chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Grand Division. Assisting will be R. S. Lewis, athletic chairman of the Pittsburgh Division; J. D. Craig, athletic chairman of the Conemaugh Division, and E. E. Sutman, athletic chairman of the Monongahela Division.

The Conemaugh Division has one of the fastest track teams that has ever represented that division and should make a good showing in the finals. The Pittsburgh and Monongahela divisions have individual stars that should boost their averages.

In addition the elimination ball game between the Western Pennsylvania and the Eastern Ohio Grand Division teams will be played off immediately after the track meet.

GROSS DEFEATS NEUMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—(INS.)—Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., heavyweight contender, today had another victory added to his string as a result of a win over Ray Neuman, of Jersey City, here last night.

Them As Has "Getz"

—By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor—

Chicago has the big fight—the Dempsey-Tunney return bout for the heavyweight championship of the world—because it has a "go-getter" who went out after the scrap and wouldn't take "no" for an answer.

Strangely enough, his name is Getz—George H. Getz, Getz, of course, is pronounced "Gets." Getz is a millionaire. He has got much out of life. Seemingly, he has got whatever he has gone after. He still is getting whatever he goes after. The big fight, for instance. From the very start of the bidding he was able to convince Tex Rickard that he had something better to offer in the way of a site for the battle than New York or Philadelphia, and he never before had been associated with such an enterprise.

Mr. Getz has lived up to the proud traditions of his name, and has made the colloquialism "them as has gits" ring true.

Not necessarily them as has money, but them as has the right sort of fighting stuff for this battle of life, the greatest game or sport of them all. There's a valuable lesson behind the success of the well-named Mr. Getz of the Gets-Getzes.

HEENEY WINS ON FOUL IN BOUT WITH GORMAN

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Tom Heeney, Australian heavyweight, won on a foul from Bud Gorman of Kenosha, Wis., in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden last night.

Gorman was warned several times for hitting below the belt, but paid no attention.

Heeney had all the better of the milling as far as the bout went, pounding Bud about the face and body often with rights and lefts.

Monte Munn knocked out Pat Lester in the first round, Lester being floored three times.

COX BAN LIFTED

Joe Cox, Regina Candy pitcher who was suspended two weeks ago, had his suspension lifted last night by League President Gene Boyle and he is now eligible to play for the Regina team. Tommy Ray, also suspended at the time Cox was set down, will be reinstated August 8 and will be eligible to play on that date. These players were suspended for their action in a game at Dean field which Barney Givens umpired.

"I'm glad I followed the advice of Mary Garden"

Marvelous Mary Garden writes:

"My teachers, Trabello and Richard Barteleney, all impressed upon me the solemn warning that I must always treat my throat as a delicate instrument. Yet every artist is under constant strain. Sometimes we get real relaxation in smoking a cigarette. I prefer Lucky Strikes—which both protects the throat and gives real enjoyment."

Mary Garden

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

Old Contract Again Cited

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The Chicago Coliseum Club, headed by B. E. Clements, announced through Ralph Rosen, its chief of counsel, today that it intended to start court action to prevent Jack Dempsey boxing Gene Tunney here next month for the heavyweight championship.

Rosen's statement pointed out that Dempsey, in March, 1926, had contracted to box Harry Wills under Clements' promotion and agreed to fight no one else in the interim. Rosen obtained an injunction in an Indiana court prohibiting Dempsey from fighting Tunney at Philadelphia, but the decree was not recognized in Pennsylvania.

MUCH MONEY EXPENDED.

Advance notice of the intention of the Coliseum Club was given, Rosen said, because "we do not wish to be placed in the position in the court actions which are to be brought, of opening the way for a defense upon the theory that the public, whose interests and rights are always to be given first consideration, was not advised of the true state of facts in time to prevent financial loss."

Rosen asserted that his client "expended very large sums of money" in promoting the Dempsey-Wills meeting which failed to materialize.

"Now Dempsey is planning a further violation of our rights and he and those who assisted him in former violations have the temerity to do so in our own jurisdiction," said Rosen's lengthy type-written statement.

EXPLAINS ACTION.

"This we propose shall not happen. We propose to take every step necessary by the institution of proper court proceedings to compel all of the parties interested to recognize our claims.

"Our action when filed will disclose the most flagrant and astonishing disregard not only of our rights but of the public's rights as well, and I feel confident that no fight will be possible in Chicago between Dempsey and Tunney as now proposed."

"MERE PUBLICITY"—TEX

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—The intended suit of the Chicago Coliseum Club to prevent the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight September 22 is a mere "bid for publicity," Tex Rickard declared today.

"This is the start of the usual attempts to 'horn in' to the spotlight, I suppose," the promoter said. "My attorneys in Chicago will handle the matter when and if it comes to court. Certainly there is nothing to worry about and no possibility of the suit halting the bout."

FINALS ON TODAY AT SEABRIGHT

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—A man and a woman old in the ways of tennis today held most of the spotlight in the invitation tournament here and had within their grasps a clean sweep of all the honors.

William T. Tilden and Mrs. Molla Mallory, oldest of the entries in point of experience, were the only ones to reach the finals in both singles and doubles and the semi-finals in mixed doubles as well.

Having triumphed yesterday over George Lott, of Chicago, and over others of the country's promising youngsters in previous rounds, Tilden today was to face his doubles partner, Frank T. Hunter, in the finals for the men's singles trophy. Hunter's semi-final victory was hard won over young Fritz Mercur, former Lehigh player.

In the women's singles final scheduled for tomorrow, Mrs. Mallory is to meet a real test in the young California player, Helen Jacobs, who defeated her a few days ago. While Mrs. Mallory was beating Mrs. A. H. Chapin yesterday little Miss Jacobs was soundly trouncing Miss Eleanor Goss, third ranking player, on an adjoining court.

The Tilden-Hunter affair, champion doubles team of England, at the same time reached the final where tomorrow they meet Richard N. Williams and Lewis N. White.

SWIM RECORDS SHATTERED

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Records fell as swimmers from the East and Middle West splashed in the Detroit Boat Club's first outdoor meet to be held under electric lights last night.

Johnny Weissmuller of of the Illinois A. C. accomplished his aim of several years, crashing the world's record for the 220-yard free style, long course event, covering the distance in 2:01 2-5, lowering the record of 2:13 2-5 held for 13 years by Duke Kahanamoku of Honolulu.

Walter Spense of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. failed by nearly three seconds to lower the 100-meter breast stroke record. His time was 1:21 and the record 1:18 2-5.

George Kojac of the Boys' Club of New York, who has beaten Weissmuller in backstroke swimming, knocked 23 seconds from the national junior record in the 300-yard medley. His time was 4:24. The 440-yard national junior championship went to Robert Cannon of the Cleveland Y. M. C. A. His brother, William, was second. The time was 5:47 1-5.

Marie Hilligas of Philadelphia took the 100-meter national junior breast stroke title in 1:41, while the Woman's Aquatic Club of Detroit wan the 880-yard relay in 12:43 to bring the national championship here.

NEW KENSINGTON, ARDEN AUTO RACES TOMORROW

Ralph DePalma, veteran automobile racer, will be the starter of the five short automobile races at the New Kensington track tomorrow afternoon. The first race is scheduled for 3:30 (daylight saving time).

A 75-mile race will be held at the Arden Downs Fair grounds track tomorrow beginning at 3 o'clock (daylight saving time).

SARAZEN NEAR TOP

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen with a score of 78 today, added to 76 yesterday, had a 36-hole total of 154, the best figure compiled among the first few Americans to finish the second round of the Canadian open golf championship.

WRIGLEY FIELD FOR SERIES

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Not to count his chickens before they are hatched, but merely for the purpose of satisfying hundreds of Chicagoans who have made inquiry, William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, has announced that Wrigley Field will be the scene of part of the next world series, should a National League pennant come to Chicago.

The park of the White Sox would accommodate a larger crowd, but Veeck said that notwithstanding this fact, the Cubs would use their own park.

John M'Graw to Lead Giants Until 1928

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—AP.)—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today spiked renewed reports that he would retire from baseball at the end of the present season by declaring he would not quit until 1928.

"I will remain until my contract expires in 1928," he said. "After that I will give up the job and try to take it easy for the remainder of my life."

HAWTHORNE OPENS AUG. 15

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Hawthorne Fields (Chicago) racing plant will be opened to the public August 15 for 18 days of racing, S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture, announced today.

Yanks So Far Immune From Shutout

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The New York Yankees not only boast the distinction of scoring more shutout victories than any other club in the major leagues so far this season, but are the only team to escape a whitewashing in the two big pennant races.

The Hugmen, sailing along in first place with a comfortable lead, have registered eight triumphs over the whitewash route, having blanked Boston twice, 3 to 0 and 9 to 0; Chicago twice, 8 to 0 and 9 to 0; Cleveland twice, 7 to 0 and 5 to 0; Washington once, 5 to 0, and Detroit once, 2 to 0.

The two sets of horse-collars presented to the Chicago White Sox came on successive days, the Yankee hurlers holding the Windy City club scoreless for 16 successive innings at Chicago.

An idea of the batting strength of the heavy artillery banded together by Miller Huggins, the mite manager of the American League champions, is shown in the fact that only six times this season have the New Yorkers been held to one run by the opposition.

Charley Root, veteran righthander of the Chicago Cubs, increased his lead in victories over Teddy Lyons, of the White Sox, to two games yesterday when he received credit for the triumph the Bruins scored over the Braves. Root now has 19 victories to his credit, while his American League rival has 17.

Lyons, however, holds a slight edge in defeats, having suffered only eight reverses, while Root has been beaten nine times.

AMERICANS LEAD FIELD IN CANADIAN TOURNEY

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—With Leo Diegel leading for the first 18 holes and Americans holding eight of the first 10 places in the standing, the possibility of the Canadian open golf championship leaving the Dominion had been charged to a probability.

QUICKSANDS OF LOVE

A New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

MY FATHER'S question startled me not alone by its wording but by its tone of anxiety.

"What is the matter with Richard?" I repeated hastily. "Why, I haven't noticed anything the matter with him. His appetite is a bit capricious, but then, it always has been."

"You've seen him every day," my father returned, "and so your eyes are blinded. But he's a sick man, whether he knows it or not. [illegible] his [illegible] at all, or the [illegible] eyes."

[illegible] in his voice the kindly [illegible] concern which [illegible] been [illegible] for his son-in-law. Patently the thought of Dicky's illness had banished temporarily, at least, the doubts of my husband's loyalty to me, which so plainly had been in his mind at the time of our last interview.

"I don't know what I can do," I said with a lively remembrance of times in the past when I had tried to minister to my temperamental husband when I judged him to be ill.

The memories helped to allay a little remorseful feeling that I had not noticed the signs of illness in Dicky's face. He had rebuffed me so many times that I some time before had resolved I would not again concern myself with his health unless he should be seriously ill, or should ask me for my aid.

"No," my father said with a comprehending shake of the head. "I can imagine that Richard is rather difficult of approach on the subject of his health. Most men are. But I don't believe he'll resent my speaking of it if you don't mind."

"Oh! I'd be so glad to have you," I exclaimed gratefully, and spent the rest of the time before dinner in surreptitiously watching my husband.

He was looking unlike his usual self, I admitted as I noted a pallor not pronounced but utterly foreign to him, and an indefinable queerness in the expression of his eyes. I noticed also that he paid but scant justice to the delicious dinner Katie had prepared.

"Look here, Richard," my father said when, after dinner Katherine and Mary had gone upstairs with Junior and Dicky, my father and I were back in the livingroom, "are you well?"

Dicky looked up at him with a startled expression.

"Why do you ask that?" he countered. "Do I look sick?"

"Yes, you do," my father answered bluntly. "I don't like your looks at all."

Dicky grinned at him with a touch of his old impishness.

"You're not lonesome in that little stunt," he said. "Other people have told me that before."

But my father smiled only faintly. "I'm not joking, lad," he said. "I really am concerned about you."

"Nonsense!" Dicky retorted, and I saw that my father's persistence annoyed him as mine used to do. "I'm perfectly all right, just a bit off my feed. I think, at that, it's the cooking. Katie seems to be losing her magic touch; too many movies, I guess."

Injustice always rouses me, and the slur on my faithful little maid who had worked so hard that this dinner might be especially good, stung me to explosive speech.

"Indeed, she isn't," I flared. "That's awfully unfair, Dicky, to blame Katie because you feel too ill to eat."

"I don't feel ill, I tell you," he growled. "Nothing tastes good, that's all."

"That isn't anything to trifle with," my father interposed. "I really think, Richard, you should see a physician."

"Oh! forget it," Dicky retorted with an irritation I never before had seen him display toward my father. "I see now where Madge gets her complex upon sending for a doctor every time anybody has a toeache. I don't need a doctor."

Beet Sandwiches.

Chop fine, enough cold boiled beets to make a cupful. Take a quarter cupful of vinegar and three-quarters of a cupful of water and put in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter, pepper, salt and a quarter cupful of sugar. Heat, then add a heaping teaspoonful of cornstarch moistened in a little water, stir until the consistency of cold honey, then remove from the fire and turn onto a beaten egg yolk. When cool stir enough of the sauce into the beet to moisten to a paste and it is ready to use.

There's magic in the words—

A good cup of coffee! There's magic in the very words! Steaming, fragrant coffee, richly creamed to mellow deliciousness, is one of the big joys in life.

But bottled cream certainly is expensive. Lots of families think they must get along without cream—and every cup of coffee they drink brings real disappointment.

Don't be disappointed! It isn't necessary—even when economy must be carefully considered. For Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk will cream and sugar your coffee to perfection—give it the rich, heavy, velvety body, the golden color and smooth, mellow flavor you long for—at one-half the cost of separate cream and sugar!

It's true! Millions of delicious cups of coffee testify to it every morning. Yours will tell the same pleasant story tomorrow morning—if you buy Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk today!

Here's the secret: Eagle Brand Milk is a smooth, heavy blend of pure, fresh, full-cream country milk (from which most of the water has been removed) and finest sugar. Removing the water gives more than double richness. Blending in the sugar gives the smoothness and body you find in heavy cream . . . and makes the flavor more tempting.

Get this milk today from your grocer. Not only for finer coffee—but for finer cooking, as well. Whenever a recipe calls for milk and sugar, Eagle Brand Milk is the milk to use. It gives extra richness, smoothness, creaminess. Keep it on hand . . . There's no waste to it! It keeps fresh, pure and rich for days after the can is opened—even without ice.

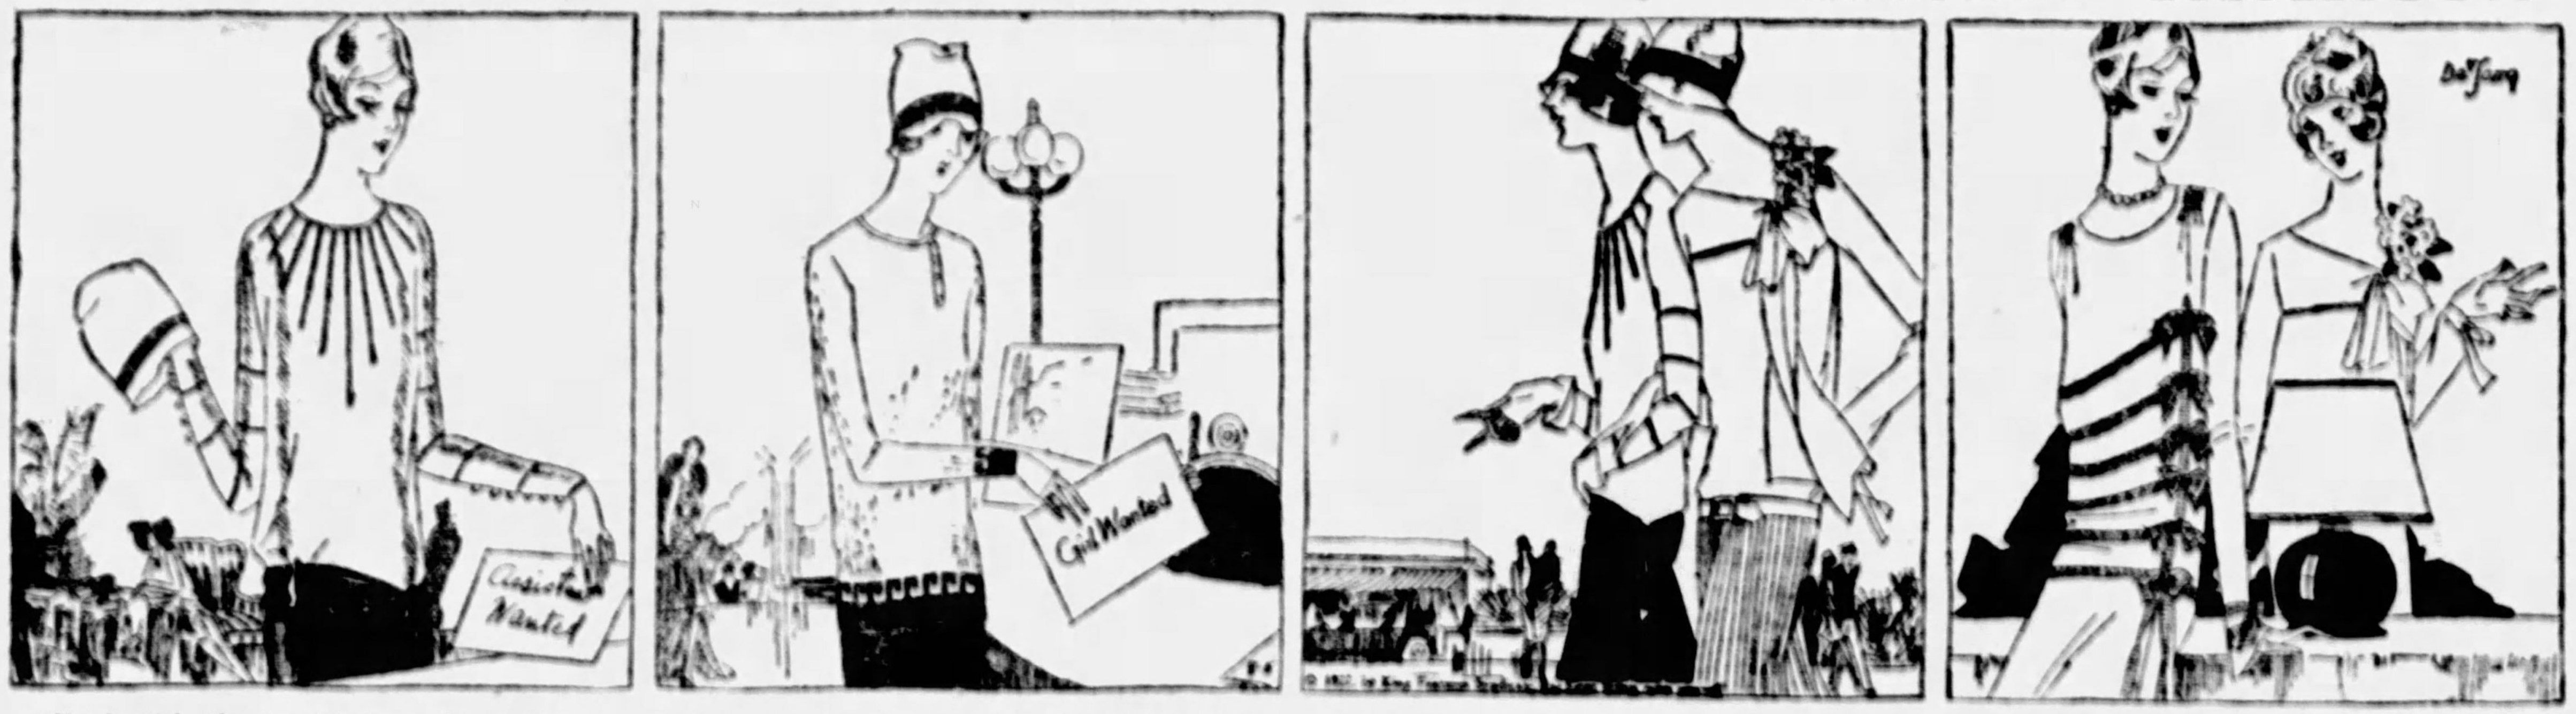
CHIC CHERIE ✣ TWO GIRLS—NOT WANTED ✣ LATEST FASHIONS



Cherie sticks the sign "Assistant Wanted" back in the shop window and steps out, a free woman, in a fagotted dress of tile blue that does honor to the occasion. Families should be kept in reserve for emergencies, she thinks, and what family could be better than an Aunt Em on a farm?

Dina puts the placard "Girl Wanted" back on the hotel desk and wanders out looking carefree in a knitted dress of boucle with a black skirt and white blouse. Dina has never been on a farm, but Cherie's Aunt Em is saving their lives and the simple life is good for the complexion.

"What do you do on a farm?" asks Dina. "Milk cows, feed chickens and make butter and things like that," answers Cherie as though she knew. Only Dina's dress of yellow crepe with a side-cut yoke and pleated skirt makes her feel equal to these alarming and dangerous tasks.

"We'll get there in two days and Aunt Em will feed us on cherry pies and oatmeal cookies," says Cherie. "I'll probably get fat," and for a moment she is almost gloomy because fat would not become this dress of navy chiffon with its diagonal trimming of light blue bows and ribbons.

Listening In on Eve

(Copyright by Associated Newspapers.)

"HELLO," Mrs. Marsden nodded as she settled herself and lunch tray across the cafeteria table from Babe Saunders. "Where's Lottie? I thought you two girls always ate together."

"That's history," replied Babe. "Lottie's treated me like a dog."

"You don't say!" smiled Mrs. Marsden. "How so?" Babe's air was slightly supercilious.

"Girl friends aren't what they're cracked up to be. Lottie's simply turned turtle on me—after all I've done for her, too."

"Was there a man in it?"

"Nobody but Tod Morris, that country boy from Lottie's home town. Lottie always said he bored her stiff. We girls at the office used to have spreads after work, and Lottie was always there with bells on until Tod came moseying along up to the city and got a job here. Honestly, I never felt so sorry for anybody in my life as I did for Lottie those days. 'You know, I'd just love to come,' she'd say whenever a spread was brewing, 'but oh girls, whatever would I do with that bad boy? He simply won't be dropped; thinks a date's due him every night.' Of course, we girls all sympathized with Lottie. That was away last winter, and all spring Tod hung on. But the real parade came when Lottie asked me home with her to spend the week-end.

"'We'll have a dream of a time,' she said. 'There's a dance at the lodge every Saturday night, and, oh, baby, but we do frolic.' She suggested that I shop with her after lunch that day because she wanted to buy a new dress for the dance. I thought to myself that maybe I'd better get one, too, so off we set for the ready-to-wear. The very first thing that the clerk pulled out was a perfect dream of orchid and heliotrope georgette. The minute I laid eyes on it I made up my mind to take it, but when I tried on it Lottie stood back with her eyes drawn together sort of shrewd and speculating like and said:

"'Of course, it's a pretty dress, but somehow it does something to you—adds years to your figure, or something.' Then she went off into raptures over a blue silk crepe.

"'I never saw anything at the price to equal it in my life,' raved Lottie. Then I let myself in for a little heroism and suggested that, of course, I wouldn't think of buying the gown right out from under her nose if she was so gone on it herself.

"But Lottie was firm. 'No, darling,' she put in. 'It wouldn't be fair for me to take it. [illegible] gives you personality and you give it sheen.'

"After that Lottie looked and looked. It was getting late, and we both knew we ought to be back at the office, and then the very last minute she up and said, 'Oh, well, I might as well take the orchid. It makes me look about 10 years older than I am, but I don't see anything much better. You got the bargain of the lot.'

"Lottie did have a sweet little home if it was in a small town next door to nowhere. And eats—say, I nearly busted myself at supper. When the meal was over Lottie said she always helped her mother do the dishes. I told her not to let me hinder her from any little home joys, that I would go on upstairs and have a cat nap before we dressed for the dance.

"We'd both spread our new dresses on Lottie's bed so as to get the creases out. When I got upstairs and was lying there so nice and fresh, I thought what an angel friend Lottie had been to give up the pretty blue dress to me and make out with the orchid for herself. So I planned a little surprise. I didn't take even a sniffle of a nap. Instead, I put on the orchid dress and left the heavenly French blue for my girl friend. Then I slipped down and joshed Lottie's dad along in the parlor. First thing you know, the door bell buzzed. I heard a scramble in the kitchen and Lottie's voice. 'Good gracious, there's Tod. I'll have to run up and jump into my clothes and wake Babe!'

"Well, I'm telling you, Tod is some talker. He started out by saying, 'So you're the girl friend Lottie's been telling me about this long while. I've been trying to get her to introduce us for ages but it seems we never hit up at the same time. Say,' he went on, 'I hope you don't mind my being personal, but I always did like orchid.'"

After a while Lottie came down with the French blue dress on and she called out to me, "What's the big idea, Babe, switching off like this?" Of course I told her I wanted to do something nice for her.

"Tod said, 'Hello, Lot,' and I swear those are the last words he said to her that night.

"After a time, the other boy ambled in and we started off for the dance. Well, I just shelved my selfish desires of having fun and let Tod monopolize me, for I figured out in so doing I was letting Lottie in for the chance of her life by freeing her from that everlasting sticking plaster.

"It was late when we got back home, and Lottie had an awful headache. She went straight to bed in her mother's room and she never said a word to me. And what's more, she stayed in bed the next day.

"I had to come home by myself. She finally came straggling into the office in a day or two, and would you believe it, after all I did for her, and am doing yet, that ungrateful little snipe cut me cold, wouldn't even look at me, let alone speak."

"What about Tod?" asked Mrs. Marsden.

"That's another feature about how ungrateful girl friends can be. Tod's dumped himself on me and isn't bothering Lottie at all."

MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS

By Ida McGlone Gibson

CHAPTER LII.

A BRAND NEW NATLEE.

CONTRARY to his expectations, Phil slept very well the first night at home. The day had been gruelling, what with getting off the numberless pieces of baggage that Mrs. Tracy had brought home with her, and opening the house with its tragic memories for both of them. Phil and his mother went to their rooms right after dinner.

His old room! He was almost ready to go to the window and call across the hedge to Rod. In fact, he did raise the sash and stood for a long while looking over at the darkened house. It all was so strange.

New York had seemed a very different city from the one he had left almost three years before. Even the old house outside and in was unfamiliar to him. It was only when he stretched himself out on his bed—his old iron bed that he had never allowed his mother to replace with something better—that he gave a sigh of relaxation which nearly approached content.

As he lay there, all the time he had been away dimmed in his mind and it was as though his childhood bed had only brought back the years—the happy years he had nightly rested upon it in the dreamless sleep of youth.

Rod! Natlee! ! All the boys and girls that had come to that fateful party—all his own crowd. Lyra! Even now he felt the ghost of her kisses upon his lips and his passion kindled. It was as she had told him it would be, an exquisite memory.

He went to sleep idly wondering where she was.

He was up early the next morning and was quite surprised when he reached the breakfast room to find his mother already there. She was standing by the window and she seemed much interested in something that was going on outside.

He joined her.

A girl was getting out of a bright blue roadster in front of the house. She was short—almost too slender. She was wearing a much shorter dress than was the fashion in France, but he thought her legs a good excuse for any impropriety in that direction, particularly as the short, narrow skirt would, in her case, pass that impropriety on from the one who was wearing it to the one who was gazing upon it.

"So that is the young American girl," he remarked casually. "She is certainly something new to me."

"She" was all in reseda green except for nude hose and black pumps. Her soft green hat was crushed over the eye which was nearest to him; he could not see her face.

"So that's the latest thing in flappers we've been hearing so much about, is it, Mum?"

Phil had hardly gotten the sentence past his lips when something about the gallant way her tip-tilted head was held, assaulted his memory.

"You don't mean, Mother, that's Natlee?"

"Yes, Son, she's coming here. I invited her to breakfast with us after I went to my room last night."

"Good Lord! I can't see her now. I'll have to get out of this."

Phillip was all a-tremble at the thought of meeting Natlee. "You can't go now, Son," remonstrated his mother.

"It wouldn't be quite sporting, would it? She looks about 12 years old, Mother. I didn't know her at all."

At this moment "Miss Jones" was announced.

Phillip felt as though his knees were made of mush. He wondered if he were glad because she wasn't married after all.

Natlee came in and greeted both Mrs. Tracy and Phil as though they had only returned from a month's pleasure trip. She kissed Mrs. Tracy on the cheek and then advanced toward Phillip, looking at him closely for the first time.

"Ye gods, Wynne, I don't think I would have known you. When I came in the door, you might have knocked me over with your cigaret. Say, you're kind of a patchwork quilt, aren't you? English clothes, cute little French mustache, scarecrow figure with a pale face, skin stretched over the bones—but—yes, yes—it's the same old smile," she said with a little nod, as her nonsense brought a grin to Phil's face.

It was quickly banished, as at Mrs. Tracy's invitation she pulled the soft green hat from off her head.

"Why, Natlee Jones! You've cut off your beautiful hair." Phil fairly wailed the words.

"Of course I have. Everybody's doing it. It won't be long before your mother has bobbed hair. Now be honest. Are you sure you like it?"

She had poked her pert little face up to his and almost flicked his cheek with one of the soft, corn-silk curls that made an aureole about her.

The Fascinating Love Story of a Girl of the Present Day

Virginia Asks Betty What The Dispute With Bob Was About

her eyes and feeling the tears burn, salt and hot against the reddened lids—"we quarreled again tonight—"

"Over Lorrimer?"

"Yes, I suppose so—anyway, he accused me of being interested in the man—as if I cared whether I ever saw him again or not! And when I denied it and said he meant nothing to me Bob told me I was just trying to 'work' him then—that I was a—a gold digger!" cried poor Betty, choking with distaste and anger over the flippant, shopworn, slangy term.

Virginia smiled a little under the cover of darkness, and squeezed the hot little hand she held in her own thin, cool one.

"Not exactly complimentary, was he?" she asked dryly. "Well, go on—what else?"

"Then—then I broke the engagement," replied Betty wearily.

Virginia's heart leaped—with a certain sorrowful triumph.

"You did? What then?" she asked eagerly.

"Oh—oh it sounds so foolish to tell it," protested Betty, "but he said—that as far as he was concerned it wasn't broken at all—that it took two to consent—that he would just go on being engaged to me—and that I need him to protect me—from other people and from myself. He—he called me a fool, too!" she ended indignantly.

Virginia put her arms about the younger girl and held her close.

"Don't grieve so," she advised gently. "Bob is a very foolish boy. I can understand, in a way, why all these quarrels have come about. You have both of you been living under a nervous strain. And what hurts me so is to know that I am the cause of it all. If it hadn't been for me and my troubles you and your Bob would have been happily married by now and none of this would ever have happened."

"Please—don't," responded Betty, in a small, tired voice. "It wasn't your fault—how could you help it? And perhaps—perhaps," she added, "it is all for the best the way things have turned out for Bob and me. If he is going to distrust me all along the line it's a good thing I found it out before it was too late."

"Try and forget him," advised Virginia again, "make the best of things—it's all that all of us can do, you know. And I have no doubt that Mr. Lorrimer is perfectly sincere about wanting you to get this new job. I wish he'd do as much for me—and perhaps it will mean a real future for you, Betty. Heaven knows you deserve it for you work like a dog for all of us—with no reward."

"Don't be foolish—"

"I like Lorrimer," said Virginia in a casual voice.

"I like him, too," said Betty and added ruefully, "but I wish that Bob hadn't put ideas in my head about him."

"I suppose he was angry that you went to lunch with him?" asked Virginia, feeling her way.

"Yes—and he realized I hadn't said anything at home either. Oh, it was wrong and silly of me and made the whole business appear so much more important than it really was. But—well, it was partly your fait, Vee. You'd teased about him so much I was afraid that if I told you, you'd tease some more—so—well, I kept still, that's all. I wish to goodness now that I hadn't."

"I wouldn't have teased," said Virginia gently. "I never meant to hurt you. I was thinking ahead—dreaming ahead—perhaps for your own good, for the good of us all. Selfish, I suppose. But as long as we're on the topic—Betty, Lorrimer is really interested in you, anyone with two eyes in his head can see that. If only you would grow to—to like him a little more. I think any woman could care for him quite easily—and if—if things came out all right between you how wonderful it would be."

The Summer Table.

The setting of the summer table demands the utmost care. The first consideration is the linen. If laundering linen is a problem, there are mat sets in fine oilcloth. Chinese woven straw mats or paper sets may be used instead. The one thing is, have them fresh and clean.

The simpler the table is set, the easier it will be to keep it fresh and dainty. If the table is small, for two or even four covers, the large centerpiece is not used whether floral or otherwise. A center vase or small bowl of flowers with four candlesticks as closely set as possible is an ideal arrangement.

The plate dinner, or individual service simplifies the service, leaving the table almost clear, which always seems cooler. The use of the all crystal lemonade or iced tea sets are cool and attractive looking and may be left on the table during the meal. The entire glass service is lovely for summer use, if one wants to replace the familiar china with it for the hot months. It is really not as fragile as it looks, but it must be carefully washed and polished to keep it glistening.

Hardy flowers that do not wilt quickly should be chosen for decoration. Lilies of different varieties keep well in bowls filled with damp white sand and may be easily pressed into it so they stand upright. Soft ferns with the flowers make them seem fresher and cooler looking.

Blue and white china, delicate green, all white with gold trimmings and decorations, glass or plain white dishes, are the coolest looking. The deeper colors are always suggestive of winter tables. Carving should never be done on the summer table, as large amounts of food on the table are apt to be unappetizing in appearance. Silver must be kept polished, and only that required for two courses should be laid at once. The wooden salad spoon and fork is cool looking for summer use.

Reduces Large Pores

A questionnaire sent to thousands of users of CHEX Soap, which is super medicated to correct defects of the skin, resulted in proving that CHEX does reduce over-size pores.

Twenty-two of each 100 replied that CHEX was unequalled for "reducing large pores" and improving the complexion. This fine, pure, fragrant soap is medicated to reduce large pores, clear and clean up an oily skin or scalp, and to destroy all perspiration odor. CHEX is a soap that satisfies and delights those who use it for toilet, bath, shampoo and deodorant. Leading drug and department stores supply it.

"CHEX does MORE than soap."

CHEX is recommended by all The May Drug Co. Stores and all drug and department stores.

Cleanse skin of make-up, etc., this way, if "That schoolgirl complexion" is your aim

By NORMA SHEARER

LETTING make-up, powder and rouge stay on the face over night is a grave beauty mistake. That tends to clog the pores; invites blackheads and imperfections.

Hence experts urge nightly cleansing with a TRUE COMPLEXION SOAP and water.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note how much better your skin in even one week.

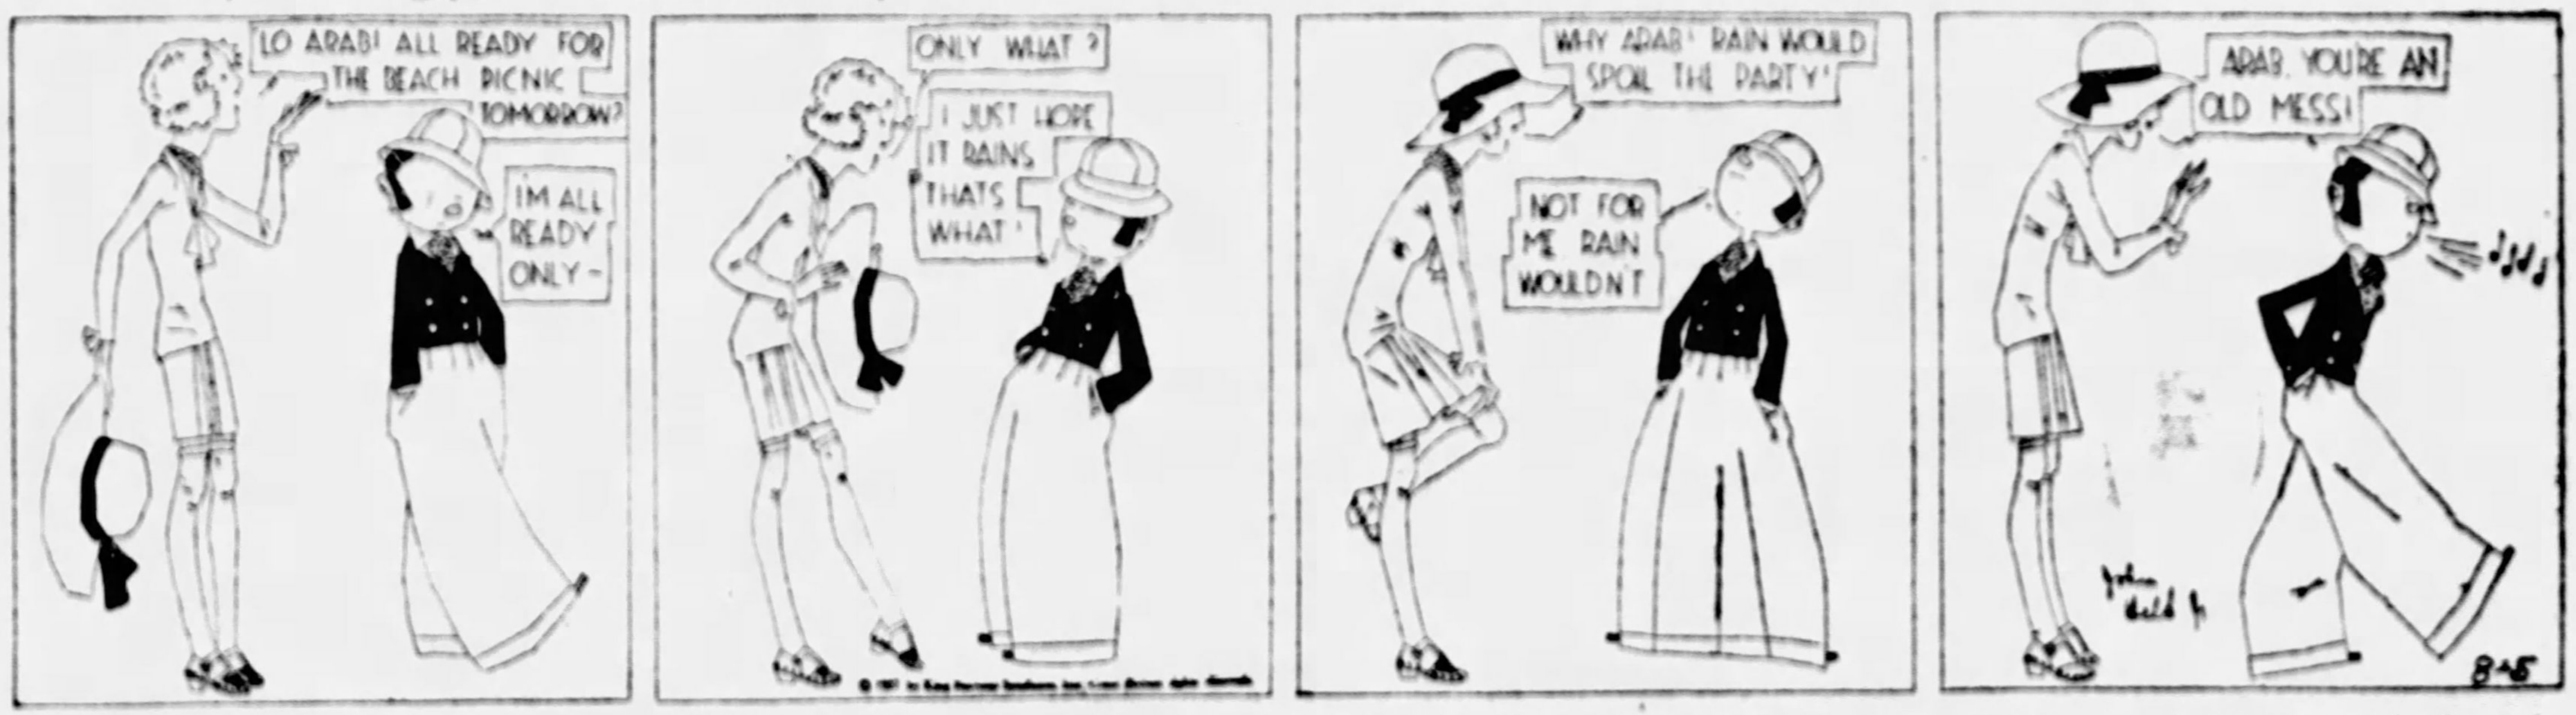
GET REAL PALMOLIVE

Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



LO ARAB! ALL READY FOR THE BEACH PICNIC TOMORROW?
I'M ALL READY ONLY—
ONLY WHAT?
I JUST HOPE IT RAINS THAT'S WHAT!
WHY ARAB! RAIN WOULD SPOIL THE PARTY!
NOT FOR ME RAIN WOULDN'T ARAB, YOU'RE AN OLD MESS!

"ACtually, my dear, ARab simply SLAYS me—I mean, I HONestly don't know what's got INto the odd soul at this point, because he REally acts as if he were full of little red ANTS, do you know what I mean? Because you've honestly never SEEN anybody so positively perVERted! REally, my dear, I am THORoughly anNOYED with him, because it is perfectly CHILDish the way he has been ACting lately and I really think it is terribly unatTRACtive—I mean, I ACtually DO! F'r instance, it is simply FOUL the way he acts when there are other BOYS around, because, I mean, he acts as if they were TRESpassing on HIS PROPerty, because he always has this proPRIetary AIR whenever he is with me—can you BEAR it? Well, ANYways, my dear, I am honestly all hot and BOTHered about it, because I have told him simply THOUsands of times that I think he is TERribly unatTRACtive when he acts that way, but it doesn't seem to do the slightest GOOD, because he is TERribly sort of conCEIted and self-conscIENtious, sort of, do you know what I mean? But he HONestly made the FOULest remark today, when I asked him sort of casurally, whether he was ready for the BEACH picnic to-morrow, because he said he hoped it would RAIN—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean, I think he is getting AWfully sort of CYNical and all—I mean, I ACtually DO!"

Building and Flying Model Airplanes

HOW TO START

The first airplane to be described will be an easily constructed scientific model. You can make it in a few evenings of work by carefully following the directions. The materials will cost only a few dollars.

Then you will be told how to make the very latest type scientific model, embodying the improvements which have made possible the record model flights of over 10 minutes' duration and more than a mile in distance.

The third model will be a flying replica of Col. Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, made to scale.

While building and flying model airplanes is a great sport, it has played an important part in the development of aeronautics. Langley flew models successfully and showed that mechanically propelled flight was possible. The Wrights experimented with gliders and models before they invented the airplane.

Perhaps you through your work with model airplanes can aid in the advancement of aviation. Models are being used today at the great aeronautical laboratories, such as at Langley Field, Va., to solve some of the problems of airplanes.

The construction of a model airplane does not require the use of any unusual tools nor material that is hard to obtain. A hand saw, small plane, penknife, ruler, pair of pliers with side cutters, razor blade and a scrap of sandpaper will suffice for the first model to be described.

The wood needed may be obtained from a lumber yard, but probably every boy will be able to save this expense by using a board from a packing box, or cutting up yard sticks, which are often given away by local notion stores. The propellers are cut from small blocks of wood, easily obtainable. The wings are made of wood and wire; the wire should be preferably No. 16 aluminum, which most hardware stores carry. This is best, but ordinary hairpins of the heavier kind can be used. The wings are to be covered with thin tissue paper, or China silk. These are easy to obtain locally, the silk costs about $1 a yard; ¼ yard will be enough for the model. Most of the wire fittings can be made from heavy hair pins, but the propeller shafts should be stiffer wire, such as hat pins.

The propellers are powered with rubber. The best form consists of what is known as rubber thread, and is obtainable from rubber companies and model supply houses, which are advertised in boys' magazines and aircraft periodicals. A substitute may be made by linking together in form of a chain, long rubber bands, which all drug stores carry. In every instance the material which is lightest and strongest should be used. The actual sizes of material required will be specified in connection with the construction of parts.

Tomorrow the construction of the frame of the first model will be described.

A contestant may enter any number of models in any or all classifications. Check the following classification in which you are entering models:

1. Gliders—without power of any kind. Not over 40 inches in length or span, hand-launched. Judged on general flying efficiency.
2. Scientific model (built to fly, but not necessarily to resemble an airplane). Any kind of power, launched in any manner—hand, ground or water. Not over 48 inches in length or span. Judged on general flying efficiency, distance, duration and weight-carrying ability.
3. Scale model (built to resemble a real airplane). Any kind of power, launched in any manner. Not over 48 inches in length or span. Judged on general flying ability.
4. Scale model for exhibit only. Ability to fly not considered. No restrictions on size or type. Judged on scale, detail and workmanship.

I hereby certify that any model or models to be entered by me have been or will be constructed exclusively by myself.

Entries may be made with your playground director or sent to the Aircraft Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

To be eligible for the National Tournament entry must be in by August 13th, 1927.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, AUGUST 6, 1927.

THROUGH the busiest hours of this day benefic aspects are strong, according to astrology.

This should be an auspicious time to make contracts for advertising or to formulate plans of a financial nature.

There is a sign of promise to all who are engaged in literary pursuits, for Americans are subject to influences that are most stimulating.

Correspondence of every sort is under a most favorable sway, and love letters should be especially persuasive.

This is a fairly lucky wedding day if the ceremony is performed in the afternoon or evening, although trivial deceptions may be expected.

Theaters now come under a planetary rule that is of lucky import, and among early plays more than one big hit is indicated.

This is not a fortunate sway for the Navy, which will be the target for new criticism.

Some sort of an accident to a battleship again is foretold, and much attention is likely to be directed to naval officers.

This is read as a most helpful day for ambitious persons, and especially for those who have reached a high goal.

Promoters and all of large vision have the forecast of great good fortune in the early autumn, when many big projects will be undertaken.

Mars may disturb the iron and steel industry this month, when foreign contracts will be of peculiar interest.

Sudden storms will be frequent all through the month, which will offer many sensations in the way of weather.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of temptations, for new friends will be especially strong in leadership, it is predicted.

Children born on this day probably will be kindly in nature and inclined toward changes that bring vicissitudes.

Tongue Savories.

Cut even slices from a cold boiled smoked tongue, cutting from the end. Take the thin end, or point, and put it through the grinder, using the fine knife. Add to the minced tongue the juice of a large onion, a teaspoonful each of minced peppers and minced celery leaves. Chop 12 olives fine and add with a half teaspoonful of mixed ground spices. Add a teaspoonful of sugar and enough heavy mayonnaise, made with mustard, to moisten. Next spread half the sliced tongue with the paste and top with the other slices. Lay each savory on a toast round, put a little mayonnaise in the center of each with an olive in the middle. Garnish with sprays of parsley and lemon quarters. Serve as soon as possible after fixing so that the edges do not have time to dry out and harden.

Corned Beef, Horseradish Sauce.

Slice cold corned beef in thin slices. Arrange on a lettuce lined dish. Garnish with spoonfuls of cold, jellied cabbage salad and sprays of parsely. Serve the horseradish sauce heaped in a sauce boat. Take a half cupful of freshly grated horseradish and add to it a half tablespoonful of vinegar, then add a half cupful of whipped cream, mix and serve.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

SAY something that she doesn't like, or agree with, and Hortense will flutter into a little panic of resentment. Her feelings are pitched high and her nerves are almost always taut. She rushes about constantly, always breathlessly. She has not yet learned to dip into repose. She subsists on movement and excitement. If she were a bird she would always be on the wing, flashing her vivid personality everywhere. But she would scarcely ever stop at her ease among the tree-tops. She would be too restless for that. But her song would be sweeter.

But, of course, she does not know that.

She is a type.

She is The High-Strung Girl.

Sometimes her nerves protest at the strain and she subsides, completely exhausted. Then mellowness creeps into her viewpoint, and the music in her becomes soft and exquisite and comforting.

It is then and only then that one sees Hortense as she essentially is. The butterfly to her ceases to exist; she attains to the more complete, vital and unruffled beauty of a bird of Paradise.

But these moments are scattered and hang in the air like the last fugitive notes of a stirring symphony. Then Hortense's nerves wind up again; she flies into excitable spells of mental confusion and reverts to type—an agonizing disappointment to those who have thrilled to those scarce moments which find her entirely relaxed and true.

At times, of course, Hortense gets on other people's nerves. High-strung people have a way of unstringing more serene persons. For instance, in her breathlessness, she often—almost always—is misplacing or losing or forgetting things, and her reaction to her discovery that she has misplaced or lost or forgotten something frequently infuriates those who happen to be with her.

But knowing her to be what she is, they forgive her.

She is a girl who, perhaps because of the fact that she is so high-strung, often ascends to the heights of inner beauty which might otherwise be unattainable.

Halitosis easy to prevent

Nothing retards you in business, courtship and society like a real case of halitosis (unpleasant breath). It is a continual offense—and needless, too.

Since you, yourself, can never tell when you have halitosis, the only way to be sure of not offending is to rinse the mouth with Listerine every day—especially before any close personal contact.

1/3 Had Halitosis
80 streetcar conductors, meeting the public at close range every day of the year, said that about one person out of three offends by halitosis. Who should know better than they?
Face to face evidence

So effective, it destroys even the powerful onion odor, Listerine makes short work of milder, but no less unpleasant odors arising in the mouth. It's a good thing to keep a bottle handy in home and office.

STOCKS JUMP, REDISCOUNT RATE CUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The recovery in stock prices, which has been under way since Wednesday's opening break on the Coolidge statement, gained added momentum today by the reduction in the New York Federal reserve rediscount rate, with its implied stimulus to business. Speculative activity centered largely in the industrial shares, many of which were bid up 2 to nearly 10 points to record high levels. Rails continued to lag behind, the drop of $20,000,000 in June earnings of Class 1 carriers and the wage increase to Eastern engineers having a temporarily depressing influence on speculation in that group.

Waves of realizing swept through the market at intervals, but they were fairly well absorbed. Houston Oil broke more than 6 points and weakness also cropped out in Baldwin, Mack Truck, Postum and a few others. The selling of Manhattan Electrical Supply presumably was inspired by the investigation of transactions in that issue.

Public utilities gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of group strength, Brooklyn Union Gas standing out with an extreme gain of 9 points. Peoples Gas, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Edison, Market Street Railway prior preferred and American Express all reached new high ground. American Telephone was in brisk demand during the afternoon.

New peak prices also were established by General Railway Signal, Gabriel Snubber, Westinghouse Airbrake, Atlantic Refining, R. H. Macy, Woolworth, the Fair and McCrory Stores A and B. Among the few strong spots in the railroad division were Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Pacific.

Oil Output Reduction Begun

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 5.—(International News Service Wire.)—The first major attempt in the history of the oil industry to bolster a declining market by voluntary production restriction, got under way today in the Seminole field.

For the next two months the daily output has been set at 450,000 barrels compared with a high last Friday of 525,000. Each lease will curtail production one-ninth under the plan promulgated by Umpire Ray M. Collins. The plan was drafted by a committee of leading oil men.

If the experiment is successful it may ultimately be adopted for varying periods by other large fields which, like the Seminole have been intermittently helping to glut the market, experts predict.

Eastern Money Rates Lower

Federal Reserve banks of New York and Boston reduced their rediscount rate to 3½ per cent.

One of the chief objections seen by bankers to a cut in the New York rate has been the fear that it would result in a further inflation of security prices. The fact that brokers' loans already are at record high levels and that President Coolidge's decision not to be a candidate in 1928 has injected an element of uncertainty into the political situation, will, it is believed, keep speculation within bounds.

The tremendous accumulation of surplus funds, coupled with the relatively small commercial demand, apparently was the chief factor in the decision to lower the rate at this time. By reducing the cost of monetary accommodations to industry and trade, it is also expected to act as a stimulant to fall business.

THE SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—(AP.)—Although no sales were reported in the local raw sugar market early today the undertone was firm. Local buyers appeared willing to pay 4.46c for both Cuban and duty-free sugars, with holders asking 4.52c.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer on covering and buying by houses with trade and European connections. Buying was inspired by the better tone to the spot market, and to firmer advices from abroad. Prices at midday were 1 to 2 points net higher.

In refined sugar list prices ranged from 5.65 to 5.80c for fine granulated, and while a good withdrawal demand was reported, new business was less active.

United States Government Securities.

Constant debt reduction is provided for and assured. Persistent draining of the supply should enhance the value of the remainder.

The annual sinking fund prescribed by Congress will alone suffice to extinguish the entire debt at a rapid rate, even though there are no more Treasury surpluses and no more foreign debt repayments received or availed of for debt reduction. Since those three funds, which are used to purchase bonds and notes in the open market or redeem optional and maturing loans, constitute a positive demand, and since the supply of securities is being definitely reduced, and furthermore since the Secretary of the Treasury may be counted upon to finance the affairs of the national exchequer at as low rates as he can persuade the public to accept, we can confidently anticipate lower yield levels than now prevail.—C. L. Childs & Co.

Overholt Distilleries.

Consummation of the sale by Park & Tilford, Inc., of the old Overholt Distilleries to the American Druggists Syndicate is expected to be effected with the signing of a contract within the next few days. According to interests closely identified with the Schulte organization, it is said, that the resultant profit from the disposal of the whisky holdings will be equal to approximately $10 a share on the 200,000 shares of Park & Tilford capital stock. Control of A. Overholt & Co. was acquired late in 1925 from the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh. American Druggists sells drugs and other products to retail drug stores throughout the country and it is believed that when the liquor holdings are finally acquired an outlet will be found in these stores for whisky for use in medicinal purposes.

CHEAPER REDISCOUNT MONEY CAUSES ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Screw & Bolt Jumps To New Record

Friday, August 5, 1927.

The reduction of rediscount interest by the New York and Boston Federal Reserve Banks, after the close of the market yesterday, from 4 to 3½ per cent, caused much buying of stocks at the start today. United States Steel, among others, showed an early gain of over a point, Pittsburgh Coal was a point higher, Westinghouse Electric rose fractionally, and Air Brake 2¼. General Motors jumped about 2 points.

In Fourth avenue Pittsburgh Plate Glass started $2 higher at 230. Standard Sanitary at 93 was a point higher. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt made a new maximum by rising ½ to 45. Duquesne Light preferred was unchanged at 116½. Lone Star Gas began unchanged at 47¼ but soon went to 47. Devonian Oil at 10¼ was ¼ higher.

Later in the session Screw and Bolt jumped to 47, but the stock reacted to 46. Arkansas Gas sold ⅛ higher at 9, but went to 8⅞. Salt Creek Oil at 6½ was unchanged. American Vitrified preferred at 90 was a point lower. Fireproofing preferred at 26 was ½ higher. Tidal Osage Oil at 23½ was 1½ higher.

Standard Sanitary got up to 93½ in the afternoon.

Standard Sanitary rose to 95. Arkansas Gas became active and rose to 9¼. Plate Glass reacted to 138. Columbia Gas and Electric sold at 96 locally and from 96½ to 97 in New York.

Public Improvements.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP.)—Marked gains have been made this year in the construction of sewers, bridges, commercial and public buildings and in excavating projects, the volume of contract-letting in July alone being 34 per cent above the month's average for six years, the Engineering News-Record reports. Between January 1 and August 1 projected work reached a cumulative total of $3,194,895,000 against $3,343,127,000 for the corresponding period of 1926. There have been decreases in water works, streets, roads, industrial building and Federal Government construction.

Fairbanks Profit.

The net profit of the Fairbanks Co. and subsidiaries for the quarter ended June 30 was $15,692 against $65,419 for the same period last year. The six months' net was $79,120 against $141,695, and the quarter ended June 30 was $15,692 against 65,419 for the same period last year. The six months' net was $79,120 against $141,453 for the first half of 1926.

Class 1 Railroads.

The June net operating income of class 1 railroads was $87,363,547 against $107,393,604 in June, 1926. The six months' net was $472,611,062 against $490,506,414 for the first half of 1926.

Mid-Continent Oil.

The Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation and subsidiaries had a net profit for the first half of $4,884,985 against $6,516,884 for the corresponding period last year.

New Castle H. S. Building.

Among the proposed high school construction projects reported in the last week by the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily is the building planned for New Castle.

Northwest Crop Report.

The Northwest crop situation from Twin Cities to Puget Sound is encouraging, Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific Railroad reported after a 10,000-mile inspection trip. Yields of small grain will be above the average and the backward corn crop should mature with a late fall. The beet crop in Nebraska, Idaho and Montana is better than last year and that while apple production in Washington will be smaller, prices promise to be better.

National Lumber Report.

Reports received by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association from 348 softwood and 132 hardwood lumber mills indicate a slight expansion of business last week as compared with the preceding week.

Oil Field News

Production of crude oil by domestic subsidiaries of [illegible] in July established a new high, exceeding 1,599,808 barrels produced in May, the previous record, and [illegible] barrels. [illegible] for the second quarter was [illegible] barrels, a gain of [illegible] over the same period in 1926 [illegible] production of the first half represents an increase of [illegible] per cent over that during the first half of 1926.

Imperial Oil [illegible] well Dalhousie No. [illegible] in Turner Valley field, Alberta, Canada, has blown out [illegible] and has been flowing oil at intervals for days. The well was drilled into production two weeks ago with initial flow of about 400 barrels of 44 gravity oil from a [illegible] at [illegible] bottom of [illegible] formation at 4,125 feet.

In the week ended July 30 Venezuelan Oil Concessions, Ltd., produced [illegible] barrels of crude in Venezuela, against 161,291 barrels in the preceding week. British [illegible] Fields, Ltd., in the week ended [illegible] produced 46,163 barrels of crude in Venezuela and Trinidad, compared with [illegible] barrels in the preceding week.

Oil operators do not expect much development during the remainder of 1927 in the old Texas Coastal Louisiana fields due to [illegible] in West Texas and Seminole field. There has been a slackening up of "wildcatting" in all parts of Texas, but there are still scores of "wildcat" tests in the undeveloped sections being drilled in the constant search for oil.

Male Help Special.

MEN AMBITIOUS
EMPLOYED OR NOT MAKE MONEY IN SPARE TIME
$35 TO $75 WEEKLY.
THIS IS GENUINE, A REAL OPPORTUNITY

No matter what you are now doing, this work will not interfere with it. Perhaps you are like other men who are with us that desired to earn just a little more money weekly, bills piling up by the dozen or so "what nots" that make us all desire a little bigger pay check weekly.

IF SO

We have a place for you; we need white gentlemen of refinement, between 25 and 60 years of age, who are ambitious, honest and not afraid to do some interesting, congenial work that is not hard, either on full or part time.

WE DO NOT

Ask you to go out and sell anything or canvass. Anyone with just an average education can become successful with us. Plenty of opportunity for advancement. No Red Tape.

IF YOU

Want $35 to $75 extra every week, call up here and listen, then go to work. SOUNDS EASY. It is. (Notice) All applicants must call in person and in order to give the chap who is working a chance, we have arranged for personal interviews Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock (daylight saving time). Call in person only at the stated hour. All will be given full consideration either for full or part time work.

CALL FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 5TH, AT 8:30 O'CLOCK (DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME). PLEASE BE PROMPT. ROOM 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG.

WANTED—Experienced white cooks and girls for general housework. Squirrel Hill Employment Office. Hazel 3551.

Female Help Special.

LADIES-GENTLEWOMEN NEED EXTRA MONEY? CAN YOU SPARE 1 HOUR A DAY?

If so, you should investigate this advertisement. This is one of the most wonderful opportunities ever offered in the columns of this newspaper. If you desire, employment can be made permanent, or part time, if at present employed. Positions are genuine and are made possible because of enlargements and extension of our Pittsburgh offices. Earnings will delight the lady who is desirous of increasing her present income $35 to $75 weekly.

YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING

We require white ladies of refinement between the ages of 25 and 45. We prefer married ladies, but all honest applicants will be given utmost consideration. Work may be done at home and will in no way interfere with your present occupation. No business experience required and work can be done as easily by housewife as business woman. An answer to this ad will promptly convince you that the problem of extra money is solved. All payments weekly. We also have a few vacancies for gentlemen, and if husbands or brothers having spare time and are willing to work bring them with you. Call in person Friday evening, August 5th, at 8:30 o'clock.

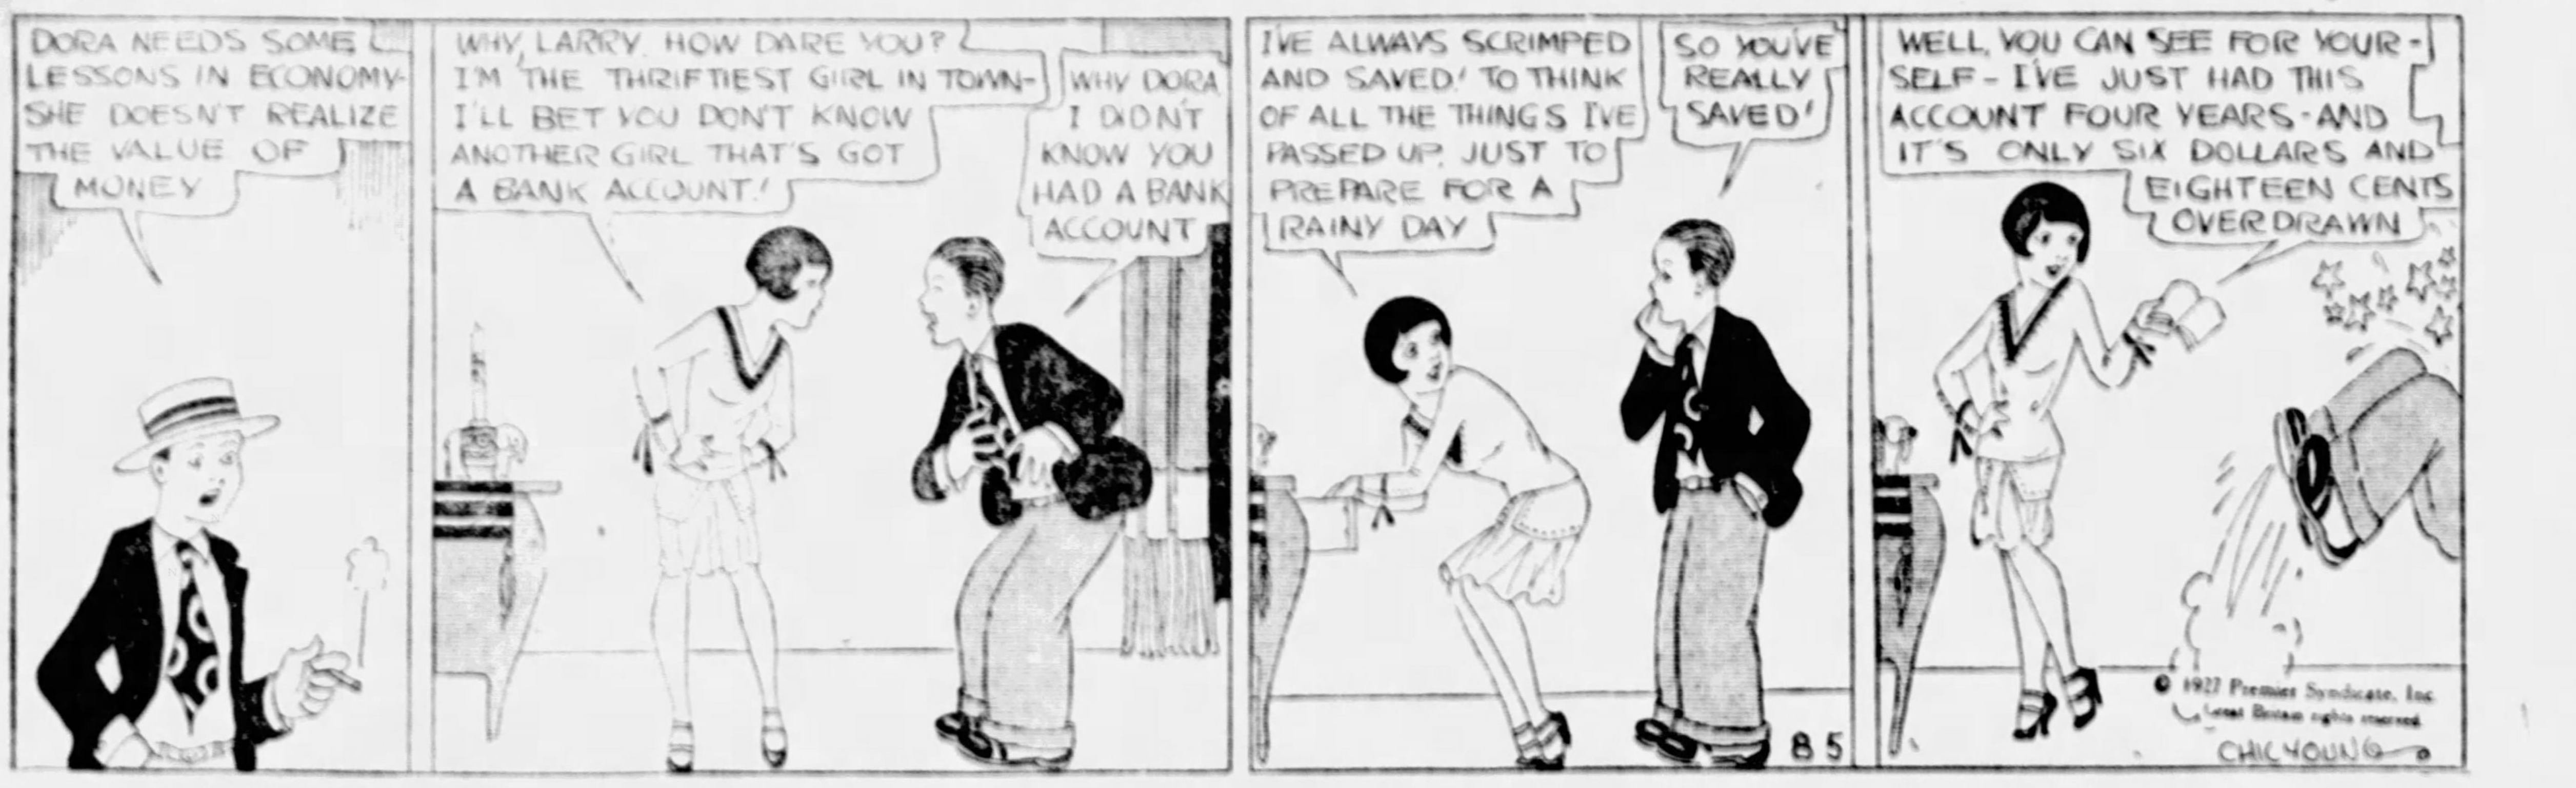
Very Economical



DORA NEEDS SOME LESSONS IN ECONOMY- SHE DOESN'T REALIZE THE VALUE OF MONEY
WHY, LARRY, HOW DARE YOU? I'M THE THRIFTIEST GIRL IN TOWN- I'LL BET YOU DON'T KNOW ANOTHER GIRL THAT'S GOT A BANK ACCOUNT!
WHY DORA I DIDN'T KNOW YOU HAD A BANK ACCOUNT
I'VE ALWAYS SCRIMPED AND SAVED! TO THINK OF ALL THE THINGS I'VE PASSED UP, JUST TO PREPARE FOR A RAINY DAY
SO YOU'VE REALLY SAVED!
WELL, YOU CAN SEE FOR YOUR-SELF - I'VE JUST HAD THIS ACCOUNT FOUR YEARS - AND IT'S ONLY SIX DOLLARS AND EIGHTEEN CENTS OVERDRAWN

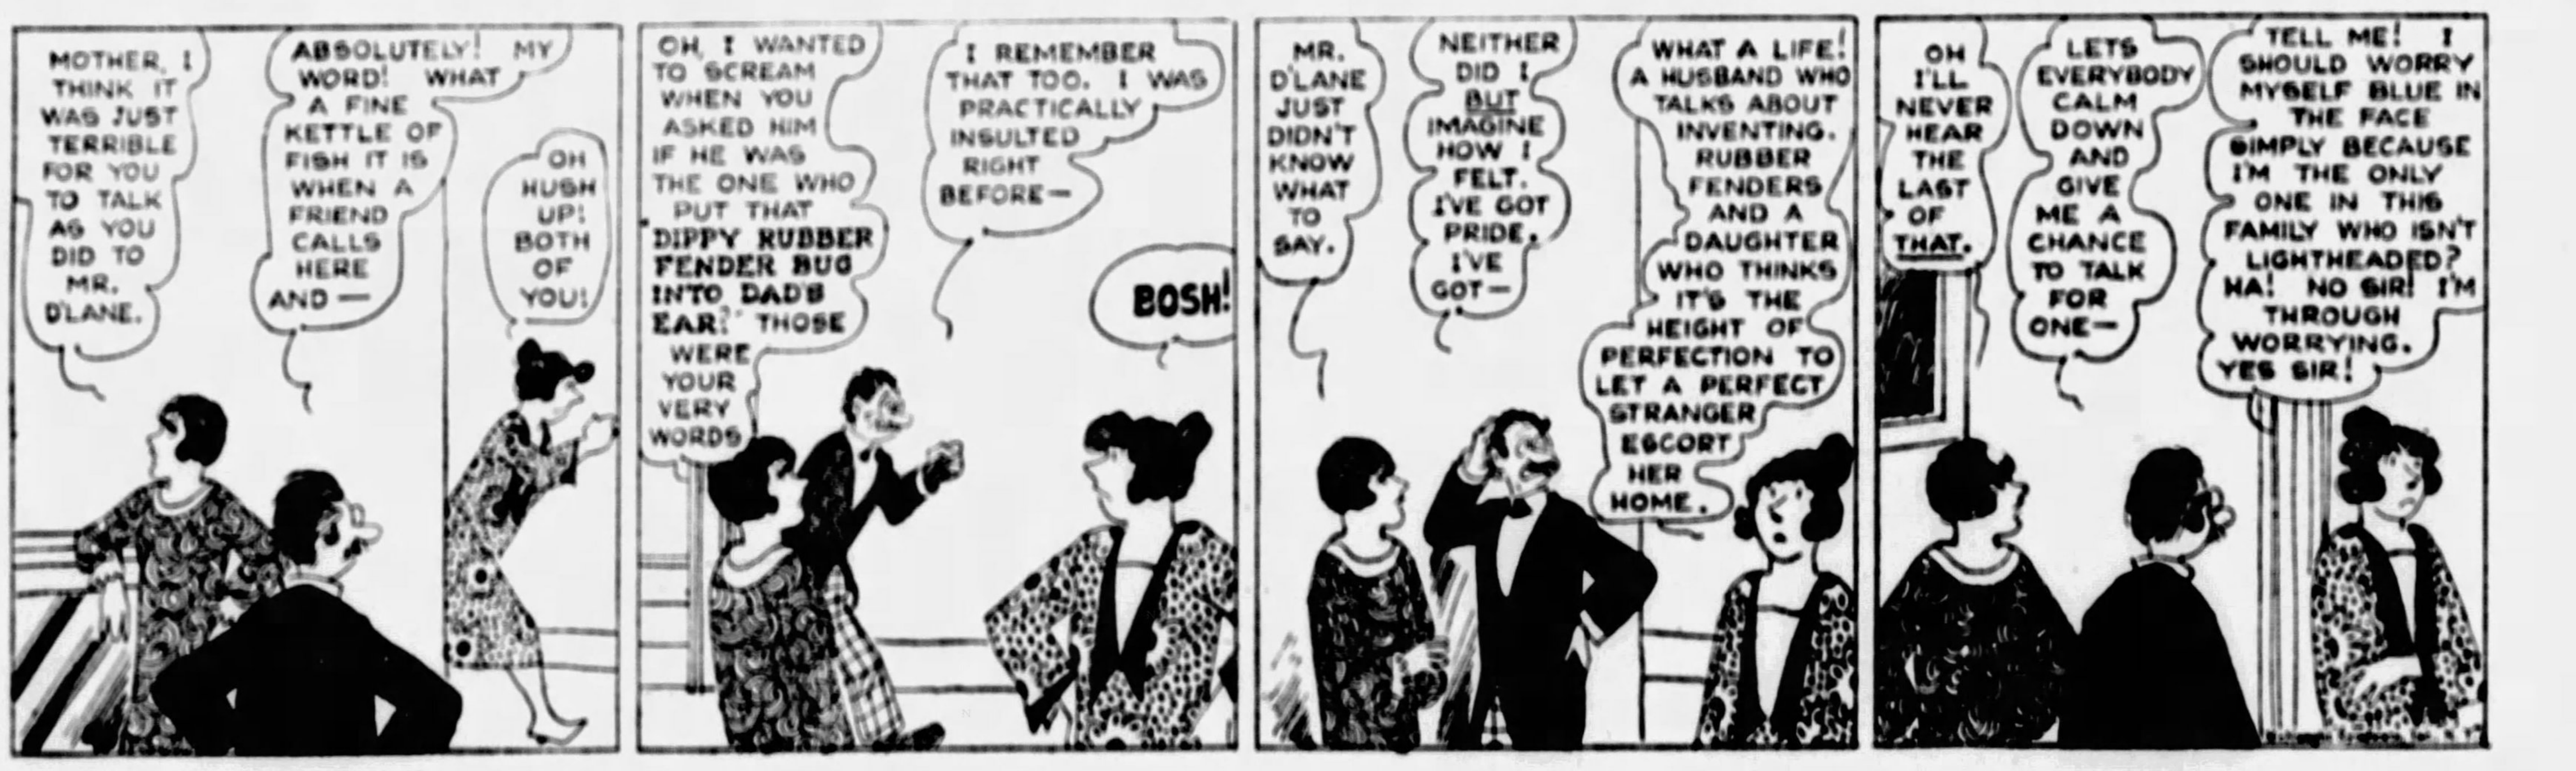
A Family Hurricane



MOTHER, I THINK IT WAS JUST TERRIBLE FOR YOU TO TALK AS YOU DID TO MR. D'LANE.
ABSOLUTELY! MY WORD! WHAT A FINE KETTLE OF FISH IT IS WHEN A FRIEND CALLS HERE AND—OH HUSH UP! BOTH OF YOU!
OH, I WANTED TO SCREAM WHEN YOU ASKED HIM IF HE WAS THE ONE WHO PUT THAT DIPPY RUBBER FENDER BUG INTO DAD'S EAR! THOSE WERE YOUR VERY WORDS
I REMEMBER THAT TOO. I WAS PRACTICALLY INSULTED RIGHT BEFORE—BOSH!
MR. D'LANE JUST DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY.
NEITHER DID I. BUT IMAGINE HOW I FELT. I'VE GOT PRIDE, I'VE GOT—
WHAT A LIFE! A HUSBAND WHO TALKS ABOUT INVENTING, RUBBER FENDERS AND A DAUGHTER WHO THINKS IT'S THE HEIGHT OF PERFECTION TO LET A PERFECT STRANGER ESCORT HER HOME.
OH I'LL NEVER HEAR THE LAST OF THAT.
LETS EVERYBODY CALM DOWN AND GIVE ME A CHANCE TO TALK FOR ONE—
TELL ME! I SHOULD WORRY MYSELF BLUE IN THE FACE SIMPLY BECAUSE I'M THE ONLY ONE IN THIS FAMILY WHO ISN'T LIGHTHEADED? HA! NO SIR! I'M THROUGH WORRYING. YES SIR!

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

NOTE—In recording the Auction, or the play, use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "N. T." for No Trump, "DBL" for double, "REDBL" for redouble.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 3. South is not deceived by West's false-card of the ten of Diamonds, knowing that North, if holding both the six and four of Diamonds, would have followed the Ace with the six instead of with the four. In order to force his partner to trump and drive out one of East's Heart honors, South leads a low Diamond. His plan succeeding, a trump trick is established in South's hand, giving him the needed fourth trick to save game.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

The Logical Question.

Nervously, and with many misgivings, a woman hailed a taxi.

"Now, driver," she cautioned, "you must be very careful. Don't go unless the policeman tells you, and don't drive fast in case the cab skids."

"All right, lady," replied the driver, "and if there's an accident is there any particular 'ospital you'd prefer?"—Weekly Scotsman.

A Different Angle.

"Never let no one man worry your mind," said the practical girl.

"I don't," replied the romantic one, "it's the dozen or so I have on the string that worry me. I have to manage somehow to keep them all satisfied."—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Stop by All Means.

Alice—Oh, doctor, they tell me these spots are caused by biting insects. What shall I do?

Cranford—Stop biting the insects.—Vancouver Province.

No Grudge Held.

"Hafa, tomorrow is our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary; hadn't we better kill a chicken?"

"Why punish a chicken for what happened 25 years ago?"—Detroit News.

Extra Time.

Ted—Do you have the five-day week at your place?

Ned—Not yet, but the prospects are good. The boss plays golf.—Detroit News.

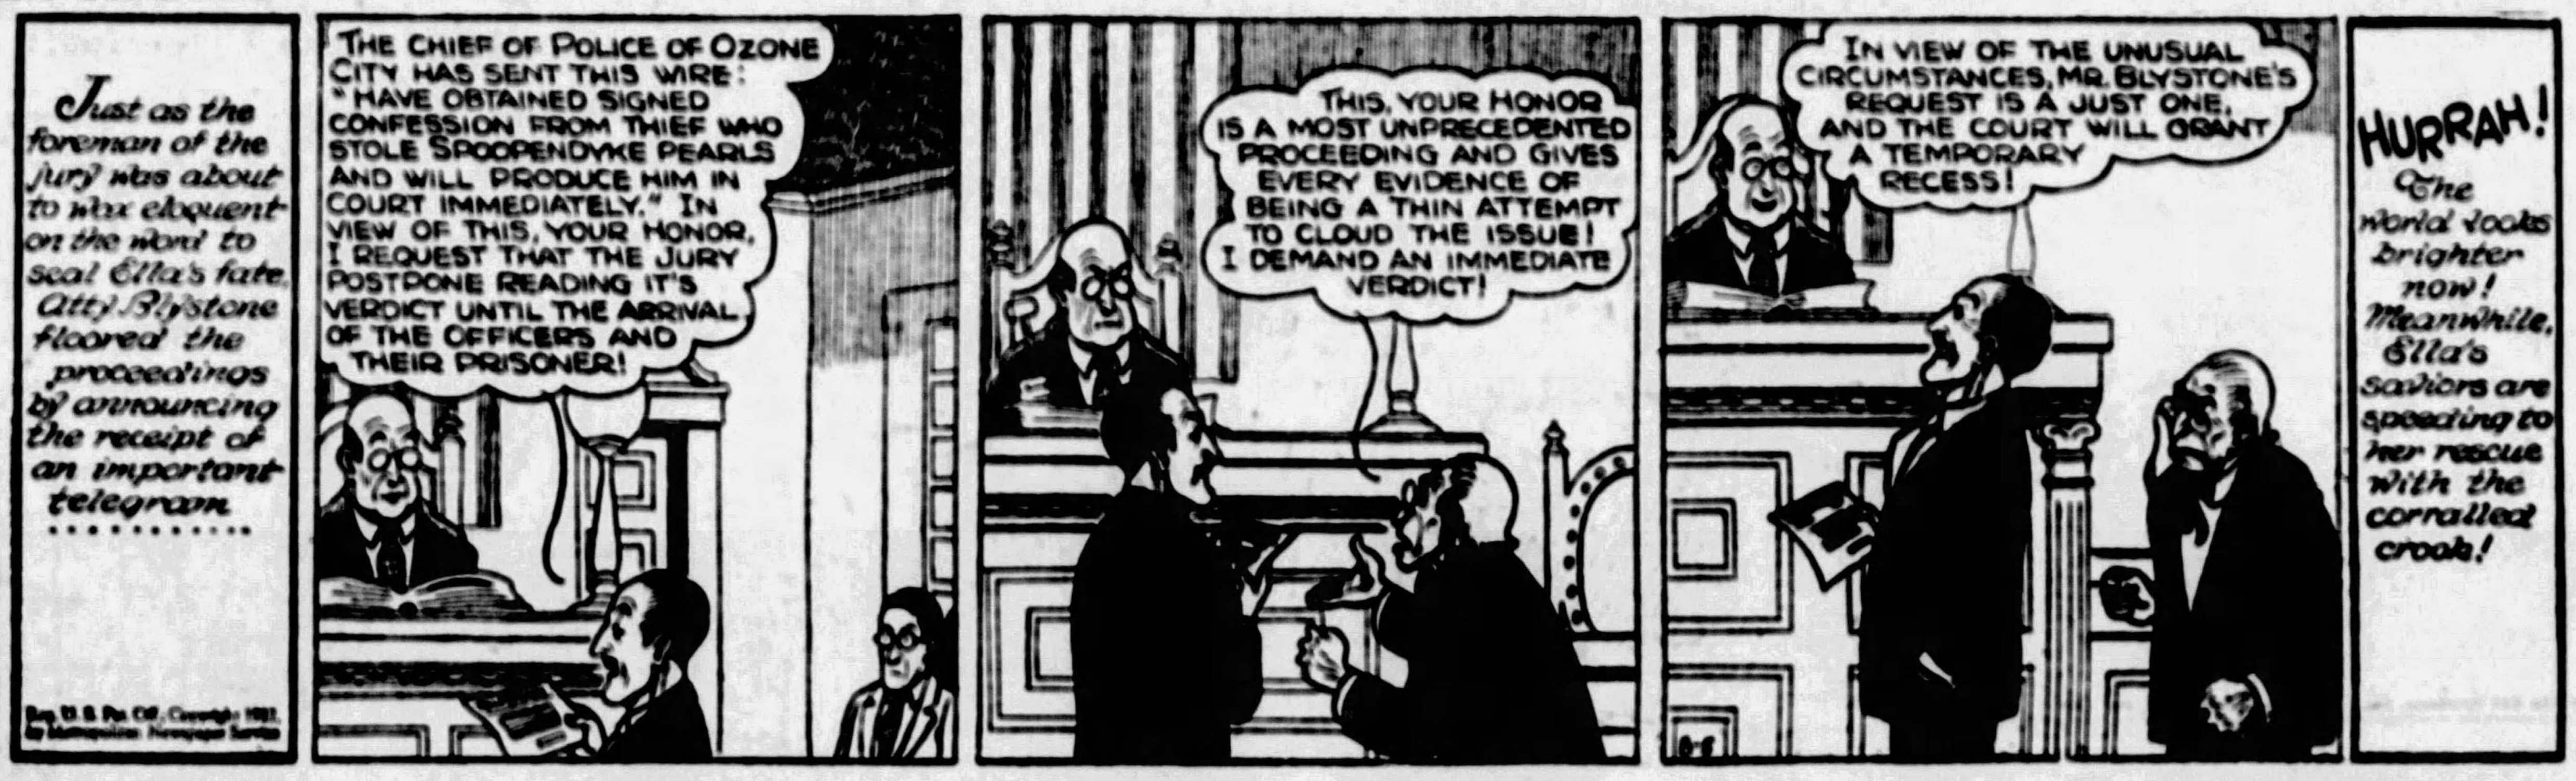
ELLA CINDERS

Please Hold Everything



Just as the foreman of the jury was about to wax eloquent on the word to seal Ella's fate, Atty. Blystone floored the proceedings by announcing the receipt of an important telegram..........
THE CHIEF OF POLICE OF OZONE CITY HAS SENT THIS WIRE: "HAVE OBTAINED SIGNED CONFESSION FROM THIEF WHO STOLE SPOOPENDYKE PEARLS AND WILL PRODUCE HIM IN COURT IMMEDIATELY." IN VIEW OF THIS, YOUR HONOR, I REQUEST THAT THE JURY POSTPONE READING IT'S VERDICT UNTIL THE ARRIVAL OF THE OFFICERS AND THEIR PRISONER!
THIS, YOUR HONOR IS A MOST UNPRECEDENTED PROCEEDING AND GIVES EVERY EVIDENCE OF BEING A THIN ATTEMPT TO CLOUD THE ISSUE! I DEMAND AN IMMEDIATE VERDICT!
IN VIEW OF THE UNUSUAL CIRCUMSTANCES, MR. BLYSTONE'S REQUEST IS A JUST ONE, AND THE COURT WILL GRANT A TEMPORARY RECESS!
HURRAH! The world looks brighter now! Meanwhile, Ella's saviors are speeding to her rescue with the corralled crook!

BOOK REVIEW

"Maurine" Is Epic of Heartbreak; Read It and Weep

"Should I speak and spread a ghastly pallor o'er the cheek now flushed with joy?"

IT is next to impossible to read from pages 63 to 103 in "Maurine" without sobbing. Therefore, let us gallop over those pages and come to an abrupt halt at page 104.

Remember that Maurine had counted eventually on being the wife of Vivian Dangerfield, when she suddenly realized that her dearest friend, Helen Trever—a house guest, at that—was also in love with this magnetic superman.

All is serene on the surface—but Maurine really felt like stuffing the lace curtain down her throat—or Helen's.

Then, suddenly, on page 104, we read—

"Maurine, Maurine, it's 10 o'clock, arise,
My pretty sluggard; open those dark eyes
And see where yonder sun is! Do you know
I made my toilet just four hours ago?"

Maurine finally gets up and Helen cries:

"You naughty girl! You should have stayed in bed
Until you ate your breakfast and felt better!
I've something hidden for you here—a letter."

What did the letter say? See tomorrow's American.

Prince of Wales Is Welcomed Cordially By This Continent

When the Prince of Wales lands anywhere on the American continent, he has a right to feel at home.

It does not make any difference whether he lands in New York or whether he lands in Quebec, as he did. There is no place from the Arctic Ocean to the Mexican border that would not take to its arms this prince of good fellows and apostle of good will.

appens that, this trip, he will do his traveling north of ible and almost non-existent line that separates Canada Inited States.

We hope that the prince will see, in the relations between this country and Canada, a symbol and type of relations which our uld like to see exist between the United States and the peaking members of the British commonwealth ,of ver three thousand miles of boundary between us and our northern neighbor there is no fort, no cannon, no soldier.

It is wholly inconceivable that Canada and the United States should ever be found on opposite sides of a conflict. Our interests, our aspirations, our ideals are the same.

On January 2, in a signed editorial, William Randolph Hearst launched the project of an organization of English-speaking nations to maintain the peace. He told England that such an alliance would mean more to her than the visionary advantages of the League of Nations. He said:

"The plan that I have in mind would exclude consideration of India, Egypt and such subject peoples, and would simply mean that the United States, Great Britain, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa would cooperate to insure peace among themselves and as far as possible, to maintain the peace of the world.

"It would not be an offensive alliance.

'It would not necessarily involve any aggressive acts.

"It would be an understanding, an agreement, a compact to prevent the parties to the agreement from making war among themselves, and to protect anyone and all of the parties to the agreement from the warlike aggression of others."

We again commend the proposal to the consideration of the prince and his advisers during his sojourn in Canada.

In the meantime may His Royal Highness enjoy to the full the welcome of the Canadian people, and may he gain health and refreshment in the great open spaces of the Canadian west, where even princes are men.

To Unite Flyers of the World In Brotherhood of Good Will

Ambassador Herrick, in his impassioned preface to Col. Lindbergh's book, after noting the almost miraculous change which the flight of "We" wrought in the feeling of the French people toward Americans, said:

"A nation which breeds such boys need never fear for its future."

Col. Lindbergh will be the first to admit that America has no monopoly in the breeding of such boys. Every nation with fliers has them. It is the nature of aviation to require and to evoke the best.

To fly successfully a young man must be strong, poised and clean. He cannot go through the sky, with its beauties and its perils, and remain petty.

Much has been thought about aviation's importance in war. It is a subject worthy of attention. But we need also to make fuller use of its great value as a contributor to good will and therefore peace.

Thousands of Lindys are available to knit the peoples of our planet into closer understanding and appreciation of each other.

All that is needed is to give the aviators better means of coming together. Wherever they meet and mingle, differences in speech, creed and race fade into secondary place in their in- ve sense of brotherhood. They are our peerless ambassa- f good will.

he International League of Aviators, with twenty-two sec- representing as many countries, each rapidly organizing, is ant attempt to provide facilities and stimulus for this fine of fellowship.

t proposes to establish them in all the lands and through promote kindlier relations.

he leader in this useful enterprise, Col. Clifford B. Harmon, lf a pioneer aeronaut and holder of notable records, can be d of cordial co-operation as rapidly as the merits of his se become known.

t is a pleasure for the Hearst newspapers to endorse and gly recommend this sane method of building good will among eoples.

Let's Be Shown

Dr. Tesla, "wizard of the wireless" and vivid imaginer, predicts that one day power will be sent wherever needed, without wires.

He envisages the air full of flying craft propelled by radio and directed at man's will.

He says he has already sent power by wireless half way around the world with a loss of only half of one per cent in transmission. He hopes to make the development of this experimental service his monument.

Man's usual reception of such prophecies is skeptical. He has flouted every epoch-making invention until it compelled him to believe.

In view of what has happened in the field of science within our lives, no promise should appear incredible.

But, like the breaking up of the atom, this plenitude of cheap power by radio will be accepted some time after it has been widely demonstrated.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.

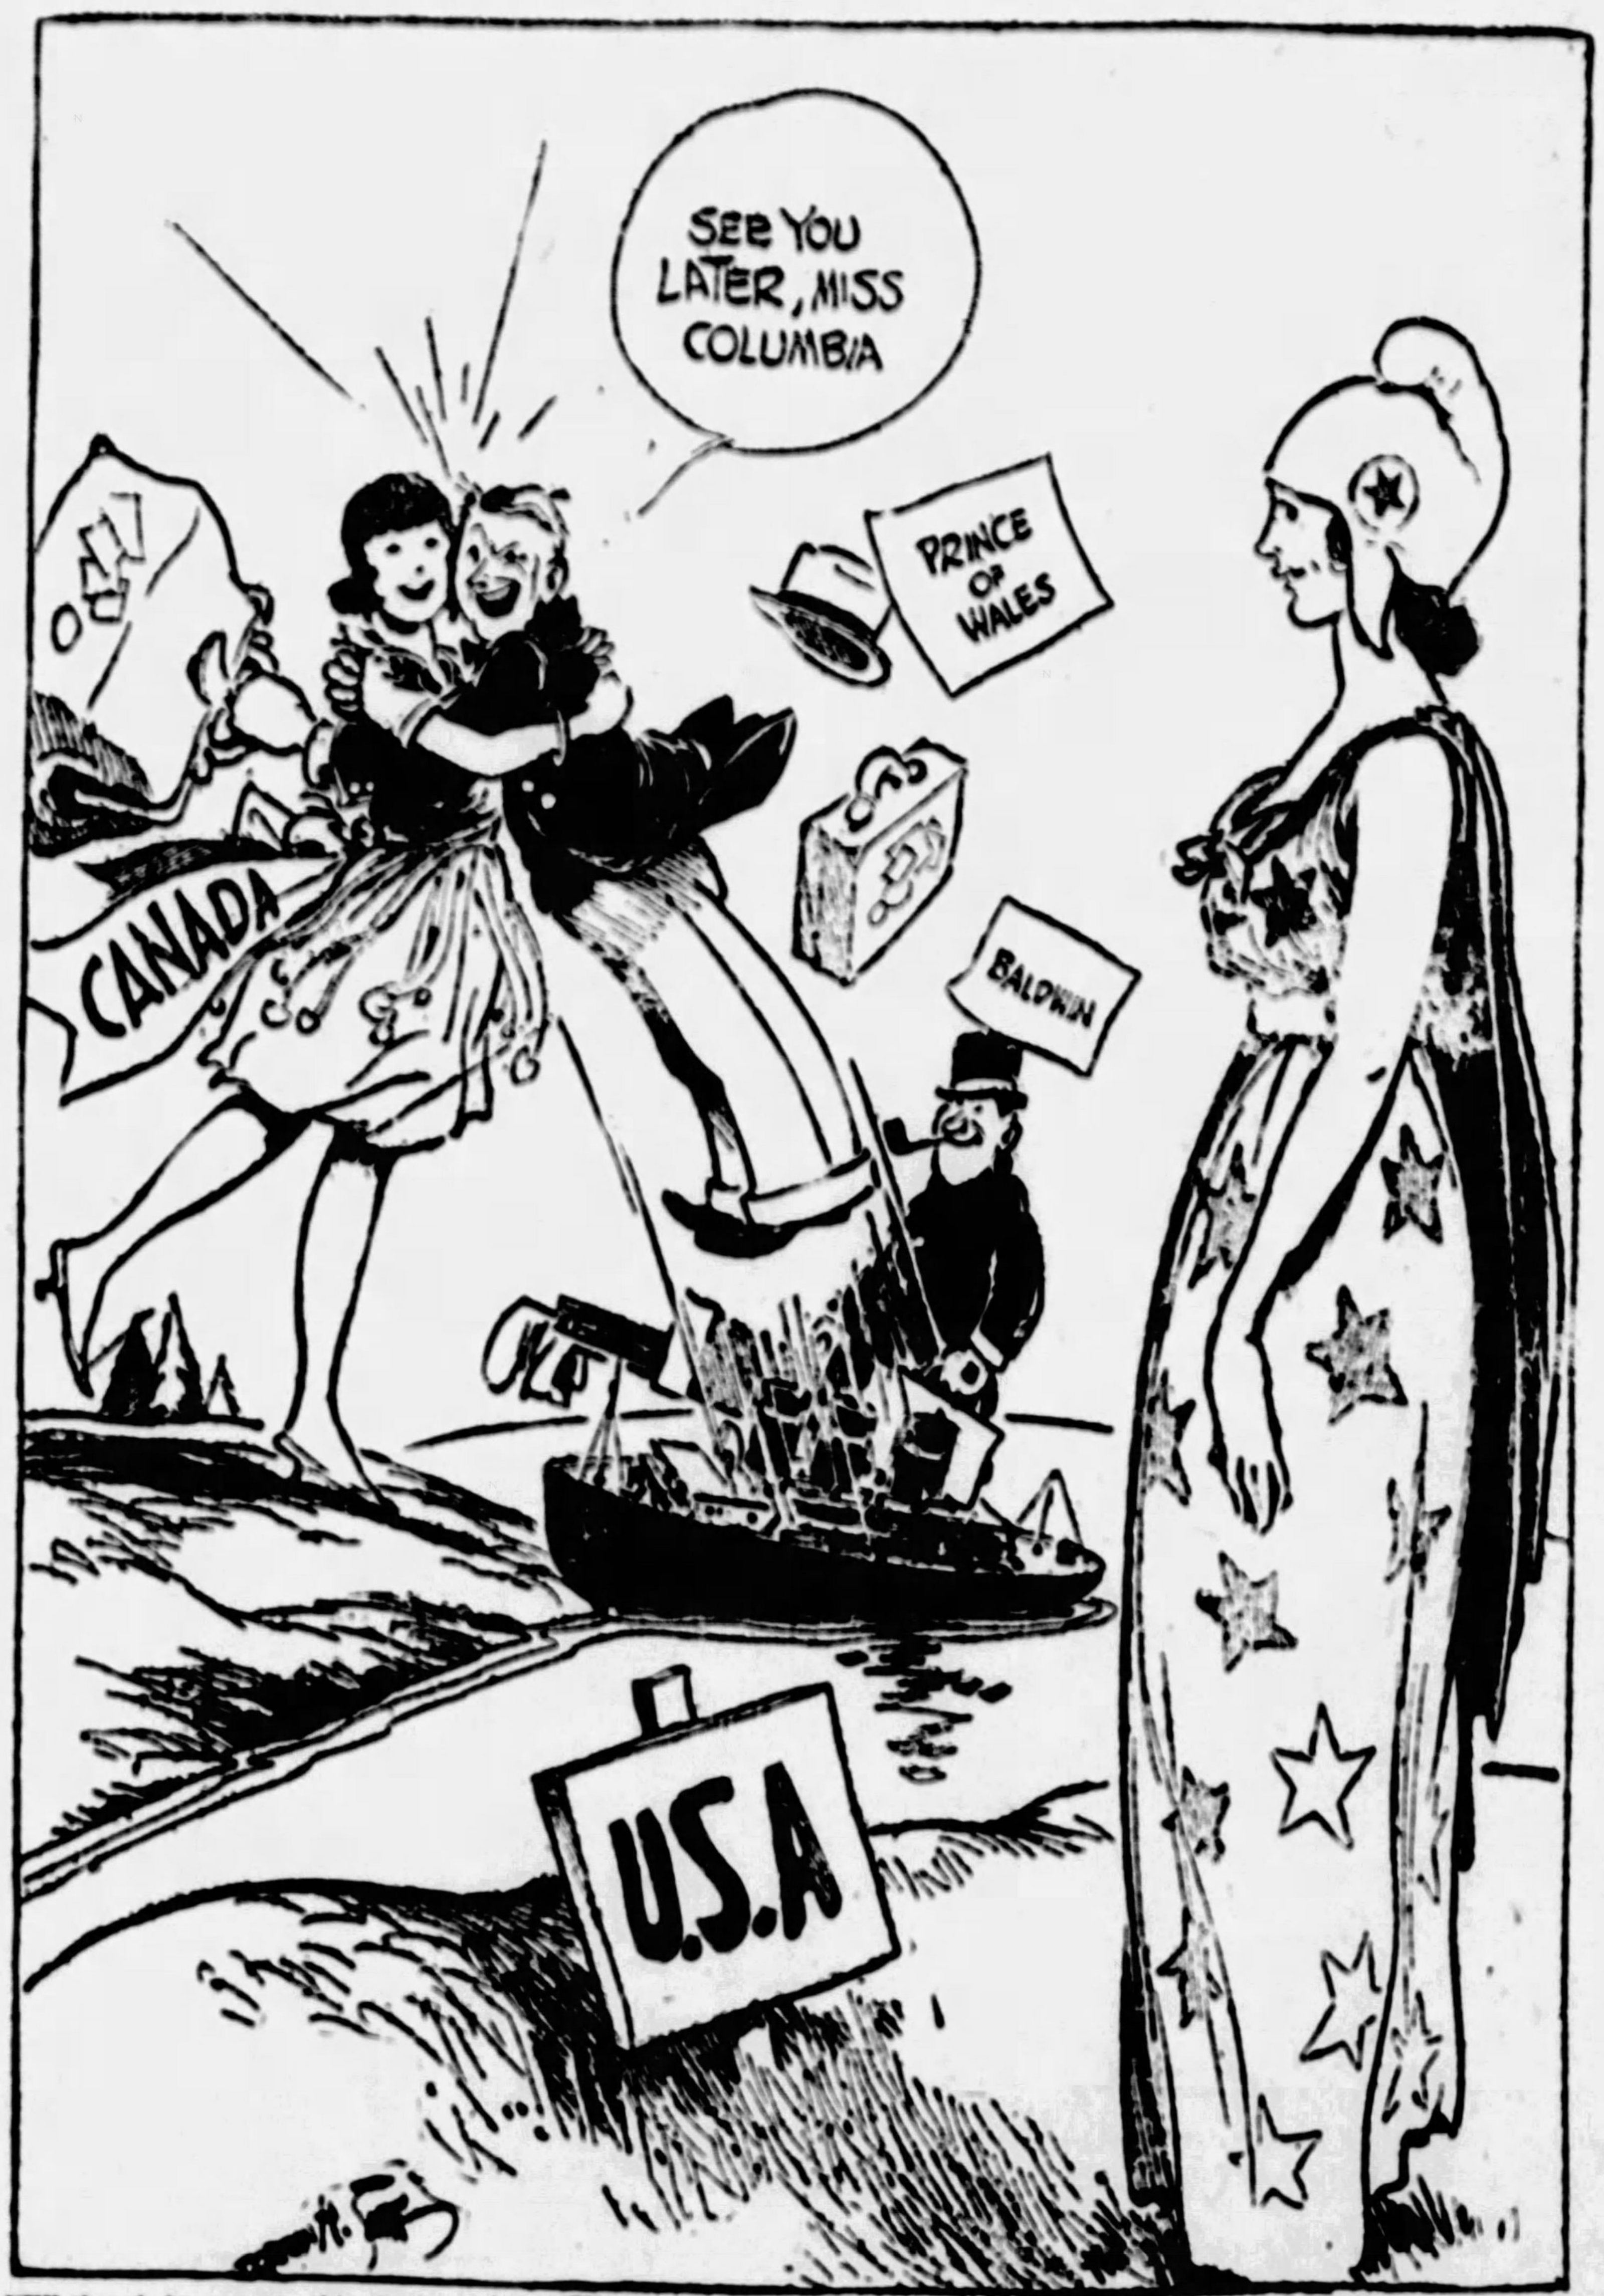
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.

3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.

4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.

5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

A WELCOME VISITOR



EVEN though he came to this continent for an outing in Western Canada, the Prince of Wales should not forget that Miss Columbia will always welcome him.

He cannot but see, in the relations between this country and Canada, a symbol of the type of relations which our people would like to have between the United States and the English-speaking members of the British commonwealth of nations.

Develop Poise Through Sports

DO YOU allow defeat in any games of sport in which you engage to nag your thoughts long afterward?

Deploring your own play or that of your partner is losing the spirit of enjoyment you should derive from your amusements.

By cussing and working yourself up to a nervous frenzy you lose the good effects you should gain physically.

Games are for fun and should help you gain physical and mental poise.

Poise is control—physical and mental—under all circumstances.

Worrying constantly over poor play robs your game of its spontaneous spirit of fun.

Your great desire to win is largely to blame.

This intense desire ties up your nerves and muscles and prevents your getting real benefit from your chosen sport.

Take the breaks in your game gracefully, without mental whimpering and don't carry disturbing thoughts home with you.

CHOICE

THIS is the choice every boy must make:
Which of two roads does he want to take,
Which of two types does he wish to be,
Leaner or Worker—the choice is free.
The road and the type are his own to say
But he mustn't wait long ere he starts away.

RESPECT is won by the uphill road,
Where there's seldom a servant to bear the load,
And the pleasures are few and the tasks are stern,
And the journey is slow for there's much to learn;
But the lad who chooses to go that way
Will have neighbors and friends and a name some day.

NOW the Leaner imagines that work's a curse
And he'd rather beg from a rich man's purse;
And he sometimes steals and he sometimes lies,
The world's opinion he oft defies;
But he winds up sooner or later in shame
Without neighbors or friends or a goodly name.

BOY, look at us all as we pass along,
Some of us happy and hale and strong,
Most of us working from day to day,
Giving our best for our rate of pay;
And some of us pitiful things to see,
Then make up your mind which you want to be.

(Copyright, 1927, Edgar A. Guest.)

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The greatly increasing automobile traffic in Teheran, the Persian capital, is compelling the authorities to modernize the thoroughfares and pull down the older buildings to widen the streets. Casualties from auto accidents in the streets are increasing daily. There are very few American cars in Persia. Horse traffic is now a rare sight in the Teheran streets.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Thoughts while strolling: Stationery stores offers: "Sling-shots for back yard cats." Art Young, the artist. Why do street sweepers wear mustaches? Those embarrassed men airing lap dogs. Theatrical troupers hopefully awaiting the first winter calls.

The private dwelling restaurants designated as "French." Pull door bells. Halls with red plush furniture, lump gilt mirrors and basement dining rooms. The lady known as Michael Strange. With her air of frozen reserve. Crowds looking down a cross street at a four funneled steamer outward bound.

Nothing sounds more pathetic than a bawling calf in a crate. Or as trifling as morning clatter in a bowling alley. A blind guitar player. The slim-legged girls with neatly shingled hair and slinky walks. As aloof as theatrical ticket agency clerks. Gene Fowler talking to Al Woods.

Tenement children cooling off in refrigerated movie lobbies. Lew Field's son—now a shrewd showman. The theater building boom seems over. A coatless street singer with red suspenders. Tall brush tourists in the observation busses hopefully waiting to go.

Starry-eyed couples drifting toward park benches. A noted violinist listening to a curb hawker. Who is selling chamoisskin complexion masks for ladies. Funny how most of us like to chat with policemen. A window cigarette roller with flamboyantly tattooed arms.

Pallid women who sell Birth Control tracts. And sheepish customers who buy and dart away like birds. Huge live turtles in front of a sea-food cafe. The painted girls in summery frocks around the entrances of shady hotels.

Furriers showing large muffs. Frank quick eatery sign: "Our food is for he-men—not cissies." In our town we spelled it with an initial "s." Hokey pokey ice cream now 10 cents a cake. Used to be a penny. And there is a sidewalk card writer.

Variety, the theatrical paper, has listed more than 100 rather celebrated artists of the stage, screen and vaudeville, who have recently made an effort to "come back" to a certain measure of former popularity. Not one achieved the desire. Many, however, were enthusiastically received, but it proved to be merely a spontaneous ovation and the box office pull was lacking. Once an artist drops out, it seems better to stage a comeback in an entirely new field. Amusement lovers are seeking the new and they have a feeling that there was something wrong with the old-timers or they would not have lost favor. Perhaps they are right.

In the Bowery lodging houses are many drifters known as "Come to Glory" men. For a livelihood they have drifted around the country on the heels of revivals, receiving $1 nightly and board for being among the first to lead the rush to the mourners' bench when the call came

Intelligence Tests

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Mrs. Susan B. Dorsey, superintendent of Los Angeles schools, and a bright woman, said the other day that: "An intelligence test does not measure intelligence but achievement.

"It does not measure brain matter nor brain capacity so much as brain opportunity," she continued. "It is a test of mental experience rather than mental ability."

This is the gist of the whole matter very admirably summed up by Mrs. Dorsey. The intelligence test is really a test of how sophisticated you are.

We have often wondered about these tests and have always believed that we were not dumb simply because we didn't know the capital of Afghanistan.

It is the same trouble with all examinations. They are really tests of what you have seen and heard, of your experience.

A man may have a very keen intellect and may not have traveled very much, nor seen many things, nor read many books. Keen minds and capable, well-balanced brains are as common out in the back woods as they are in the city. The city mind merely has the advantage of having been about more.

We place too much value upon mere knowledge, mere acquaintance with facts and mere familiarity with data. We overemphasize sophistication.

To be sure, experience is said to be the best teacher, but there is something also to be said for solitude and reflection. A man may gain adroitness and readiness by wide acquaintance and large experience, but it does not necessarily mean that he has any better brain.

The country boy who comes to the theater in the city and who gazes at everything with wide-open mouth and eyes may be getting a good deal more out of the show than his city cousin who is bored to death with it.

As a matter of fact, the commonest result of sophistication is boredness.

We have gone mad over mere knowledge, schools have made the mistake of thinking education is only the accumulation of facts. They are awakened to the truth that real education is training the mind how to think. It is not multiplying a man's tools, but increasing his skill.

The truly educated man is not one who knows an immense number of things, but the man whose mind is trained so that he knows where to find out about all sorts of things. It is better to be expert in consulting a dictionary and encyclopedia than it is to have a capacious memory.

The capacity of a man's intelligence or the dexterity of it is not measured by the extent of his fund of knowledge, but his ability to use that information.
